Objectives and investment policy

OBJECTIVE

To increase the value of your investment, while seeking a positive return in any market conditions (absolute return) and capital preservation.

REFERENCE INDEX

Secured Overnight Financing Rate (SOFR) is used for performance measurement.

PORTFOLIO ASSETS

The Compartment will seek exposure mainly to emerging markets (including Mainland China) through a broad range of corporate and government bonds, convertible bonds, money market instruments, currencies and/or deposits. These bonds may include Sharia-compliant bonds. The Compartment may invest directly in these asset classes or through structured products or derivatives. The Compartment can invest across any sector, credit quality and currency.

DERIVATIVES AND STRUCTURED PRODUCTS

The Compartment may use derivatives to reduce various risks (hedging) and for efficient portfolio management, and may use derivatives and structured products to gain exposure to portfolio assets.

COMPARTMENT CURRENCY

INVESTMENT PROCESS

In actively managing the Compartment, the investment manager uses market and issuer analysis to select securities that it believes offer favourable growth prospects at a reasonable price (long position) while selling securities of companies that seem to be overvalued (short position). The investment manager may invest in issuers with any environmental, social, and governance (ESG) profile. It methodically exercises voting rights and may engage with issuers in order to positively influence ESG practices. The portfolio composition is not constrained relative to the benchmark, so the similarity of the Compartment's performance to that of the benchmark may vary.

Terms to understand

Bonds Securities that represent an obligation to repay a debt, along with interest.

Convertible bonds Bonds that offer the holder the option of receiving the payment of principal in a predetermined number of equity shares.

Derivatives Financial instruments whose value is linked to one or more rates, indexes, share prices or other values.

Emerging markets Markets of less economically developed nations, such as some nations in Asia, Africa, Eastern Europe and Latin America.

Money market instruments Financial instruments designed to provide stable value, interest and a very low risk of loss, as well as being readily convertible into cash.

Structured products Securities similar to derivatives, but with defined risk or performance characteristics.

Sharia-compliant bonds (Sukuk Bonds) Unlike a conventional bond (secured or unsecured), which represents the debt obligation of the issuer Sukuk are structured as an ownership interest in an underlying asset funding arrangement. Sukuk holders do not receive interest payments, and rather are entitled to a proportionate share of the revenues generated by such arrangement and, at a defined future date, the return of the capital.

Other characteristics

Investors who understand the risks of this compartment and plan to invest for 3 years or more. This is an accumulation share class, meaning any income earned is retained in the share price. Orders to buy, switch or redeem shares are ordinarily processed every week.

Risk and reward profile

The Share Class is assigned to this risk category because of the price variations resulting from its currency and the nature of the Compartment's investments and strategy. The risk category shown is based on historical data and may not be a reliable indication for the future risk profile of the Share Class. It is not a target or a guarantee and may change over time. The lowest category does not mean a risk-free investment. The Compartment offers no capital guarantee or asset protection measures.

The Compartment may be exposed to the following risks which are not adequately captured by the synthetic risk indicator and may negatively impact its value:

- Financial Derivatives risk: the leverage resulting from derivatives amplifies losses in certain market conditions.
- Liquidity risk: markets with low volumes result in difficulties valuing and/or trading some assets.
- Counterparty risk: losses occur when a counterparty does not honour its obligations related to contracts such as over-the-counter derivatives.
- Credit risk: sudden losses may occur when issuers of debt securities default on their payment obligations.
- Investments in emerging markets are generally more sensitive to risk events, such as changes in the economic, political, fiscal and legal environment, as well as fraud.
- Investments in Mainland China may be subject to capital restrictions and trading quotas (e.g. QFII and RQFII regimes). The Compartment may encounter difficulties or delays in enforcing its rights in the event of disputes.
- Sukuk investments may lead to losses because of the lack of uniform regulatory standards and weak legal frameworks for settling disputes and defaults, among other risks.
- Contingent Convertible ("CoCo") investments may result in losses when regulatory or issuer-motivated triggering events cause a total loss of the investment or a conversion to equity.
- Operational risk: losses resulting from human errors, system failures, incorrect valuation and safekeeping of assets.
- RMB currency risk: the RMB is not currently a freely convertible currency and is subject to exchange control policies and restrictions.
- Sustainability risk: ESG related risk events or conditions could cause a material negative impact on the value of the investment if they were to occur.
