Risk profile

The Prospectus of the Company contains an elaborate description of several risks in both the general part of the Prospectus, and, especially, in the Sub-Fund Particulars, which relate specifically to the relevant Sub-Fund.

The most relevant risks of the Company and its Sub-Funds are also identified in the PRIIPs-KIDs relating to the relevant Sub-Fund. In addition, the AFM requires that a number of additional risks is defined, to the extent that they are relevant.

General risks

- Returns on investments are subject to fluctuation. They may be higher but also lower than in the past. They may also be negative. However, you can never lose more than your investment.
- The performance of the Shares in the Sub-Funds depends on developments on the capital, securities, currencies and commodities markets. It is possible that your investment will increase in value; however, it is also possible that your investment will generate little or no income or that your investment may be lost in whole or in part due to adverse price developments.
- More specifically, the performance of the Shares in the Sub-Funds depends on developments in the microfinance market in the case of Triodos Microfinance Fund and in the (sustainable) energy market in the case of Triodos Emerging Markets Renewable Energy Fund.
- The return on investment may be affected by inflation.
- The Sub-Funds have a semi open-ended structure. Because the Sub-Funds are mainly invested in illiquid assets and their cash positions are limited, a situation could arise in which it is decided that (one of) the Sub-Funds will (temporarily) limit or suspend the purchase or issue of Shares.
- There is the risk that assets given in custody are lost due to insolvency, negligence or fraudulent actions of the custodian.

- Finally, you should take into account the fact that general, financial and tax laws and regulations are subject to change, and that a favourable condition at the time of introduction may turn into an unfavourable condition.

Epidemics/pandemics/outbreaks risk

epidemics, pandemics or outbreaks of communicable diseases. In response to intensifying efforts to contain epidemics, pandemics or outbreaks of communicable diseases, governments around the world may take a number of actions, such as prohibiting residents' freedom of movement, encouraging or ordering employees to work remotely from home, and banning public activities and events, among others. Any prolonged disruption of businesses could negatively impact financial conditions. Information about compensation for losses arising from the incorrect calculation of the Net Asset Value

With respect to the protection of Shareholders in case of Net Asset Value calculation error and the correction of the consequences resulting from non-compliance with the investment rules applicable to the Company, the Company intends to comply with the principles and rules set out in Circular CSSF 02/77, 'Protection of investors in UCI's in case of Net Asset Value computation error and compensation for losses arising from non-compliance with applicable investment restrictions', as amended or restated from time to time (Circular), subject to the different tolerance threshold applicable for Net Asset Value calculation errors.

Concept of materiality in the context of Net Asset Value computation errors

It is generally acknowledged that the Net Asset Value computation process is not an exact science and that the result of the process is the closest possible approximation of the actual market value of a UCI's assets. It is accepted practice in the majority of leading fund administration centres to recognise only those computation errors with a material impact on the Net Asset Value. The circular introduces the concept of materiality to Luxembourg UCI's and sets the acceptable tolerance limits for the different types of funds. This differentiated approach is warranted by the fact that the degree of inaccuracy inherent in a given Net Asset Value computation may vary from one type of UCI to another due to external factors such as market volatility. The acceptable tolerance limits differ for the different types of UCI's. For mixed UCI's (applicable to Triodos Microfinance Fund and Triodos Emerging Markets Renewable Energy Fund), this is 0.5% of the Net Asset Value.

A material error may not just be an isolated error but also several errors, which in aggregate exceed the materiality limit. The obligation to compensate losses applies only to those Valuation Dates affected by a material Net Asset Value computation error.

Corrective action for material Net Asset Value computation errors

I. Reporting to the promoter, depositary, CSSF and external auditor

Immediately upon discovery of a material error, the UCI's central administration must notify the promoter, depositary, the CSSF and the external auditor and submit to the promoter and supervisory authority a remedial action plan dealing with the corrective action proposed or already taken to resolve the problems which caused the error and make appropriate improvements to existing administrative and control structures to avoid a recurrence of the failure.

II. Quantifying the financial impact of a computation error

The central administration must remedy the error as swiftly as possible.

For the purpose of quantifying the financial impact of a computation error, the UCI's central administration shall make a distinction between:

- existing investors prior to the error period who redeemed during the error period;
- new investors during the error period who held their Shares/units beyond the end of the error period.

