3. Economic information

Use of income

The income generated by the segments is continually reinvested pursuant to clause 1 "Key fund data".

Taxes

With investment companies there is a distinction made between the share capital and the income of the fund management company on one hand and the fund assets on the other hand. The share capital and the income of the fund management company are liable to the ordinary tax on capital and income (tax on capital is 0.20 percent, tax on income is between 7.5 and 15 percent with issue markup of up to 5 percent), distributions on founders' shares are liable to a coupon tax (4 percent).

The invested assets of an investment fund are tax-exempt. No coupon tax is charged on distributions.

The issue of founder's shares in the investment company with variable capital (AGmVK) is not subject to stamp duty, nor is the issue of investor units in the individual segments. The transfer of ownership of fund units against payment is subject to stamp duty if a party or intermediary is a domestic securities dealer³.

Investors domiciled in the Principality of Liechtenstein must declare their units as assets. Any income distributed by a particular segment is treated as investment income and is thus exempt from sales tax. Any capital gain realized on selling units is subject to sales tax.

For all segments, a Liechtenstein paying agent can be obliged to charge a withholding tax in respect of certain interest payments by the fund to natural persons with their tax domicile in an EU member state, both in the case of distributions and also the sale or redemption of units (EU taxation of interest income). Where applicable, a Liechtenstein paying agent can subject to explicit instruction from the authorized person participate in a reporting procedure instead of charging the withholding tax.

The Investment Company and the segments are not subject to any other taxes at source in the Principality of Liechtenstein, and in particular not to any withholding tax. Foreign income and capital gains generated by the Investment Company and the segments may be subject to applicable withholding tax deductions in the investment country in question. Any double taxation agreements continue to apply. This tax information is based on the current legal situation and practice. It is subject to changes in legislation, the decisions of the courts and the ordinances and practices of the tax authorities.

The taxation and other tax implications for investors who hold, buy or sell units are defined by the tax laws and regulations in the investor's country of domicile, and in particular in connection with the EU tax on interest income also the country of domicile of the paying agent. Investors are advised to consult their own professional advisor regarding the applicable tax implications. Neither the Investment Company, the Custodian Bank nor their agents can accept any responsibility for individual tax consequences that may arise as a result of the investor buying, selling or holding units.

Costs

The maximum issuing and redemption commissions, the maximum conversion commission for all unit classes as well as other costs charged to the investor or the Fund can be found under clause 1 "Key fund data".

³ In accordance with the customs enclave agreement between Switzerland and Liechtenstein, Swiss stamp duty law also applies in Liechtenstein. Under Swiss stamp duty legislation, the Principality of Liechtenstein is therefore regarded as being domestic. For this reason, Liechtenstein funds are deemed to be investors exempt from stamp duty.
