FUND COMMENTARY

Fund Performance

The DGC ConvertibleClass A USD returned -1.54% net during January bringing YTD performance to -1.54%. The Fund's cash level stood at 6.0% at the end of the month. The overall weighted average running yield (ex-cash) stands at 0.9%. The equity sensitivity measured by its Delta is currently at 39.64%.

In a difficult month for risk assets, all regions detracted from Fund performance, led by Europe. On a sector level, Industrials contributed positively to Fund performance, while Information Technology was the main detractor.

The top three single-name contributors were the French aircraft engine manufacturer Safran, the German defence and engineering group Rheinmetall, and the French utility group Veolia.

The top three single-name detractors were French payments company Worldline, and the US and Korean semiconductor suppliers ON Semiconductor and SK Hynix.

Primary issuance remained active in the new year with $5.2bn of new issues, of which the majority came from the US with $2.3bn, followed by Asia with $1.8bn, then Europe with $1.1bn.

Positioning

During the month, the Fund participated in the primary market with new issues Daiwa House 0% 2029, Federal Realty 3.25% 2029 144a, and Immunocore 2.5% 2030 144a. The Fund also purchased Seagate HDD 3.5% 2028 144a on the secondary market, and switched into BE Semiconductor 1.875% 2027-29 from the 2027's.

Additionally, the Fund sold its positions in GBL 0% 2026, LG Energy (LG Chem) 1.6% 2027-30, MicroPort Scientific 5.75% 2026-28, SAIPM 2.875% 2029, and Singapore Exchange 0% 2024. The Fund reduced its positions in Worldline (ATOS) 0% 2024 and Sea Ltd 2.375% 2025; the first after negative newsflow and the latter on a reappraisal of the balance of risk and reward. The Fund also reduced its position in KPN (American Movil) 0% 2024 ahead of final maturity.

Outlook

While the change of direction of interest rates is on the horizon, the timing appears more uncertain as economic signals are mixed. Markets are exhibiting significant dispersion with large gaps between the best and worst performers. Convertibles are benefitting from higher coupons in the current environment. Increased yields in the primary market are feeding through to the secondary markets, driving attractive valuations which are also helped by the decline in volatility. Primary issuance is ongoing and with stability in the equity and rates markets we anticipate continued new issue supply at attractive levels. We are positioned with significant convexity in order to protect the downside alongside the potential to capture upside. We see the greatest value in balanced and yield instruments with solid convertible structures. We retain a bias toward higher rated securities with good convexity.
