Performance

Based on transaction prices, the fund's return was -2.38%.

The fund performance was negative in February. The impact of duration was negative over February, although the impact was moderated by the increase in portfolio duration close to the peak in yields. Credit made a big negative contribution in February, as credit markets faced a risk-off. On a company level, Novosteel was the largest negative contributor, as prices for Russian assets dropped significantly. Our position in Austrian bank Raiffeisen also made a negative contribution, as the company has sizable Russian operations.

Market development

In the first half of February, market direction was dominated by expected central bank actions, as inflation continued to surprise on the upside. After the Russian invasion of Ukraine, credit markets faced a risk-off. Western countries reacted to the Russian invasion with severe sanctions. These sanctions led to a huge sell-off in Russian assets. In energy markets we saw a significant rise in oil and gas prices. Other commodities like wheat also faced price increases. The higher commodity prices will have an impact on inflation numbers, which are already high. This will put central banks in a difficult position. The Russia/Ukraine crisis could push economies into a recession, while on the other hand inflation is still high. Apart from Russia, other emerging markets did relatively well. Latin American and Asian credits were relatively stable. The JP Morgan CEMBI Index spread widened 89 bps to 3.80%, which was largely driven by Russian names. The Bloomberg Global Aggregate-Corporates Index widened 25 bps to 1.33%, and the Bloomberg Global High Yield Index widened 47 bps to 4.69%. 5-year Treasury rates peaked at 1.95% in February, but ended the month at 1.72% after the Russian invasion.

Expectation of fund manager

The Russian invasion in Ukraine has led to a lot of uncertainty and spread widening in credit markets. On top of that, there is also still the overhang of higher inflation, which could lead to central bank action. Credit markets have started to reprice and some parts of the market are starting to look more attractive. However, given the uncertainty in markets, we only gradually started to add some risk in repriced assets.

Top 10 largest positions

The top ten positions mostly consist of high yield-rated corporates and holdings in subordinated financials. Our subordinated financials positions are mainly in Tier 2 securities. Our high yield holdings are in relatively stable packaging and telecom companies or in names where we expect improvement in ratings like ZF Friedrichshafen.

Sustainability

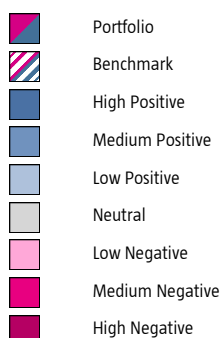

The fund's sustainable investment objective is to advance the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). SDG and sustainability considerations are incorporated in the investment process by the means of a target universe, exclusions and ESG integration. The fund solely invests in credits issued by companies with a positive or neutral impact on the SDGs. The impact of issuers on the SDGs is determined by applying Robeco's internally developed three-step SDG Framework. The outcome is a quantified contribution expressed as an SDG score, considering both the contribution to the SDGs (positive, neutral or negative) and the extent of this contribution (high, medium or low). In addition, the fund does not invest in credit issuers that are in breach of international norms or where activities have been deemed detrimental to society following Robeco's exclusion policy. Financially material ESG factors are integrated in the bottom-up security analysis to assess the impact on the issuer's fundamental credit quality. Lastly, where a credit issuer is flagged for breaching international standards in the ongoing monitoring, the issuer will become subject to exclusion.

SDG Contribution

The SDG score shows to what extent the portfolio and the benchmark contribute to the 17 UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). Scores are assigned to each underlying company using the Robeco SDG Framework, which utilizes a three-step approach to calculate a company's contribution to the relevant SDGs. The starting point is an assessment of the products offered by a company, followed by the way in which these products are produced, and finally whether the company is exposed to any controversies. The outcome is expressed in a final score which shows the extent to which a company impacts the SDGs on a scale from highly negative (dark red) to highly positive (dark blue).

The bar shows the aggregate percentage exposure of the portfolio and the benchmark (shaded) to the different SDG scores. This is then also split out per SDG. As a company can have an impact on several SDGs (or none), the values shown in the report do not sum to 100%. More information on Robeco's SDG Framework can be found at: <https://www.robeco.com/docm/docu-robeco-explanation-sdg-framework.pdf>

Sector allocation

The fund invests in investment grade credit, high yield and emerging markets. Our most recent Quarterly Outlook confirmed our more cautious outlook on credit markets. The fund continues to have a position in Treasuries, which could be used to invest in credits in a potential market sell-off. Within the different sectors we continue to favor financials. Credit fundamentals in the sector will improve in a higher yield environment as profitability increases. Within emerging markets, we do not have exposure to mainland China, as spreads are not compensating for tail risks. The portfolio has a small direct exposure to Russia, with Novosteel being the only Russian company in the portfolio.

Subordination allocation

The fund holds a significant allocation to Tier 2 instruments in banking and insurance. We like Tier 2 instruments in the insurance sector and high yield-rated Tier 2 instruments issued by banks. After the Russian invasion, bank AT-1 debt started to sell off and is starting to look more attractive.
