FUND MANAGER'S COMMENTS

During February we put in place the following trading strategies:

- o No major trades on the cash side this month as we adopted a more patient approach to incoming volatility. The neutralization of the duration worked quite well in February and we turned short duration by 0.40Yr at the beginning of March.
- o Concerning Russia and Ukraine we confirm that we have zero direct exposure and a manageable exposure to issuers with operations in Russia. Of course, those issuers are not immune from repricing but according to prevailing market views, they are now becoming definitively cheap on a relative value perspective.
- o Concerning derivatives, we still hold a short on Lufthansa (leverage usage 1%). We still hold some single name shorts on issuers like Anglo American and Standard Chartered (leverage usage 2.7% by name). We closed in gain the short trade on LVMH. We also sold volatility via a payer on ITRX Main with strike 70 maturing in June, a trade needed to get carry selling credit volatility.

Finally the unexpected occurred and we are now experiencing a war in the eastern side of Europe. This is a difficult to explain situation on a humanitarian front with even financial markets that demonstrate themselves quite reluctant to price all bad news coming from the battlefield. At the time of writing this report we are however even discounting a nuclear threat. A repricing of high beta is an obvious situation and what is now crucial is to avoid redemptions and force selling. As we think dispersion will increase, we maintain our portfolios concentrated on major conviction ideas, among which a long on subordinated financials, selected corporate hybrids with short call dates, long on insurance subs and financials senior non-preferred. We try to add, when feasible, green and sustainable bonds into the portfolio benefitting of the primary flows, to provide a more stable profile to the funds. High Yield rated bonds are kept constant at 9.3%.

Market and outlook

During February the monthly "excess return" of Euro investment grade corporate bonds has been -1.87%, while the 1-3 year maturity bucket segment has been -0.61%. Market levels indicate that the yield to worst of Euro IG bonds stands at 1.25%, higher by 50 bps versus previous month. Subordinated financials plus insurance stand at 2% while corporate hybrids investment grade at 2.6% on average. The yield curve steepened 10 basis points to 142 bps, with the 1-3 year segment yielding 0.55% and the 10+ years yielding +1.97%.

Financial markets had a tough start of the year with most asset classes, from fixed income to equities, posting material total return losses amid high levels of volatility. Corporate bonds managed to hold relatively steady until mid-February when spreads began to crack under the pressure of the war in Ukraine and the new risks of stagflation. Inflation is indeed difficult to be stopped as it comes from supply bottlenecks and energy prices, two elements that are designed to stay with us for longer. Central banks could become more patient (in particular in Europe), but this is just a minor relief for financial markets and risky assets. Anyway, the situation is in constant evolution and we cannot rule out further rapid swings of sentiment in next weeks. As the war progresses and elevated costs in terms of victims, it's also possible that a diplomatic solution could be found+ at the expense of lightening recent heavy sanctions to Russia. In this case we should also be prepared to a massive rally and a consolidation of core rates in the pre-war territory.

ESG Glossary

ESG Coverage: Percentage of the portfolio covered by an extra-financial analysis also called “ESG analysis” as the main pillars are: Environment, Social and Governance.

Carbon intensity (tCO₂ eq./million $): we are referring to the equivalent of the number of tons of carbon dioxide (CO₂) that it takes to a company to make one unit of revenue (1 million $) per year. The methodology used includes both Scope 1 and Scope 2 emissions where Scope 1 covers direct emissions from owned or controlled sources while Scope 2 covers indirect emissions from the generation of purchased electricity, steam, heating and cooling consumed by the reporting company.

ESG score: ESG scores are designed to transparently and objectively measure a company's relative extra-financial performance, commitment and effectiveness across 35 main criteria based on publicly reported data. Based on those criteria, each sector has its own materiality matrix that allows companies ESG scoring taking into account the most material issues within each sector. However, the ESG scores relies on Environment (climate change, energy efficiency...), Social (human resources management, employees' health & safety...) and Governance (composition & diversity of governance bodies, executive compensation...) pillars.

The ESG approach has the main following restraints:

- The availability of data to conduct an ESG analysis
- The quality of the data used in the assessment of ESG quality and impact as there are no universal standards related to ESG information and third party verification is not systematic
- The comparability of data, as not all companies publish the same indicators;
- The use of proprietary methodologies, which relies on the experience and skills of the asset manager's staff

For more details on the ESG investment process, ESG approach and ESG criteria, please refer to the prospectus