The following gives an overview of the position of a UCI and its investors where the Net Asset Value is understated or overstated:

(i) Net Asset Value understated

In such cases:

- existing investors before the error period who redeemed their Shares/units during the error period must be compensated for the difference between the recomputed Net Asset Value and the original understated Net Asset Value used as the basis for their redemption transaction;
- the UCI must be compensated for the difference between the re-computed Net Asset Value and the original understated Net Asset Value as applied to subscriptions during the error period for Shares/units held beyond the end of the error period.

(ii) Net Asset Value overstated

In such cases:

- the UCI must be compensated for the difference between the original overstated Net Asset Value as applied to redemptions during the error period of Shares/units held prior to the error period and the re-computed Net Asset Value;
- new investors during the error period who held their Shares/units beyond the end of the error period must be compensated for the difference between the original overstated Net Asset Value as applied to such subscriptions and the re-computed Net Asset Value.

Investors incurring a loss as a result of an error may be compensated out of the assets of the UCI where such payments represent the refund of excess receipts by the UCI. Alternatively, the UCI's promoter or central administration may, as appropriate, elect to bear the cost of such compensation. The question arises as to whether a UCI which has sustained a loss as a result of a computation error has the right to look to investors who have unknowingly benefited from the error to make good after the fact any underpayment for a subscription based on an understated Net Asset Value or any excess receipt from a redemption based on an overstated Net Asset Value. As this is a somewhat controversial issue to which no clear answer may be given in the absence of a judicial ruling on the matter, the circular does not advocate recourse to investors for compensation of losses sustained by the UCI, except where institutional or other expert investors are concerned, and where such investors have explicitly and knowingly agreed to indemnify the UCI for such losses. It is in principle for the central administration, or, as appropriate, the promoter to make good any loss to the UCI. As soon as the misstated Net Asset Values have been re-computed the appropriate accounting entries must be entered in the UCI to record the compensation payments receivable and/ or payable.

III. Compensation of losses incurred by the UCI and/or its investors

The obligation to compensate losses applies only to those Valuation Dates affected by a material Net Asset Value computation error. The UCI's central administration must expedite the compensation payments to the UCI and/or the injured investors subject to completion of the external auditor's review. In order to speed up the correction process the UCI's central administration may begin work on the various steps involved without prior authorisation of the CSSF who may be kept informed of action taken after the event. Where, as a result of a Net Asset Value computation error the amount of compensation does not exceed EUR 25,000 and the amount payable to an investor does not exceed EUR 2,500, the central administration must expedite the release of the amounts of compensation due to the fund and/or injured investors as soon as such amounts of compensation have been quantified.

The CSSF may, however, intervene if it deems it appropriate. In the majority of leading collective investment centres, fund managers are permitted by the supervisory authority to apply 'de minimis' (minimum amount) rules to compensation amounts due to individual investors. This procedure avoids the situation of investors who are entitled to relatively modest amounts of compensation seeing the payment effectively nullified by bank and other expenses incurred by them. Luxembourg UCIs are permitted to apply 'de minimis' rules. The CSSF has not set a fixed 'de minimis' as the appropriate amount may vary from UCI to UCI depending upon where its Shares/units are sold. It is for each UCI to set, with the consent of the CSSF, its proposed 'de minimis'. The 'de minimis' rule may not be used to refuse compensation to investors who have specifically requested compensation.

In the case of investors who still hold Shares/units in the UCI, the UCI may elect to credit them (without charge) with new Shares/units rather than by payment. Where injured investors subscribed via a nominee, the investor compensation, will be remitted to the nominee, who shall give an undertaking to the UCI's central administration to forward the amounts to the beneficial owner.

IV. Communicating with injured investors entitled to compensation

Material computation errors must be reported to investors entitled to compensation. This may be either by individual notification or announcement in the press, giving particulars of the computation error and the action taken to correct the error and compensate the UCI and/or investors affected.

V. Liability for expenses incurred in remedying a computation error

Expenses incurred as a result of remedial action taken to correct a computation error, including the cost of the special audit report, shall not be borne by the UCI. They shall therefore be borne in full by the UCI's central administration or by the UCI's promoter. It is the duty of the external auditor to ensure, as part of his statutory review of the accounting information contained in the UCI's annual report, that such expenses have not been met out of the assets of the UCI.

Taxation

General

A brief explanation will be given below of the most relevant tax aspects of investing in the Sub-Funds, based on the current Luxembourg and Dutch tax legislation as interpreted in published case law and / or official publications of the relevant tax authority, without prejudice to any amendments introduced at a later date and implemented with or without retroactive effect.

