FUND MANAGER'S COMMENTS

European equity markets displayed positive return for the sixth consecutive month in July, underpinned by a very strong reporting season for Q2 and H1 results. Growth stocks continued to outperform but the sector picture was more mixed with Basic Resources, Real Estate, Media and Diversified Financials among the best performers and Oil&gas, Retail, Auto and Banks among the detractors.

Still structured on three investment pillars (Healthcare, Pension & Savings and Consumers), our investments in the sub-fund GIS SRI Ageing Population were reinforced with the focus on the contribution of the invested companies to social objectives linked to the ageing of the population, such as health, ageing well, living better lives and providing solutions to the challenges of ageing societies.

The strong outperformance of the sub-fund compared to its benchmark in July (at around +100bp) and over the last 5 months mainly came from our selection process. It offset the underperformance witnessed early 2021 as a consequence of the Value style rally seen in January – February.

Selected names that contribute positively to the HEALTH of seniors performed well in July even if the whole European Healthcare sector didn't emerge as a clear winner over the period with a performance in line with the MSCI Europe index. Novo Nordisk stood out in the Pharma segment with a +10% return. The strong confidence of investors in Novo's growth prospects in Diabetes (especially with its GLP1 franchise) and its ability to generate revenue in other specialties (in obesity or cardiovascular disease, as illustrated by the recent successful launch of Wegovy or the partnership with Prothena in rare heart disease ATTR amyloidosis) drove its share price to new record high. Carl Zeiss Meditec and Straumann in Medical Equipment also posted double digit gain over the month (respectively +15% and +16%). These companies have in common to be high long-term growth stories with a more conjectural support from the pent-up demand.

The AGEING WELL component witnessed a more mixed situation. On one side, stocks in Nutrition such as DSM and Symrise jumped by respectively 8% and 6% (ahead of Q2 results) and on the other side, players in Life & Health Insurance lost ground. In addition to stock specific news, the unexpected decline in US interest rate hit the Insurance sector in July leading the whole sector to significantly underperform the market (and financial names) in 2021. Historically, the second half of the year is more supportive for the segment and some catalysts are expected for selected names in portfolio (e.g. Prudential with the demerger of Jackson). In the Wealth & Asset Management sub-segment, Amundi rose 5%, helped by buoyant financial markets, cost discipline and promising perspectives for its international divisions.

Similarly, the LIVING WELL category displayed contrasted performances. The Safety & Home Automation segment was the best performer with Legrand and Assa Abloy up 6%. Both companies benefit from their strong market share in their respective markets, enabling to adjust prices upwards in an adverse inflationary environment where input costs are under pressure. Consequently, the French specialist in electrical and digital building infrastructures lifted its organic growth guidance for the full year and remains confident to improve its profitability at around 20%. The Personal Care segment performance was affected by the publication and the outlook of Unilever in terms of operating margin. In the first half of the year, input cost inflation weighed on its operating margin (100bp lower compared to the same period last year) and the outlook remain challenging. Its share price lost 2% (similar headwinds for Beiersdorf and Ontex, both down respectively 2% and 10%). The Travel & Leisure segment was helped by Trigano, up 5% following stellar quarterly sales (up 155% year-on-year in the motorhomes division) that benefit from the increased consumers interest in outdoor leisure in Europe.

Performances in the last category, composed of companies that offer SOCIAL SOLUTIONS to the challenges of ageing societies, were very positive in the Medical Innovation segment. Polypeptide Group, Dassault Systemes and RELX jumped respectively 18%, 14% and 11%.

The top relative contributors in portfolio in July were as follows:

- Positive: Dassault Systemes, Straumann, Merck Kgaa, DSM and Carl Zeiss Meditec
- Negative: Philips, Accor, Beiersdorf, Ontex and Scor

Portfolio Activity

The breakdown of the portfolio remained almost unchanged and at the end of July. The respective weightings of Health, Ageing Well, Better Living and Social Solutions segments stood at respectively 26%, 31%, 24% and 19%.

New lines in Mister Spex and Alcon were initiated. Both names should deliver significant sales and profit growth in the coming years in the buoyant optical market. At the opposite, we took profit on Sonova following the stellar YTD performance at +50%, illustrating the successful launch of its new products platform.

FNG Label 2021 for GIS SRI Ageing Population by the Forum Nachhaltige Geldanlagen e. V. (FNG) for sustainable investments in the German-speaking countries for its particularly ambitious and comprehensive sustainability strategy, which gained it additional points in the areas of institutional credibility, product standards, and transformation & impact.

The FNG Label is the SRI quality standard on the German speaking markets. Its holistic approach is based on a minimum standard. These minimum requirements consist of transparency and process criteria, the exclusion of weapons, nuclear power, coal, fracking, oil sands and the inclusion of provision for the four areas of the UN Global Compact: human rights, labour, environment and anti-corruption. Additionally, portfolio holdings have to be analysed on ESG-criteria. Building on these, the multi-grade model gives funds the opportunity to score additional points in the areas of institutional credibility, product standards, and transformation & impact. The auditor of the FNG Label is the University of Hamburg. GNG (Gesellschaft für die Qualitätssicherung Nachhaltiger Geldanlagen mbH) is responsible for handling organisational matters.
