- Allianz Emerging Europe Equity<sup>1)</sup> - Because of the current and ever-evolving circumstances associated with the Ukraine / Russia situation, the current political situation and liquidity constraints caused by the ongoing closure of the Moscow stock exchange for international investors and various sanctions imposed on the financial markets, it is currently not possible to perform a proper valuation of the assets of the Fund. Consequently, and after careful consideration, the Board of Directors came to the conclusion that it is in the best interest of the shareholders to temporarily suspend the calculation of the net asset value and subsequently the dealing of shares.
- The Board of Directors of the Company decided to temporarily suspend the calculation of the Net Asset Value of the Fund with effect from 28 February 2022. This decision was taken on 1st of March and the calculation of the NAV is still suspended as of 31 March 2023.
- The uncertainty for a valuation of assets is currently related to the Russian equities held by the fund. In order to calculate the All-in-Fee payable to the management company, the Russian equities has been valued with zero albeit such valuation does not represent a fair valuation of the Russian equities. All other assets are valued according to the standard valuation principles. The last redemption and subscription prices has been calculated at 28.02.2022.

A separate pool of assets and separate accounting records are maintained for each Subfund.

The figures presented in this report relate to the period from 1 October 2022 to 31 March 2023. They should not necessarily be taken as an indication of the future development of the Subfunds.

Subscriptions are only valid if made on the basis of the current Prospectus, the Articles of Incorporation, the Key Investor Information Document supplemented by the latest available audited Annual Report. If the latest Annual Report was published more than eight months ago, then the most recent Semi-Annual Report must also be made available.

The Prospectus, the Articles of Incorporation, the Key Investor Information Document as well as the respective Annual and Semi-Annual Reports can be obtained at the registered office of the Company or from the Management Company, the Custodian and each Paying and Information Agent without charge.

Some transactions conducted in the reporting period do no longer appear in the Investment Portfolio. The Statement of Changes in the composition of the securities portfolio during the reference period is available free of charge on request at the registered office of the Company and at the representatives where the Subfunds are distributed.

Important notice to our Shareholders

The Russian invasion of Ukraine caused considerable volatility and uncertainty on the international capital markets in 2022. As a result of this situation, it is only possible to make extremely limited general forecasts about capital market trends and future effects. At the current time, as the annual report is being prepared, it is therefore not possible to definitively assess the direct impact of the Russian invasion on the Fund.

The Economic Sanctions issued against the Russian Federation, the separatist regions of Donetsk People's Republic and Luhansk People's Republic, and Belarus are constantly evolving. AllianzGI is complying with all relevant current and intends to comply with all relevant future sanctions including but not limited to those imposed by the EU, Japan, Singapore, South Korea, Switzerland, UK and US. All trades that AllianzGI sends to its counterparties comply with AllianzGI's obligations under the relevant sanctions. AllianzGI has a globally coordinated economic sanctions team from the Legal, Compliance and Risk functions that monitors economic sanctions and coordinates their implementation. This team is actively monitoring the current situation and has been working with impacted departments, including portfolio management, trading and operations, to take relevant action and ensure timely implementation. In particular, the team is coordinating the implementation of the multi-jurisdictional sanctions against the Russian Federation, the separatist regions of Donetsk People's Republic and Luhansk People's Republic and Belarus.

AllianzGI has policies, procedures and systems in place to screen new and existing investors against applicable sanctions lists. In relation to Article 5f of Regulation (EU) No 833/2014 and Article 1y of Regulation (EC) No 765/2006, AllianzGI has decided to stop selling any fund units/shares or securities to Russian and Belarussian nationals after 12 April 2022. In this regard, AllianzGI has instructed its distribution partners, fund platforms and service providers such as transfer agents to stop distributing fund units/shares to Russian and Belarussian nationals. Where Russian or Belarussian nationals hold units/shares in funds before 12 April 2022, AllianzGI has instructed their service providers to block the investor's account for subscriptions and other transactions which would constitute a sale of fund units/shares.

Economic situation and capital market in the reporting period/outlook

Concerns about interest rates and recession abating

As at the end of March 2023, in the half-year under review the global economy remained robust. The sometimes significant interest rate hikes in developed economies, intended to curb general price increases, weighed on the willingness to invest and on consumer demand; however, a much-feared slump in economic activity did not materialise — not least due to the fact that energy prices, which had previously been rising markedly, began to decline.

Price increases weakened considerably, particularly in the United States, which in some cases raised hopes that we could be seeing an imminent end to the tighter monetary policy. The situation on the US labour market in particular, which has so far had a significant inflationary effect, eased as a result of the Federal Reserve's measures to dampen the economy.

