(1) The summary risk indicator (SRI) is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the market or because we are not able to pay you. It ranges from 1 (low risk) to 7 (high risk). This indicator is not constant and will change according to the fund's risk profile. The lowest category does not mean risk-free. Historical data, such as that used to calculate the SRI, may not be a reliable indication of the fund's future risk profile. There is no guarantee that the investment objectives in terms of risk will be achieved.

MONTHLY MANAGEMENT COMMENT

Consumer discretionary, health care, and real estate contributed most during the month on a sector basis, relative to the benchmark. Within consumer discretionary, not holding Burlington Stores and PVH contributed most to relative results. Within health care, our out-of-benchmark allocations to Inspire Medical Systems and PTC Therapeutics contributed most relative to results. Shares of Inspire Medical Systems, a medical technology company that focuses on the development of solutions for patients with obstructive sleep apnea, rose over the period after data of Eli Lilly & Co.'s weight-loss drug Zepbound which showed improved breathing problems in patients with obstructive sleep apnea was deemed as not a threat. Shares of PTC Therapeutics, a US pharmaceutical company focused on the development of orally administered small molecule drugs and gene therapy, rose over the period after the company beat first quarter revenue and EPS estimates. Within real estate, our overweight to Lamar Advertising and not holding EastGroup Properties contributed most to relative results. Shares of Lamar Advertising, an outdoor advertising company which operates billboards, logo signs, and transit displays in the United States and Canada, rose over the period on a positive first-quarter outlook. Information technology, utilities, and industrials detracted most from relative results during the month. Within information technology, our out-of-benchmark allocation to Informatica and overweight to MKS Instruments detracted most from relative results. Shares of Informatica, an American software development company, declined over the period after Salesforce's takeover talks slowed after the parties struggled to agree to terms. Shares of MKS Instruments, an American process control instrumentation company, declined over the period on limited news. Within utilities, not holding Vistra and OGE Energy detracted most from relative results. Lastly, within industrials, our out-of-benchmark allocations to JB Hunt Transportation Services and Robert Half detracted most from relative results. Shares of JB Hunt Transport, which primarily operates semi-trailer trucks and provides transportation services throughout the continental US, Canada and Mexico, declined over the period after the company posted disappointing first-quarter results which sent warning signals across the sector. Shares of Robert Half, a talent solutions firm, declined over the period as the company's projections for revenue and profit in the current quarter missed Wall Street's expectations.
