The indicator above does not signal the risk of a potential loss, but indicates the fluctuations in the sub-fund's share price in the past.

- The share class is assigned to this category because its share price can fluctuate sharply due to the investment policy applied.
- The historical data used to calculate the profile cannot be used as a reliable guide to the future risk profile of the sub-fund.
- The risk category shown is not guaranteed and may change.
- Even the lowest risk category is not entirely free of risk.

When assigning a sub-fund's share class to a risk category, it may be the case that not all risks are taken into account due to the calculation model used. Such risks include risks in connection with exceptional market events, operational errors, legal and political events. You can find a detailed list of the risks in the "Notice regarding general risks" section of the General Part and the "Risk profile" section of the Special Part of the sales prospectus.

The following risks have no direct influence on this category, but may still be important:

- The portfolio has lower risk diversification as the focus lies on companies within a specific investment theme.
- Using derivatives generally creates leverage and entails valuation risks and operational risks. Leverage magnifies gains but also losses. Over-the-counter derivatives involve corresponding counterparty risks.
- The investment manager applies ESG criteria in its investment process which may affect the sub-fund's investment performance positively or negatively since the execution of the ESG strategy may result in foregoing opportunities to buy certain securities, and/or selling securities due to their ESG-related characteristics.
- Investments in China A-Shares are subject to changes in political, economic and social conditions in China as well as changes in the policies of the PRC government, laws and regulations.
- This share class is issued in a currency different from the sub-fund currency. The investor is therefore exposed to the full currency risk when investing in the sub-fund.
