Note on currency hedging: Currency exposure can introduce significant risk to an international bond allocation; hedging that risk can reduce that volatility over time. Hedging currency, however, produces a return - positive or negative - that is distinct from currency return and the return of an investment's underlying bonds. This "hedged return" is part of the investor's total return, and it effectively replaces the currency return. The hedged yield may therefore differ materially from the local currency yield.

Please see page 1 for information on management fees, ongoing charges figure and below for more information about the reference index, which is used for comparative purposes only.

Credit Risk: Issuers of bonds, loans and other fixed income investments ("Investments") held in the portfolio may default on their obligations or have their credit rating downgraded, possibly resulting in a temporary or permanent decrease in the value of those Investments. Investments in the portfolio may be below investment grade, meaning that they may produce a higher level of income but also carry greater risk of default than higher-rated Investments.
