

HSBC Global Investment Funds

US SHORT DURATION HIGH YIELD BOND

Monthly report 31 January 2024 | Share class IC

Investment objective

The Fund aims to provide capital growth and income by investing in a portfolio of high yield securities that are related to the USA with an expected average duration of between 1 and 3 years whilst maintaining low interest rate risk.

Investment strategy

The Fund is actively managed.

In normal market conditions, the Fund will invest at least 70% in non-investment grade bonds, unrated bonds and other higher yielding securities issued by companies which are based in USA.

The Fund may also invest up to 10% in bonds issued by companies that are based in emerging markets, up to 30% in investment grade bonds to manage liquidity and risk. The Fund may invest up to 10% in bonds and other similar securities which have a maturity longer than five years.

The Fund may invest up to 10% in securities issued by any single government issuer with a non-investment grade rating.

The Fund may invest up to 10% in convertible bonds, up to 15% in contingent convertible securities, up to 10% in asset-backed securities and mortgage-backed securities, up to 10% invested in other funds and may also invest in bank deposits, money market instrument for treasury purposes.

The Fund's primary currency exposure is to USD.

See the Prospectus for a full description of the investment objectives and derivative usage.

Main risks

- The Fund's unit value can go up as well as down, and any capital invested in the Fund may be at risk.
- The Fund invests in bonds whose value generally falls when interest rates rise. This risk is typically greater the longer the maturity of a bond investment and the higher its credit quality. The issuers of certain bonds, could become unwilling or unable to make payments on their bonds and default. Bonds that are in default may become hard to sell or worthless.
- The Fund may invest in Emerging Markets, these markets are less established, and often more volatile, than developed markets and involve higher risks, particularly market, liquidity and currency risks.

Monthly performance commentary

January was characterized by a continued risk asset rally fuelled by strong US growth data, a resilient consumer and subdued inflation at the same time as markets were anticipating a dovish Fed with markets pricing rate cuts as soon as March. This was partly offset by concerns around the conflict in the Middle East and the implications it may have on global growth due to higher oil prices, disrupted shipping, and higher transport costs. Credit markets were broadly positive over the month delivering another month of positive total return. Monthly supply in IG issuance was $99.5 billion, as January issuance picked up following the holiday season. HY saw a similar pick up in January with $28.4 billion issued over the month. US Treasuries saw the curve normalize somewhat with yields on short dated maturities falling while longer dated bonds saw yields rise over the month with the 2, 5, 10 and 30 year moving -4, -1, 3 and 14 basis points to finish the month at 4.21%, 3.84%, 3.91% and 4.17% respectively.

The strategy delivered positive performance on an absolute basis gross of fees.

From a regional perspective the portfolio is 77% USD and 23% Euro denominated bonds. The average credit rating of the portfolio is BB/BB- and is focused mainly on the BB and B segments with 50% and 36% respectively. The portfolio also has an allocation of 9% to BBB bonds and 2% to CCC bonds. The overall duration is 1.65 years taken mainly in the 1-2 and 2-3 year segments on an option adjusted basis. The largest sector exposures are to consumer cyclicals, financials and communications. The strategy's running yield is 5.63% and the total gross YTW is 6.49% (total gross yield to worst includes carry from currency hedging).

Outlook

Early February saw a change in market sentiment as Fed comments dashed investor optimism around March rate cuts with markets repricing for a more hawkish stance. As a result, risk assets have sold off and spreads have slightly widened out. While this hasn't changed the underlying fundamentals of the economy, which remains solid, or the expectations for a soft landing, it has moved spreads away from the historical tight levels they had been bumping up against. Our expectation is that the global economy will slow, and the fed will begin to cut rates towards the middle of the year. As a result, over the longer term we still expect that spreads are more likely to move wider as we move towards a slowdown with more moderate inflation. In the short term however, we don't see any specific catalyst that would send spreads meaningfully wider, and we expect they could continue to grind tighter. As a result, we are currently positioned with a more neutral bias. We also remain tactical with our positioning, taking advantage of short-term opportunities as they arise.

For Global High Yield, yields finish January 7.8% with a spread of 385. In the short term we don't see any specific driver to send spreads meaningfully wider and are therefore positioned with a more neutral credit bias in the portfolio. Given our longer-term view of an economic slowdown however we are focusing more on less cyclical sectors and on issuers we believe will be better placed to weather a slowdown in growth. Regionally, we have a slight preference for Euro HY vs US HY given wider valuations and we see some value both in EM and ABS as diversifiers and based on relative value.

Risk Disclosure

- Derivatives may be used by the Fund, and these can behave unexpectedly. The pricing and volatility of many derivatives may diverge from strictly reflecting the pricing or volatility of their underlying reference(s), instrument or asset.
- Investment Leverage occurs when the economic exposure is greater than the amount invested, such as when derivatives are used. A Fund that employs leverage may experience greater gains and/or losses due to the amplification effect from a movement in the price of the reference source.
- Where overseas investments are held the rate of currency exchange may cause the value of such investments to go down as well as up.
- Investment involves risk. Past performance figures shown are not indicative of future performance. Investors should read the prospectus (including the risk warnings) and the product highlights sheets, before investing. Daily price change percentage is based on bid-bid price.

Different classes may have different performances, dividend yields and expense ratios. For hedged classes, the effects of hedging will be reflected in the net asset values of such classes. Expenses arising from hedging transactions may be significant and will be borne by the relevant hedged classes. Hedged class performs the required hedging on a best efforts basis.

Performance is annualised when calculation period is over one year. Past performance does not predict future returns. Fund return: NAV-to-NAV basis. For comparison with benchmark.

Performance numbers shown are before netting off sales / realisation charges.

The above table cites the last dividend paid within the last 12 months only.

Dividend is not guaranteed and may be paid out of capital, which will result in capital erosion and reduction in net asset value. A positive distribution yield does not imply a positive return. Past distribution yields and payments do not represent future distribution yields and payments. Historical payments may comprise of distributed income, capital, or both.

The calculation method of annualised yield prior to August 2019 is the simple yield calculation: (dividend amount / NAV per share or units as of ex-dividend date) x n; The calculation method of annualised yield from August 2019 is the compound yield calculation:  $((1 + (\text{dividend amount} / \text{ex-dividend NAV}))^n) - 1$ , n depends on the distributing frequency. Annually distribution is 1; semi-annually distribution is 2; quarterly distribution is 4; monthly distribution is 12.

The annualised dividend yield is calculated based on the dividend distribution on the relevant date with dividend reinvested, and may be higher or lower than the actual annual dividend yield.

Investors and potential investors should refer to the details on dividend distributions of the Fund, which are available on HSBC Asset Management (Singapore) Limited website.