In Europe, inflationary pressures proved more persistent, especially as monetary policy in the Eurozone did not react to the inflation momentum until later. While falling energy prices did reduce some of the burden, there were signs that core inflation could set in at a relatively high level.

The Asia-Pacific region and the emerging markets in general were characterised by more independent economic trends. This was due in particular to the diverging interest rate policy and monetary policy, which had counteracted the emergence of inflationary bubbles and provided greater scope for easing the financial framework as needed. China hastily abandoning its restrictive COVID policy also provided a significant positive boost. The reopening of the Chinese economy and a return to a government strategy that favours growth led to a dramatic surge in demand, which benefited the prospects of many emerging countries.

Equity markets: Primarily strong price upturn

The international stock exchanges reacted positively to the easing of interest rate and growth concerns in conjunction with the renewed impetus for demand starting from China.

Against this backdrop, prices on the US equity market rose sharply, particularly in the case of stocks issued by companies with high current earnings. By contrast, the interest rate environment acted as a brake for strongly growth-orientated companies with a focus on future profits. Calculated in euro,

US equities achieved only a moderate increase as the dollar depreciated significantly in view of the United States' declining interest rate advantage against Europe.

Following the generally weak stock market development of the previous months, Europe experienced an above-average price upturn, which was caused in particular by the fact that predominantly mild winter weather enabled a serious energy crisis to be avoided. Prices in Germany recovered particularly strongly, due in no small part to the brightening of the global economic outlook. Improved trading prospects also helped boost stock market sentiment in Japan, where there was a significant increase, following a previous sharp decline in prices.

Sharply rising prices also prevailed on the equity markets of the emerging markets. There was a particularly marked recovery on the Chinese stock exchanges. This reflected the prospect of renewed positive momentum in domestic demand, which is becoming increasingly important.

Volatility – i.e. the fluctuation range of equity prices – declined on balance. This reflected the abating of interest rate and growth concerns, as well as a renewed increase in market participants' risk appetite.

Bond markets: An end to interest rate hikes, demand for spread securities

In relation to previous months, the trend in the global bond markets reversed. The previously burdensome rise in interest rates came to a halt as inflation momentum slowed noticeably, particularly in the US. In some cases, there was even speculation of an early end to the tighter monetary policy. In general, high-quality government and corporate bonds at the interest rate level reached was met with moderate purchasing interest once again.

The change in the interest rate and economic environment became more evident in riskier bond classes. High-yield securities started to generate significantly positive returns, with a strong increase in real terms, particularly in Asia. The renewed risk appetite also noticeably favoured bonds from emerging markets, performance of which benefited not least from increased demand from the dollar zone, with the US currency no longer profiting from its interest rate advantage and instead coming under selling pressure.

Outlook

Equities

The collapse of Silicon Valley Bank (SVB) in the US was an event caused by certain poor risk management decisions. The collapse of Credit Suisse, by contrast, would have caused collateral damage to the entire global banking system. It was therefore reassuring for the market that the major Swiss bank has been rescued by the intervention of the Swiss National Bank and the takeover by its competitor UBS, meaning a general banking crisis could be avoided. Further intervention by supervisory authorities and central banks may be expected in an effort to shore up confidence in the sector. However, instability in the banking sector increases the general market risk and also puts the leading central banks in an awkward position: On the one hand, they want to continue their more restrictive monetary policy in order to bring inflation rates closer to their target range. On the other, higher interest rates burden consumers and companies alike, dampening economic activity. Overall, this constitutes a market environment in which high price fluctuations are expected to continue. The upcoming reporting season is likely to give a better indication of how successfully individual companies have been performing recently. This should open up corresponding opportunities for those actively managing their portfolios.

Bonds

We are expecting banks' refinancing costs to rise, which, over time, will make loans more expensive for companies and households. Particularly in the US, where regional banks play a dominant role in the commercial real estate sector, we expect a slowdown in growth over the second half of the year. While central banks should currently be concerned with the restoration of price stability, if our expectation of weaker growth later in the year proves to be correct, an end to the rate hike cycle should be in sight. Bond markets ought to initially benefit from investors' returning appetite for risk and the central banks' fight against inflation, as these efforts should in themselves reduce inflation expectations. In the medium term, whether the central banks will be successful in their endeavours remains to be seen. The outlook for bonds does therefore appear to be better than it was a few months ago, although larger fluctuations are still to be expected.
