Simplified Prospectus

10 January 2012

Class A, AX, B, BX, C, CX, I, IX, S, S1, S1X and G Shares

Important Information

Eurozone Strategic Value Portfolio (the “Portfolio”) is a portfolio of ACMBernstein (the “Fund”). The Fund is a mutual investment fund established in Luxembourg on 21 August 1991 for an unlimited duration as an unincorporated co-proprietorship managed in the interest of its unitholders by AllianceBernstein (Luxembourg) S.à r.l. (the “Management Company”) and is organized as an umbrella fund under Part I of the law of 17 December 2010 relating to undertakings for collective investment (the “Law of 2010”). Outside of Germany, Austria and Switzerland, the Fund conducts business under the name AllianceBernstein. The Fund comprises several portfolios which, together with their Share classes are described in the Prospectus.

Investment Objective

The investment objective of the Portfolio is long-term capital growth.

The Portfolio seeks to meet its investment objective by investing in a portfolio of equity securities of Eurozone companies that are determined by the Investment Manager to be undervalued.

A “Eurozone company” is a company that is domiciled in a Eurozone country or carries out the preponderant part of its economic activities in one or more Eurozone countries.

A “Eurozone country” is a member state of the European Union that has adopted the Euro as its sole legal tender. The “Eurozone”, officially “Euro area”, as of 30 June 2010, comprises the following 16 EU member states: Austria, Belgium, Cyprus, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg, Malta, the Netherlands, Portugal, Slovakia, Slovenia and Spain.

Investment Policy

The Investment Manager believes that, over time, a company's stock price will come to reflect its intrinsic economic value. The Investment Manager's fundamental value approach to equity investing generally defines value by reference to the relationship between a security's current price and its intrinsic economic value as measured by long-term earnings prospects. This approach seeks to identify a universe of securities that are considered to be undervalued because they are attractively priced relative to their future earnings power. Accordingly, forecasting corporate earnings and dividend-paying capability is the heart of the fundamental value approach.

The Investment Manager's value analysis depends heavily upon its large internal research staff and fundamental company and industry research. The Investment Manager's analysts are organized into global industry teams, since companies around the world, including the Eurozone, within a particular industry tend to share similar profit and market dynamics.

In the case of the Portfolio, the Investment Manager's company and industry analysts research Eurozone companies, which are screened by a proprietary quantitative return model, to forecast earnings, cash flow, and balance sheet strength for the companies for each of the next five years. If a particular Eurozone company has many business lines, the analysts conduct this exercise for each business line in order to build a composite forecast for the company based in part on present and future determinants of demand for the company's products or services. These analysts also evaluate pricing strategies used by each Eurozone company when competing for market share. Finally, an evaluation of the management and the financial ability of each Eurozone company to implement its corporate strategy supplements this analysis.

The Investment Manager considers aggregate portfolio characteristics when deciding how much of each Eurozone company security to purchase for the Portfolio. The Investment Manager's quantitative analysts build return and risk models to ensure that the portfolio is constructed to maintain an effective balance of risk and return. By evaluating overall sector concentration, degree of undervaluation and other subtle similarities among investments, the Investment Manager seeks to proportion risk appropriate to the expected return, consistent with the relatively concentrated nature of the portfolio.

A disparity between a Eurozone company's current stock price and the Investment Manager's assessment of intrinsic value can arise, at least in part, as a result of adverse, short-term market reactions to recent events or trends. In order to reduce the risk that an undervalued Eurozone company's security will be purchased before such an adverse market reaction has run its course, the Investment Manager also monitors analysts' earnings estimate revisions and relative return trends (also called “price momentum”) so as to better time new purchases and sales of Eurozone company securities.

The portfolio’s value stocks will tend to focus on large and medium-sized established Eurozone companies within their respective markets, although the Portfolio may invest in Eurozone companies of any size. The industry and geographic distribution of the Portfolio’s value investments within the Eurozone will be a function of the Investment Manager’s stock selection process, in combination with a mindfulness of specific Eurozone country and industry exposure for overall portfolio diversification and risk management. The Investment Manager intends to spread portfolio investment risk among the capital markets in a number of Eurozone countries and will invest its assets in equity securities of Eurozone companies based in at least three, and normally considerably more, Eurozone countries.

Under normal market conditions the Portfolio will invest in a portfolio of approximately 40 to 70 Eurozone companies.

