If performance is calculated in a currency other than the euro, any losses or gains generated can thereby be affected by exchange rate fluctuations (both upward and downward). Management commentary

In the United States, economic activity remained robust, prompting the Fed to raise its interest rates for the third time during the year, as had been announced at the end of 2016. The US central bank, which remains optimistic about economic growth in 2018 (forecast raised to 2.4%) but more cautious with regard to inflation, also foresees three interest-rate rises in 2018.

In the Eurozone, 2017 was also a good year and growth, stronger than forecast, is beginning to feed through to the labor market. These conditions have led the European Central Bank to raise its forecasts, both for growth (2.3% in 2018) and for inflation (a gradual rise but nonetheless rather disappointing, reaching 1.7% in 2020).

This good economic momentum and the prospect of less accommodating central bank monetary policies pushed yields up slightly. The German two-year rate ended the year at -0.62% (+6bps over the month) and the 10-year rate ended at 0.44% (+5bps over the month) compared, respectively, with -0.82% and 0.18% at the end of 2016. Rumors of general elections in Italy on March 4 pushed Italy's 10-year spread up by 20bps to 156bps. In contrast, the Catalan elections, won by the independence candidates in terms of number of seats although not in terms of number of votes, had no significant impact on Spain's 10-year spread, which ended the month at 113bps (+3bps). The upgrading of Portugal's rating (by two notches) by a second rating agency (Fitch) has made Portugal eligible for a certain number of investors and enabled its spreads to continue to contract, bringing them down to below those of Italy for all maturities. Inflation expectations continue their gradual rise thanks to stronger oil prices boosted by dynamic demand. Lastly, the US/Germany 10-year spread contracted by 6bps to 199bps, with US rates ending the year stable month on month after having risen by 10bps when the tax reform was voted.

This portfolio is indexed to the JPM EMU GBI INVESTMENT GRADE index. We are keeping the relative exposure in sensitivity between the portfolio and its index as low as possible by investing in a limited number of securities, thus ensuring minimum risk.
