Calendar Year Performance

Monthly Commentary

In February, EM assets were flat with the blended benchmark gaining 0.2% over the month with no clear driver as the market continued to reprice Fed cuts.

H2O Multi Emerging Debt (I-USD) underperformed the blended benchmark by -1.91% in gross terms.

In fixed income (MtD -97bps gross vs. benchmark): The key negative contributor came from the local debt and the exposure to US duration as yields repriced higher and the US curve flattened. However, the hard-currency debt pillar outperformed thanks to HY sovereigns such as Egypt and Lebanon. Egypt signed an important investment deal with UAS which greatly alleviates concerns about external financing needs.

In currencies (MtD -87 bps gross vs. benchmark): EM currencies suffered as the USD continued to benefit from strong releases and the repricing of Fed cuts. The fund's diversified financing with short EUR block and short commodity currencies (CAD essentially) did not offset losses on the EM FX overweight.
