Objectives and investment policy

Investment objective

The Portfolio seeks to increase the value of your investment over time through income, while seeking capital preservation.

Investment policy

Under normal market conditions, the Portfolio typically invests in debt securities in the Asia-Pacific region. These securities are denominated in RMB, USD, EUR or in a currency of the Asia-Pacific region. The Portfolio may invest in both Investment Grade and below Investment Grade debt securities.

The Portfolio's debt investments may include debt securities of companies that are incorporated in China, included those traded on the China Interbank Bond Market and Bond Connect as well as through the QFI Scheme.

The Portfolio may invest in, or be exposed up to (i) 50% in debt securities that are rated below Investment Grade, (ii) 20% in structured products such as asset-backed and mortgage-backed securities and (iii) 10% in contingent convertible bonds (CoCos). The Investment Manager uses a disciplined process integrating fundamental and quantitative research to identify high-conviction opportunities while actively managing duration and yield-curve positioning. The expected average duration of the Portfolio is 0 to 10 years but the Portfolio may buy securities with any duration. The Portfolio's exposure to RMB is at least 80%.

The Portfolio uses derivatives for hedging (reducing risks), efficient portfolio management and other investment purposes.

Risk and Reward Profile

Lower risk

Potentially lower reward

Higher risk

Potentially higher reward

What does this risk indicator mean?

This synthetic risk and reward indicator (SRRI) scale rating indicates how the Portfolio may perform and the risk of losing some or all of your capital. Generally the potential for higher gains also means a larger risk of losses. The lowest category does not mean a risk free investment.

The above rating is an estimate, not a guarantee. It is calculated using industry-standard methods and is based on medium-term volatility (how sharply the Portfolio's actual or estimated share price has gone up and down over five years).

Historical data may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of this Portfolio. The risk and reward category for this Portfolio is not guaranteed to remain unchanged and may shift over time.

Why is this Portfolio in this category?

The Portfolio is not guaranteed in capital. The Portfolio is invested in debt securities that are subject to variations up or down and that can generate gains or losses.

Risks materially relevant to the Portfolio but not adequately captured by the SRRI:

The rating does not reflect the possible effects of unusual market conditions or large unpredictable events, which could amplify everyday risks and could trigger other risks, such as:

Counterparty risk: If an entity with which the Portfolio does business becomes insolvent, payments owed to the Portfolio could be delayed, reduced and/or eliminated.

Focus risk: The Portfolio may have significant exposure to a single industry sector or country, and could be more sensitive to events impacting that sector or country.

Liquidity risk: Certain securities could become hard to buy or to sell at a desired time or price.

PRC Tax: Subsequent developments in the tax laws and regulations of the People's Republic of China could have a material effect on Portfolio's investments.

RMB Currency risk: Future development of foreign exchange control policies pursued by the Chinese government may affect the value of RMB (both CNH and CNY). This could adversely affect the value of your investments in the Portfolio.
