INVESTMENT STRATEGY

ODDO BHF Future of Finance is a global equity fund invested in companies that benefit from the mutations of the financial industry. The fund invests without geographical constraints in various financial themes: banking, payment and transaction services, specialist financial services and disruptive financial companies (among others). A top-down approach and bottom-up fundamental analysis are carried out to identify the most relevant and best positioned companies. The fund seeks to be permanently invested in equities with the objective of long-term capital growth.

(1) The summary risk indicator (SRI) is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the market or because we are not able to pay you. It ranges from 1 (low risk) to 7 (high risk). This indicator is not constant and will change according to the fund's risk profile. The lowest category does not mean risk-free. Historical data, such as that used to calculate the SRI, may not be a reliable indication of the fund's future risk profile. There is no guarantee that the investment objectives in terms of risk will be achieved.

MONTHLY MANAGEMENT COMMENT

The markets continued their upward trend in January, buoyed by the feeling that the start of the central bank rate-cutting cycle is within sight, even if visibility for when this will happen (June?) remains uncertain. The ECB and the Fed have both kept their rates unchanged. Lagarde and Powell had similar stances: future decisions by central banks will be based on economic indicators. At present, they say they are not confident enough about these indicators to cut rates. Even so, the ECB lowered its inflation forecast for 2024 to +2.3% (vs +2.7% in December), suggesting that the economic outlook is brightening. The FOMC expects rate cuts of 75 bps in 2024. The Fed has revised 2024 growth upwards (2.1% vs 1.4% in December). After long weeks of speculation on the Japanese markets, the BoJ raised its key rate to between 0% and 0.1% (compared with -0.1% previously). The Swiss National Bank surprised everyone by cutting its key rate from 1.75% to 1.5%. The BoE kept its rates unchanged (5.25%). Against this backdrop of expectations of monetary policy easing, the ODDO BHF Future of Finance (FoF) fund gained 7.13%. The benchmark index, MSCI ACWI Financial EUR, rose by 4.48%. Over the month, the fund's outperformance was 2.65%, compared with 1.11% year-to-date.

The main contributors (weighting >0.5% of AuM) to the fund's performance were: 1) Coinbase (+30.48%), driven by the rise in bitcoin and transactions on the platform; 2) BBVA (+20.18%), which benefited from the improving situation in Turkey and the group's positive comments on business in Mexico; 3) ING (+20.14%), which bounced back from a poor performance after publishing its annual results; 4) Commerzbank (+19.03%), which benefited from the CFO's reassuring comments on the trajectory of net interest income in 2024; and 5) BNPP (+18.92%), which was buoyed by the group's reassuring comments on the level of net income expected in 2024 and the launch of its EUR 1 billion share buyback programme. Conversely, the main detractors were: 1) Antin (-12.39%), which suffered from mixed annual results with concerns over inflows; 2) Ping An (-5.64%), the 2023 earnings of which came in below expectations; 3) Piraeus (-5.46%), which was penalised by profit-taking after a strong rebound in its share price; 4) PB Fintech (-4.08%), for the same reason as Piraeus; and 5) StoneCO (-3.31%), which suffered from concerns over the departure of one of its founder-managers.

It now seems clear that the US economy is more resilient than the market had anticipated. Despite this, Jerome Powell hinted that the Fed could cut its main key rate by 75 bps in 2024 before inflation reaches the 2% target in order to support the economy. However, visibility on the start of the downturn remains uncertain, with June being the month the market seems to be focusing on. Against this backdrop, we will continue to gradually increase our exposure to growth stocks. We continue to favour European banks over US banks because of their relative valuation and the return of capital to shareholders. 68.8% (vs 70.8%) of the fund is invested in value stocks, 27.1% (vs 26.0%) in growth stocks and 4.14% in cash.

In terms of portfolio changes, we opened a position in NatWest, FITB, and Piraeus. We increased our exposure to Western Alliance, Wise, Barclays, Stone and Julius Baer. Conversely, we have reduced our positions in UniCredit, ING, Erste, Swedbank and Prudential.

RISKS:

The fund is exposed to the following risks : risk of capital loss, equity risk, risk associated with discretionary management, currency risk, risk associated with commitments on forward financial instruments, counterparty risk, risks associated with portfolio concentration, liquidity risk of underlying assets, risk associated with holding small and medium capitalisations, emerging markets risk, Sustainability risk and on an ancillary basis interest rate risk, credit risk

SFDR CLASSIFICATION²

The EU Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation (SFDR) is a set of EU rules which aim to make the sustainability profile of funds transparent, more comparable and better understood by end investors. Article 6: The management team does not consider sustainability risks or adverse effects of investment decisions on sustainability factors in the investment decision making process. Article 8: The management team addresses sustainability risks by integrating ESG criteria (Environment and/or Social and/or Governance) into its investment decision making process. Article 9: The management team follows a strict sustainable investment objective that significantly contributes to the challenges of the ecological transition, and addresses Sustainability Risks through ratings provided by the Management Company's external ESG data provider.