The explanation will not extend to specific tax schemes that may be applicable to Shareholders. Moreover, no conclusions may be drawn from the following text regarding subjects that are not specifically addressed. Because a Shareholder's tax position depends on his specific circumstances and because the explanation below is based on the tax laws and regulations applicable at the date of issue of the Prospectus, it is recommended that buyers and prospective buyers seek professional tax advice.

SICAV

The Company is governed by the Luxembourg tax system, which means that it is not liable to any Luxembourg tax on corporate income. Similarly, Luxembourg does not withhold any tax on capital gains or dividend distributions on the Shares in the Sub-Funds. Triodos Emerging Markets Renewable Energy Fund is subject to an annual Luxembourg national registration tax (0.05% of the Sub-Fund's Net Assets). Capital gains, dividends and interest received from the projects in which the Sub-Funds have invested may be subject to tax raised by the country of origin.

Shareholders

Private individuals residing in the Netherlands

This summary does not describe the Netherlands tax considerations for individual (deemed) Dutch resident holders of Shares:

- (i) who have an enterprise or an interest in an enterprise to which the Shares are attributable; or
- (ii) who are considered to perform activities with respect to the Shares that exceed regular asset management ("normaal vermogensbeheer"); or
- (iii) who have a substantial interest ("aanmerkelijk belang") in the Sub-Fund. In general, a Shareholder is considered to have a substantial interest in the Sub-Fund, if he, alone or together with his partner (a statutory defined term) or certain other related persons, directly or indirectly, has (i) an interest of 5% or more of the total issued capital of the Sub-Fund or of 5% or more of the issued capital of a certain Class of Shares of the Sub-Fund, (ii) rights to acquire, directly or indirectly, such interest or (iii) certain profit sharing rights in the Sub-Fund.

In case the abovementioned situations under (i), (ii) and (iii) do not apply to an individual (deemed) Dutch resident Shareholder in the Sub-Fund, the Shares held by this Shareholder fall under the regime of box 3 (income from savings and investments) of the Dutch Income Tax Act 2001 ("Wet inkomstenbelasting 2001").

The taxable income from savings and investments is set at a progressive rate over the yield basis at the beginning of the calendar year 2020 ("de peildatum"). The yield basis is the value of the assets to be taken into account in box 3, including the Shares, less the value of the liabilities to be taken into account in box 3. The applicable tax rate is 30% and is calculated over the progressive rate of the yield basis. The rate depends on the applicable scale and amounts 1.789% on the first scale (up to EUR 72,798), 4.185% on the second scale (between EUR 72,798 and EUR 1,005,573) and 5.28% on the third scale (EUR 1,005,573 and more). Actual income derived from the Shares will not be taken into account in box 3.

A liability for tax in box 3 will arise only if the yield basis exceeds the applicable exempt amount ("heffingsvrij vermogen"), which is EUR 30,846 (for 2020). In case a Dutch resident individual has a partner (statutory defined term), the partners can choose to allocate their yield basis between them at random. An exempt amount of EUR 61,692 (for 2020) can be applied to the joint box 3 yield basis of the partners. A 'partner' will in any event be a spouse who is not living apart on a long-term basis. In some circumstances, unmarried adults living together may choose to be regarded as partners within the meaning of the Wet inkomstenbelasting 2001.

Legal entities resident in the Netherlands

In the description of the following Dutch tax aspects for legal entities resident in the Netherlands, it is assumed that the legal entities have not been subjectively exempted from corporation tax and are not regarded as investment companies for tax purposes.

Dutch Corporate income tax

Dividends received from the shareholding by the entity resident of the Netherlands for Dutch tax purposes (Dutch entity) should in principle be subject to a Dutch corporate income tax rate of 16.5% over the first EUR 200,000 of profits and 25% over the excess (for 2020). If the Shares of the shareholding are disposed, the capital gains realised by the Dutch entity should be taxable at the statutory Dutch corporate income tax rate.

Any losses upon disposal of the shareholding should be deductible for Dutch corporation tax purposes. The participation exemption may in principle be applied by the Dutch entity if a percentage of 5% or more of the nominal paid-up capital of the company is held, provided that all other requirements of the Dutch participation exemption have been met. The Dutch participation exemption exempts income such as dividends, capital gains and losses derived from the shareholding.

