Main risks

- The Fund's unit value can go up as well as down, and any capital invested in the Fund may be at risk.
- The Fund invests in bonds whose value generally falls when interest rates rise. This risk is typically greater the longer the maturity of a bond investment and the higher its credit quality. The issuers of certain bonds, could become unwilling or unable to make payments on their bonds and default. Bonds that are in default may become hard to sell or worthless.
- The Fund may invest in Emerging Markets, these markets are less established, and often more volatile, than developed markets and involve higher risks, particularly market, liquidity and currency risks.

Monthly performance commentary

Performance review

The fund's absolute performance and relative performance were negative in January. Rates positioning was negative due to the negative contribution from the overall duration overweight, mainly in the US, Australia and New-Zealand. This was only partly offset by the positive contribution from the US curve steepener as well as relative country allocation. The US curve continued to steepen as the 30y underperformed while short Canada and short Japan were positive. EM local rates such as Mexico slightly detracted from performance. The breakeven positioning was slightly negative while breakeven movements have been heterogeneous. However, we decided to take some profits on the short EUR breakeven position.

FX performance was negative as the broad USD rebounded sharply as the market priced out a March rate cut, given Fed speakers pushing back on that front and a very resilient US economy.

Strategy

Over the month, we added a US 10s30s steepener. We closed our short Italy vs Germany 10yr position. In breakevens, we closed our short breakeven positioning in Europe. In FX, we closed out our short GBP versus USD and long EUR versus USD.

Risk Disclosure

- Derivatives may be used by the Fund, and these can behave unexpectedly. The pricing and volatility of many derivatives may diverge from strictly reflecting the pricing or volatility of their underlying reference(s), instrument or asset.
- Investment Leverage occurs when the economic exposure is greater than the amount invested, such as when derivatives are used. A Fund that employs leverage may experience greater gains and/or losses due to the amplification effect from a movement in the price of the reference source.
- Where overseas investments are held the rate of currency exchange may cause the value of such investments to go down as well as up.
- Investment involves risk. Past performance figures shown are not indicative of future performance. Investors should read the prospectus (including the risk warnings) and the product highlights sheets, before investing. Daily price change percentage is based on bid-bid price.

The deviation of the Fund's performance and underlying investments' weightings relative to the benchmark are monitored, but not constrained, to a defined range.

Performance is annualised when calculation period is over one year. Past performance does not predict future returns. Fund return: NAV-to-NAV basis. For comparison with benchmark.

Performance numbers shown are before netting off sales / realisation charges.

The above table cites the last dividend paid within the last 12 months only.

Dividend is not guaranteed and may be paid out of capital, which will result in capital erosion and reduction in net asset value. A positive distribution yield does not imply a positive return. Past distribution yields and payments do not represent future distribution yields and payments. Historical payments may comprise of distributed income, capital, or both.

The calculation method of annualised yield prior to August 2019 is the simple yield calculation: (dividend amount / NAV per share or units as of ex-dividend date) x n; The calculation method of annualised yield from August 2019 is the compound yield calculation: $((1 + (\text{dividend amount} / \text{ex-dividend NAV}))^n) - 1$, n depends on the distributing frequency. Annually distribution is 1; semi-annually distribution is 2; quarterly distribution is 4; monthly distribution is 12.

The annualised dividend yield is calculated based on the dividend distribution on the relevant date with dividend reinvested, and may be higher or lower than the actual annual dividend yield.

Investors and potential investors should refer to the details on dividend distributions of the Fund, which are available on HSBC Asset Management (Singapore) Limited website.
