Appendix

Percentage of issuers involved in controversial sectors

Issuers operating in sectors deemed controversial (not "socially responsible"), to which restrictions or exclusions apply with respect to the entirety of the individual assets under management, are companies (i) that have a clear direct involvement in the manufacture of unconventional weapons; (ii) at least 25% of whose turnover is generated from thermal coal mining or power generation activities; (iii) at least 10% of whose turnover is generated from the exploitation of oil sands.
More specifically, unconventional weapons are understood as: anti-personnel mines; cluster bombs; nuclear weapons*; impoverished uranium; biological weapons; chemical weapons; stealth cluster bombs; blinding lasers; incendiary weapons; white phosphorus.
These provisions do not apply to the activities permitted by the following treaties and/or conventions:

- The Chemical Weapons Convention (1997) which prohibits the use, stockpiling, production and transfer of chemical weapons;
- The Biological Weapons Convention (1975) which prohibits the use, stockpiling, production and transfer of biological weapons;
- Regulation (EU) 2018/1542 concerning restrictive measures against the proliferation and use of chemical weapons;
These exclusions are also intended to comply with the requirements established by Law no. 220 of 9 December 2021 on measures to counter the financing of companies producing antipersonnel mines, cluster bombs and submunitions.
*With regard to exclusions on nuclear weapons, issuers based in states that have adhered to the "Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty" stipulated on 1 July 1968 are not considered.

Percentage of critical issuers

"Critical" issuers are those companies having a higher exposure to environmental, social and corporate governance risks, i.e. which have a lower ESG sustainability rating level (equal to "CCC" assigned by the specialized info-provider) in the equity and bond investment category and for which an escalation process has been activated, or is being assessed, which determines restrictions and/or exclusions with respect to the entirety of the individual assets under management ("ESG Binding screening").

Percentage of issuers selected on the basis of positive and negative criteria

The weighting of issuers that comply with the specific positive and negative selection criteria identified by the Product, i.e. (i) issuers of green/sustainable bonds and (ii) companies publicly engaged in the energy transition process, particularly through the progressive reduction in Scope 1 and Scope 2 emissions to reach climate neutrality by 2050 ("Net Zero" goal).

Percentage of assets in government issuers meeting the screening criteria

The weight of government issuers that meet the selection criteria defined on the basis of the indicators of the "Sustainable Development Report" and Regulation (EU) 2019/2088 to monitor the principal adverse impacts relating to government issuers.

Percentage of assets in ESG or sustainable investment type UCIs

This is understood as assets of UCITS that promote environmental and/or social characteristics pursuant to Article 8 of Regulation 2019/2088 or which pursue sustainable investment objectives pursuant to Article 9 of said Regulation.

Carbon footprint

The value represents tonnes of carbon dioxide (direct - Scope 1 and indirect - Scope 2) of the investee companies in relation to their turnover.

Sustainable investment

Weighting (i) of issuers with net positive alignment with at least 1 of the United Nations' 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) and no misalignment with any of the SDGs and (ii) of green, social and sustainability bonds.

Investment Manager Commentary

Market Development

April ended with a flat total return for the Euro high yield market despite a modest tightening of spreads. The market was penalised by movements in core government bond rates, which moved sharply higher during the month as monetary policy expectations were reassessed. Stronger than expected inflation and growth data in the US led the Fed to take a more cautious approach to the prospects of an imminent rate cut. At the conclusion of the FOMC meeting in mid-April, Chairman Powell reiterated that the Fed was in no hurry to cut rates and was waiting to gain more confidence that inflation was falling. The re-pricing of monetary policy expectations was therefore reflected first in the US Treasury curve and then, albeit to a lesser extent, in the European core curves, despite the existence of a more accommodative macroeconomic framework than in the US. In Europe, the continuation of the disinflationary trend seen in April helped to reinforce expectations of a first ECB rate cut at the June meeting. The rebound in European GDP data in the first quarter and the generally solid earnings season supported the spreads of European issuers, leading to a renewed narrowing of spreads. In fact, after peaking at 307 bps in the first half of April, European high yield spreads closed the month around 11 bps lower at 281 bps, despite higher volatility. In terms of rating classes, BB outperformed B (-14 bps) compared to B (-2 bps). The tightening of BB spreads was a positive contributor, offsetting the negative performance of the interest rate component. In the primary market, the high volumes were confirmed with more than EUR 10 billion of new issuance in April, bringing the year-to-date total to around EUR 36 billion. Finally, the synthetic market underperformed significantly over the period, with the Itraxx Xover index rising by around 20 basis points to 318, thanks to a return to volatility and the continued technical strength of bonds (scarcity effect), despite the recovery in the primary market.

Performance and Investment Choices

The Fund's performance was slightly negative over the month: the long Treasury position made a negative contribution which was not sufficiently offset by the good performance of the corporate bond positions, in particular the long real estate position, which was the best performing sector over the month. The contribution of the long position via the Itraxx Xover index was neutral. The Fund also participated selectively in the primary market.

Outlook and Investment Strategy

In the coming weeks, the Fund will continue to consider primary market participation and additional transactions will be evaluated to increase the returns of the portfolio. The positioning will be continuously re-evaluated in relation to evolving market risks.