Assurance report of the independent auditor

With respect to the examination based on section 115x, subsection 1e of the Decree on the Supervision of the Conduct of Financial Undertakings pursuant to the Act on financial supervision

To: the board of directors of Triodos SICAV II

Assurance report on the prospectus

Our opinion

In our opinion, the prospectus and the additional information of Triodos SICAV II, Luxembourg, 4 February 2021 (hereafter: the prospectus) contains, in all material respects, at least the information required by the 'Wet op het financieel toezicht' (Wft, Act on financial supervision) to be included in the prospectus.

What we have examined

We have been engaged, pursuant to section 115x, subsection 1e of the 'Besluit gedragstoezicht financiële ondernemingen Wft' (BGfo Wft, Decree on the Supervision of the Conduct of Financial Undertakings pursuant to the Act on financial supervision) to provide assurance on the content of the prospectus of Triodos SICAV II (hereinafter: an alternative investment fund). Within this context, we have only examined whether the prospectus dated 4 February 2021 at least contains the information as required for an alternative investment fund, pursuant to the Wft.

The basis for our opinion

We have conducted our examination in accordance with Dutch law, including Dutch Standard 3000A 'Assurance engagements other than audits or reviews of historical financial information (attest engagements)'. This engagement is aimed at providing reasonable assurance. Our responsibilities under this standard are further described in the section 'Our responsibilities for the examination' of our report.

We believe that the assurance information we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.

Independence and quality control

We are independent of the alternative investment fund in accordance with the 'Verordening inzake de onafhankelijkheid van accountants bij assuranceopdrachten' (ViO, Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants, a regulation with respect to independence) and other relevant independence requirements in the Netherlands. Furthermore, we have complied with the 'Verordening gedrags- en beroepsregels accountants' (VGBA, Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants, a regulation with respect to rules of professional conduct'). We apply the 'Nadere voorschriften kwaliteitssystemen' (NVKS, Regulations for quality systems) and accordingly maintain a comprehensive system of quality control including documented policies and procedures regarding compliance with ethical requirements, professional standards and other applicable legal and regulatory requirements.

Relevant matters relating to the scope of our examination

Our examination consists of determining whether the prospectus contains the required information, which means we did not examine the accuracy of the information included in the prospectus.

Section 115x, subsection 1c of the BGfo Wft requires that the prospectus of an alternative investment fund contains the information which investors need in order to form an opinion on the alternative investment fund and the costs and risks attached to it.

Based on our knowledge and understanding, acquired through our examination of the prospectus or otherwise, we have considered whether material information is omitted from the prospectus. We did not perform additional assurance procedures with respect to section 115x, subsection 1c, of the BGfo Wft.

Our opinion is not modified in respect of this matter.

Responsibilities for the prospectus and the examination thereof

Responsibilities of the board of directors for the prospectus

The board of directors of the alternative investment fund are responsible for:

- the preparation of the prospectus that contains at least the information required by or pursuant to the Wft for a prospectus of an alternative investment fund; and
- such internal control as it determines is necessary to enable the preparation of the prospectus that is free from material omissions, whether due to error or fraud.

Our responsibilities for the examination

Our responsibility is to plan and perform our examination in a manner that allows us to obtain sufficient and appropriate assurance evidence for our opinion.

Our opinion aims to provide reasonable assurance that the prospectus contains at least the information required to be included in the prospectus under the Wft. Reasonable assurance is a high but not absolute level of assurance, which makes it possible that we may not detect all omissions. It is our responsibility to issue a statement as referred to in section 115x subsection 1e of the BGfo Wft.

Omissions may arise due to fraud or error. They are considered to be material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of the prospectus. The materiality affects the nature, timing and extent of our assurance procedures and the evaluation of the effect of identified omissions on our opinion.

Procedures performed

We have exercised professional judgement and have maintained professional scepticism throughout the examination, in accordance with Dutch Standard 3000A, ethical requirements and independence requirements.

Our procedures have been limited to examining whether the prospectus contains at least the information required by the Wft for a prospectus and consisted, among other things, of:

- identifying and assessing the risks of material omissions in the prospectus, whether due to fraud or error, designing and performing assurance procedures responsive to those risks, and obtaining assurance evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion – the risk of not detecting a material omission resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the intentional override of internal control;
- obtaining an understanding of internal control relevant to the examination in order to design assurance procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the alternative investment fund's internal control.
