Market and Credit Risks
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>■ You are exposed to market risk. Value of the Sub-Fund's investments could decrease due to movements in financial markets.</li> <li>■ You are exposed to credit risk. The issuer of fixed-income securities held by the Sub-Fund may default on its obligation and the Sub-Fund may not recover its investment. The Sub-Fund may be exposed to a higher level of credit risk due to the use of credit default swaps (CDS).</li> <li>■ You are exposed to interest rate risk. When interest rates decline, the market value of fixed-income securities tends to increase, and conversely. Product-Specific Risks
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>■ You are exposed to exchange risk. The Sub-Fund's investments may be made or hedged in other currencies than its base currency. Consequently, you may be exposed to a variation of the exchange rates of the currencies</li> </ul> to which the Sub-Fund is exposed. Where a systematic hedging is implemented, a residual currency risk may exist due to the imperfection of the hedging.

- You are exposed to management and investment strategy risk. The Sub-Fund may seek to generate performance by making forecasts on the evolution of certain markets compared to others through arbitrage strategies. These anticipations can be erroneous and cause a performance lower than the objective of management.
- You are exposed to risks attached to transactions into FDIs. The Sub-Fund may engage in various strategies to reduce certain risks and/or attempt to enhance return, including the use of FDIs such as options, warrants, swaps and/or futures. Such strategies might be unsuccessful and incur losses due to market conditions. Additional specific risks include the risk of mispricing or improper valuation and the risk that FDIs may not correlate perfectly with underlying assets, interest rates and indices. As FDIs may be used to achieve the investment objective, the level of risk might be increased in some cases.
- You are exposed to risks relating to distributions of dividends. Dividend/interest income and capital gains received by the Sub-Fund may be adversely affected by (amongst others) investee entities suffering unexpected losses and/or paying lower than expected dividends. Where dividend/interest income and/or capital gains are insufficient, distributions may be made out of capital, which may amount to a reduction of part of your original investment and may result in reduced future returns to you. Payment of distributions (whether out of dividend/interest income, capital gains, capital or otherwise) may have the effect of lowering the relevant Share Class's NAV.