The Investment Manager will seek to invest the Portfolio’s assets in the equity securities of Eurozone companies in a manner intended to result in superior liquidity, which investment may take the form, for example, of the purchase of ADRs or GDRs or their equivalents.

Use of Derivatives

General. The Investment Manager may use exchange-traded and OTC financial derivative instruments, such as for example, options on securities, options on securities indices, futures, forwards and swaps, forward foreign currency exchange contracts, currency futures, currency options, options on currency futures and currency swaps for efficient portfolio management, hedging or investment purposes.

Risk Profile

The Portfolio is classified as a “Sophisticated” portfolio. The Portfolio shall employ the Value-at-Risk (“VaR”) approach.

Investments of the Portfolio are subject to high risks inherent in equity investments. In general, the value of equity investments may fluctuate, sometimes dramatically, in response to the activities and results of individual companies or because of general market, economic, political and natural conditions that are difficult to predict. Such factors include the possibility of sudden or prolonged market declines and risks associated with individual companies. Historically, equity securities have provided greater long-term returns and have entailed greater short-term risks than other investment choices.

The Portfolio will invest in securities of issuers situated in emerging markets and it may consequently experience greater price volatility and significantly lesser liquidity than a portfolio invested solely in equity securities or issuers located in more developed countries. Such securities are also subject to higher risks of political or economic instability; fluctuations in exchange rates, differing legal and accounting systems, national policies limiting investment opportunities, and higher investment costs.

Fixed-income securities in which the Portfolio may invest are subject to the credit risk of the private and public institutions offering these securities and their market value is influenced by changes in interest rates. There can be no assurance that any distribution payments will occur and the Portfolio has no specific maturity. The Portfolio is subject to market, interest rate and currency fluctuations and to other risks inherent in investing in securities. Therefore, no assurance can be given that the investment objective will be achieved, that invested capital will be preserved, or that capital appreciation will occur. Investment results may vary substantially on a monthly, quarterly or annual basis. An investment in the Portfolio does not represent a complete investment program.

More details on the risks related to investment in the Portfolio are included in the Prospectus. See “Risk Factors and Special Considerations” in Section II of the Prospectus.

Profile of the Typical Investor

The Portfolio will suit high risk-tolerant investors seeking the longer-term rewards of equity investment. Investors are encouraged to consult their independent financial advisors regarding the suitability of Shares of the Portfolio for their investment needs.

The Management Company has resolved to prevent the ownership of Shares by any “United States Person,” as such term is defined in the Prospectus.

Class S, S1 and S1X shares shall only be placed with institutional investors within the meaning of article 174 of the Law of 2010. Transfers of class S, S1 and S1X Shares shall be restricted to transfers to such institutional investors.

Historical Performance

The following graph illustrates past performance of class AX shares (formerly named class A shares prior to 30 August 2010) of the Portfolio for each of the Fund's last three fiscal years.

Past performance is no guarantee of future results. Total returns, provided by the Investment Manager, reflect the percentage change in Net Asset Value of class AX shares of the Portfolio for each of the twelve-month fiscal periods ending 31 August of each year indicated. Class AX share performance since 31 August 2011 may differ, perhaps significantly, from performance shown. In addition, the performance of other share classes may be higher or lower due to the different fees and charges associated with such share classes. Returns provided assume the reinvestment of distributions, if any, paid on class AX shares for the period shown, but do not reflect any sales charges. Accordingly, these figures do not represent actual returns to an investor. The investment return and principal value of an investment in the Portfolio will fluctuate as the prices of the individual securities in which it invests fluctuate, so that an investor's Shares, when redeemed, may be worth more or less than their original cost. Prior to 30 August 2010, the performance of the Portfolio is with respect to its predecessor, European Growth Portfolio.

Purchase, Redemption and Exchanges

Purchase, redemption and exchange orders for a given Trade Date may be accepted up to 6:00 p.m. Central European time on such Trade Date. Valid and complete orders received and accepted by the Management Company or its agents within this time frame are processed as of such Trade Date at the Net Asset Value determined as of the Valuation Point for such Trade Date. Orders received and accepted after 6:00 p.m. Central European time are processed on the next Business Day at the appropriate Net Asset Value determined as of the Valuation Point on such Business Day. The Management Company may limit or suspend the redemption of Shares as provided in the Prospectus and maximum or minimum investment amounts with respect to any share class may be waived by the Management Company in its sole discretion. Shareholders may exchange their Shares to the extent provided
