(1) The summary risk indicator (SRI) is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the market or because we are not able to pay you. It ranges from 1 (low risk) to 7 (high risk). This indicator is not constant and will change according to the fund's risk profile. The lowest category does not mean risk-free. Historical data, such as that used to calculate the SRI, may not be a reliable indication of the fund's future risk profile. There is no guarantee that the investment objectives in terms of risk will be achieved.

Portfolio manager comment

In aggregate, sector allocation decisions had a modest positive effect on relative performance during the month. Overweight allocations to the aerospace/defense and health care sectors contributed to relative results. This was partially offset by an overweight to the consumer cyclical services sector and an underweight to energy which detracted.

Security selection detracted from benchmark relative returns over the month. Specifically, security selection in the technology, diversified manufacturing and aerospace/defense sectors detracted from relative performance. Within diversified manufacturing, exposure to Maxeon Solar Technologies had a negative effect on performance. Maxeon Solar Technologies, Ltd. (MAXN) designs, manufactures, markets and sells energy equipment worldwide. Despite recent challenges in the European solar industry, we continue to expect for MAXN to benefit from its industry leading technology and conservative financial policy.

In contrast, the largest contributors to security selection were in the health care and automotive sectors. Within health care, an overweight to Shockwave Medical contributed. Shockwave Medical, Inc. manufactures medical devices and focuses on developing and commercializing intravascular lithotripsy technology (IVL). Shockwave benefits from a strong pipeline focused on continued innovation and expansion of its product portfolio and the potential use of IVL in new indications. Additionally, we would note that Shockwave was acquired by Johnson & Johnson in early April. We have since exited our position on the back of this news as our investment thesis of a potential acquisition has played out.
