Experienced sector specialists focus on profitable, liquid mid and large cap companies with an established product portfolio as well as fast growing small cap companies with leading-edge technology offering. Source: Bellevue Asset Management, 31.10.2023; all figures in CHF %, total return / BVI-methodology
Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future results and can be misleading. As the fund is denominated in a currency that may differ than an investor's base currency, changes in the rate of exchange may have an adverse effect on prices and incomes. Performance is shown net of fees and expenses for the relevant share class over the reference period. All performance figures reflect the reinvestment of dividends and do not take into account the commissions and costs incurred on the issue and redemption of shares, if any. Individual costs are not taken into account and would have a negative impact on the performance. With an investment amount of CHF 1,000 over an investment period of five years, the investment result in the first year would be reduced by the front-end load of up to CHF 50 (5%) as well as by additional individual custody charges. In subsequent years, the investment result would also be reduced by the individual custody account costs incurred. The reference benchmark of this class is used for performance comparison purposes only (dividend reinvested). No benchmark is directly identical to a fund, thus the performance of a benchmark is not a reliable indicator of future performance of the fund to which it is compared. There can be no assurance that a return will be achieved or that a substantial loss of capital will not be incurred.

Market review

The global stock index (MSCI World Net Index -2.9%), European stock markets (Euro Stoxx 50 -2.6%) and Germany's Dax (-3.7%) corrected in October. The broad healthcare sector (MSCI World Healthcare Net -4.1%) also closed in negative territory and high-growth pockets within the healthcare industry, the Russell 2000 Healthcare (-9.9%) and the S&P Biotechnology Index (-9.3%) for instance, sold off even more. The medtech sector (MSCI World Healthcare Equipment & Supplies -6.0%) retreated as well, but the Bellevue Medtech & Services Fund (-5.2%) was not as weak as its benchmark.

The significant divergence within the healthcare sector can be traced to the renewed uptrend in US Treasury yields, which climbed to new highs in September. Rising bond yields are particularly negative for small-cap growth stocks in the medtech and in the drug-making space. 10-year US Treasury yields closed the month 36 basis points higher at 4.93%.

Stocks of US health insurance companies delivered pleasing returns. Cigna (+8.1%), Humana (+7.7%), UnitedHealth (+6.3%), Elevance (+3.4%), Molina (+1.6%) and Centene (+0.2%) made positive contributions to the fund's performance in October. Rising bond yields translate into higher investment income from financial assets (reserves) for US health insurers. UnitedHealth, Elevance and Molina surprised investors with better-than-expected earnings, a guidance upgrade for the current year and positive remarks regarding next year. Profit growth was mostly attributed to lower-than-expected medical cost ratios, and higher net interest income also had a positive impact. Centene expressed a bit more caution in its outlook for 2024. US hospital giant HCA (-8.0%) reported a disappointing profit margin due to unexpected losses from a joint venture. HCA's core business, on the other hand, showed above-average growth.

In the medtech sector, Shockwave (+3.0%) was a performance driver. It specializes in intravascular lithotripsy systems for the treatment of cardiovascular disease. Shockwave announced new groundbreaking products at its investor day and its 2026 sales forecast and its addressable market projection, which it almost doubled from USD 8.5 to USD 15 bn, were also positive surprises.

Novo Nordisk decided to stop its clinical trial of semaglutide (GLP-1) in kidney disease ahead of schedule based on the strong outcomes of an interim analysis of trial data. This news triggered heavy selling in dialysis stocks and in other stocks across the broader medtech sector.

Boston Scientific (-3.6%) and Abbott (-2.3%), for example, were also marked down even though both companies reported solid third-quarter results, as was Medtronic (-9.9%). Stocks of fast-growing companies such as Penumbra (-21.0%), Intuitive Surgical (-10.3%) and Edwards Lifesciences (-8.0%) sold off even more. Rising bond yields fueled the selling, and even a minor blemish in an earnings announcement added to the downward pressure. Align Technology (-39.5%) plunged after missing Q3 consensus expectations by a wide margin. Its management blamed the miss on a dip in consumer confidence in the US, which also dragged Idexx into the red (-9.1%).

Life sciences tools companies Danaher (-12.6%) and Thermo Fisher (-12.1%) corrected after they mentioned in their Q3 earnings reports that inventory destocking at customers would remain a headwind for their bioprocessing businesses. All performance data is in EUR / B shares.

Positioning & outlook

The pandemic hobbled industry growth for 2 years, but the medtech market has now shifted into a higher gear and we expect the faster pace of growth to continue well into 2024. We also expect numerous important products for diabetes and structural heart disease to be approved and launched.

We think the broad correction in the medtech sector triggered by GLP-1 trial readouts is an overreaction and will be short-lived. The low valuations give the sector considerable upside potential and offer investors attractive entry points.

The current stock-market situation is enticing not only for investors. We anticipate an upturn in M&A activity because the valuations of many promising, fast-growing companies have declined to such low levels. Should a recession actually materialize as some fear, the fund has delivered good relative returns in the past even during tough economic periods.

The Medtech & Services Fund invests in the entire healthcare market except for the drug developers. The medtech & services sector is one of the stock market's most defensive sectors with sustainable outperformance potential and that is one reason for the unqualified success of our investment strategy. We also expect procedure volume growth to remain high during the 2024 investment year.

Risk and return profile acc. to SRI

The Fund's investment objective is to generate attractive and competitive capital growth in the long term. It is therefore particularly suited to investors with an investment horizon of at least 5 years who want to selectively diversify their portfolio with investments in the medical technology sector and who are willing to accept the equity risks typical of this sector.

We have classified this product as risk class 5 on a scale of 1 to 7, where 5 corresponds to a medium-high risk class. The risk of potential losses from future performance is classified as medium-high. In the event of very adverse market conditions, it is likely that the ability to execute your redemption request will be impaired. The calculation of the risk and earnings profile is based on simulated/historical data, which cannot be used as a reliable indication of the future risk profile. The classification of the fund may change in future and does not constitute a guarantee. Even a fund classed in category 1 does not constitute a completely risk-free investment. There can be no guarantee that a return will be achieved or that a substantial loss of capital will not be incurred. The overall risk exposure may have a strong impact on any return achieved by the fund or subfund. For further information please refer to the fund prospectus or PRIIP-KID.

Liquidity risk

The fund may invest some of its assets in financial instruments that may in certain circumstances reach a relatively low level of liquidity, which can have an impact on the fund's liquidity.

Risk arising from the use of derivatives

The fund may conclude derivatives transactions. This increases opportunities, but also involves an increased risk of loss.

Currency risks

The fund may invest in assets denominated in a foreign currency. Changes in the rate of exchange may have an adverse effect on prices and incomes.

Operational risks and custody risks

The fund is subject to risks due to operational or human errors, which can arise at the investment company, the custodian bank, a custodian or other third parties.
