Risk and Reward Profile

The risk and reward profile of the Sub-Fund is represented by a synthetic indicator which classifies the Sub-Fund on a 1 to 7 ranking. Such ranking, in ascending order from left to right, represents the risk and reward levels from the lower to the higher.

The above risk indicator is based on the historic volatility of the simulated net asset value of the share class and it may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the share class.

The risk category shown above is not guaranteed and may change over time.

The lowest category does not mean risk free.

This share class is classified in category 5 because its net asset value has shown medium to high fluctuations historically.

The following risks may be materially relevant for the Sub-Fund and may not be adequately captured by the above indicator:

- Credit risk, i.e. the risk that the issuer of a financial instrument does not return capital or pay income;
- Liquidity risk, i.e. the risk that, in particular market circumstances, there are insufficient buyers or sellers to allow the Sub-Fund to sell or buy financial instruments readily for a convenient price;

- Counterparty risk, i.e. the risk that an institution acting as a counterparty in transactions in financial derivatives or for the safekeeping of assets of the Sub-Fund may become insolvent;
- Operational risk, including the risks linked to the safekeeping of assets in certain markets or those related to unpredictable or force majeure events;
- Risks linked to the investment in financial derivatives, i.e. the risk that variations in the market prices of the underlying instruments may be magnified in terms of profits and losses for the Sub-Fund (leverage);
- Event Risk, i.e. the risk that some unexpected event will cause a substantial decline in the market value of a security, e.g. devaluations, political events, etc.;
- Sustainability risk: means an environmental, social or governance event or condition that, if it occurs, could cause a negative material impact on the value of the investment. The sustainability risk is currently assessed only for the sub-funds pursuing sustainable investment objectives or aiming at the promotion of environmental and/or social characteristics.
