Fund Manager comments

Echiquier Arty SRI D turned in a positive monthly performance of 2.79% and of 9.02% year-to-date.

The fund finished the year ahead of its index, driven by its two performance drivers. Equities posted an excellent performance, as did bonds, which were the main driver. The increase in the weighting of bonds throughout the year enabled the fund to accelerate its performance in the last two months of the year, as interest rates were expected to fall significantly. In equities, the extraordinary comeback of cyclical stocks was particularly noteworthy, especially mid-caps such as Beijer Ref and Croda. These stocks returned more than 10% in December. Other stocks benefiting from the fall in interest rates were infrastructure companies such as EDP Renovaveis. On the bond side, convertibles are making a comeback after a difficult year. The combination of falling interest rates and rising equities is particularly favourable for this strategy. Prysmian and Cellnex are benefiting from these two factors. Finally, all the other bond asset classes are participating in the end-of-year rally. The fund maintains a bond weighting of around 70% for a yield of around 4%. Equity exposure remains below 22%.
