

Robeco FinTech I EUR

Robeco FinTech is an actively managed fund that invests in stocks in developed and emerging countries. The selection of these stocks is based on fundamental analysis. The fund's objective is to achieve a better return than the index. Proprietary valuation models are used to select stocks with good earnings prospects and a reasonable valuation and those companies which benefit from the increasing digitization of the financial sector are included. These are individually assessed on the basis of industry trend analysis, in-depth discussions with corporate management, analysts and industry experts.

Performance

Indexed value (until 28-02-2022) - Source: Robeco

Performance

Based on transaction prices, the fund's return was -6.38%.

The challengers and winners made equally negative performance contributions. Enablers made a clearly lower but still negative performance contribution. The best relative performance was delivered by Upstart, Discover Financial Services, CyberArk, Capital One Financial, Signature Bank, Endava and Adyen. The largest detractors from performance were TCS Group, PayPal, Kaspi and Intuit.

Market development

Just when Covid worries started to dissipate as we entered the endemic phase of the virus, and the world started to prepare for full normalization of the global economy, the Russian invasion of Ukraine is casting dark clouds over financial markets. It is difficult to write about fundamentals in fintech when the whole world is concerned about Russia's next move and the subsequent sanctions. All this pales in comparison with the human tragedy we can witness every day. Our only direct exposure to Russia is challenger bank TCS Group. Coming back to fundamentals, virtually all our holdings sold off in February, in spite of solid earnings reports from for example Square (Block), Upstart, Adyen, MercadoLibre and NU Holdings. Clearly PayPal disappointed investors. Overall, 73% of our holdings have now reported, with 96% reporting in-line to better revenues and 71% reporting in-line to better EPS. The relatively poorer EPS performance often comes from increasing costs as companies decide to invest for the future. Despite all the market turmoil and uncertainty, February was very active in terms of M&A deals, funding rounds as well as in terms of calls for more regulation and oversight.

Expectation of fund manager

The digitalization of financial services continues and is even accelerating in some areas such as digital payments. Digital payments are accelerating; the move from cash to plastic through credit and debit cards is already being overhauled by a shift towards digital and mobile wallets. One of the important features of BNPL is that it removes friction for the consumer. Removing this friction for the end consumer is core to embedded finance. In essence, it is about offering financial services hidden in commercial transactions in such a way that the customer does not see them. Software is eating the world! The trend towards embedded finance only underpins our belief that traditional banks and insurers need to invest more and outsource more of their IT stack to stay relevant. Fintech can also stimulate financial inclusion, by serving clients that do not have a bank account, and by supporting people living in poverty or in vulnerable situations by reducing their exposure and vulnerability to shocks and disasters through insurance.

Sustainability

The fund incorporates sustainability in the investment process through exclusions, ESG integration, engagement and voting. The fund does not invest in issuers that are in breach of international norms or where activities have been deemed detrimental to society following Robeco's exclusion policy. Financially material ESG factors are integrated in the bottom-up investment analysis to assess existing and potential ESG risks and opportunities. In the stock selection the fund limits exposure to elevated sustainability risks. In addition, where a stock issuer is flagged for breaching international standards in the ongoing monitoring, the issuer will become subject to engagement. Lastly, the fund makes use of shareholder rights and applies proxy voting in accordance with Robeco's proxy voting policy.

Asset Allocation

Sector allocation

The fund does not have a sector allocation policy. The fund invests in three different segments that benefit from the digitization of the financial sector, and focuses on the fintech long-term growth investment universe. It invests in three distinct segments, labeled as winners, challengers and enablers. Winners are well-established companies that clearly stand out from their peers. Challengers are younger, less-established companies that have the potential to become tomorrow's winners. Enablers are companies that help the financial industry to develop and implement technology.

Regional allocation

The fund currently has about 68% of its investments in the US, which is the dominant country for listed fintech equity investments, but over time we expect China, India and other emerging markets next to Europe to gain importance. We have defined a proprietary fintech universe with companies exposed to payments, distributed ledger technology, regtech, insurtech, personal finance, security, wealth management, electronic trading, big data, etc.

Investment policy

Robeco FinTech is an actively managed fund that invests in stocks in developed and emerging countries. The selection of these stocks is based on fundamental analysis. The fund's objective is to achieve a better return than the index. The fund promotes ESG (i.e. Environmental, Social and corporate Governance) characteristics within the meaning of Article 8 of the European Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation and integrates ESG and sustainability risks in the investment process. In addition, the fund applies an exclusion list on the basis of controversial behavior, products (including controversial weapons, tobacco, palm oil and fossil fuel) and countries, next to voting and engaging. Proprietary valuation models are used to select stocks with good earnings prospects and a reasonable valuation and those companies which benefit from the increasing digitization of the financial sector are included. These are individually assessed on the basis of industry trend analysis, in-depth discussions with corporate management, analysts and industry experts. The majority of stocks selected will be components of the Benchmark, but stocks outside the Benchmark may be selected too. The investment policy is not constrained by a benchmark but the fund may use a benchmark for comparison purposes. The fund can deviate substantially from the issuer, country and sector weightings of the Benchmark. There are no restrictions on the deviation from the Benchmark. The Benchmark is a broad market weighted index that is not consistent with the ESG characteristics promoted by the fund.
