Rolling 12-month-performance

Source: Bellevue Asset Management, 31.03.2024; all figures in EUR %, total return / BVI-methodology
Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future results and can be misleading. As the fund is denominated in a currency that may differ than an investor's base currency, changes in the rate of exchange may have an adverse effect on prices and incomes. Performance is shown net of fees and expenses for the relevant share class over the reference period. All performance figures reflect the reinvestment of dividends and do not take into account the commissions and costs incurred on the issue and redemption of shares, if any. Individual costs are not taken into account and would have a negative impact on the performance. With an investment amount of EUR 1,000 over an investment period of five years, the investment result in the first year would be reduced by the front-end load of up to EUR 50 (5%) as well as by additional individual custody charges. In subsequent years, the investment result would also be reduced by the individual custody account costs incurred. The reference benchmark of this class is used for performance comparison purposes only (dividend reinvested). No benchmark is directly identical to a fund, thus the performance of a benchmark is not a reliable indicator of future performance of the fund to which it is compared. There can be no assurance that a return will be achieved or that a substantial loss of capital will not be incurred.

Market review

Global stocks (MSCI World Net Index +3.2%) and the US tech sector (Nasdaq 100 +1.2%) gained more ground in March. The broader healthcare sector also showed a positive return (MSCI World Healthcare Net +2.3%), as did the Bellevue Digital Health Fund (+1.2%).

The market's gains during the month under review were driven by optimistic management commentary, new product approvals, takeover rumors, and nearly unchanged US bond yields.

15 of the 33 positions in the portfolio made a positive contribution to performance in March.

The best performance drivers among the top 10 portfolio positions were Shockwave (+24.8%), Dexcom (+20.5%), Align Technology (+8.4%), Natera (+5.7%) and Intuitive Surgical (+3.5%). Among the smaller positions, Exact Sciences (+20.0%) and Inspire Medical (+20.0%) stood out.

Shockwave's shares jumped after the Wall Street Journal wrote that Johnson & Johnson was interested in buying the company. After Boston Scientific announced the acquisition of Axonics in January, this would be the second acquisition of a company in the digital health portfolio this year and it would again underpin our expectation of increasing acquisition activity going forward.

The US FDA approved Dexcom's Stelo, an innovative wearable glucose biosensor designed for people living with type 2 diabetes not on insulin, a market that numbers 25 million people in the US alone. It is the first over-the-counter glucose sensor to reach the market and can be worn for up to 15 days before requiring a replacement.

Natera shares were marked up after its Renasight genetic test for people with chronic kidney disease (CKD) was recommended in the updated medical guidelines of the Kidney Disease Improving Global Outcomes (KDIGO) organization.

Exact Sciences shares rose after publishing excellent clinical data for its new colorectal cancer screening test Cologuard Plus in the New England Journal of Medicine (NEJM).

Inspire Medical attracted buyers after investors recognized that clinical data from Eli Lilly's SURMOUNT-OSA study could actually be a much more positive catalyst.

Pacific Biosciences (-32.2%), Recursion Pharmaceuticals (-25.9%), 10X Genomics (-19.5%), Privia Health (-12.2%) and TransMedics (-9.4%) detracted most from performance in March.

Pacific Biosciences management's presentation of the market potential of its long-read Revio sequencing system at a couple of conferences failed to convince investors. We believe that the macroeconomic environment needs to improve before its shares can stage a strong recovery.

Recursion Pharmaceuticals, which specializes in proprietary AI-enabled tools to accelerate drug discovery processes, fell short of consensus sales expectations because of a delayed milestone payment.

The investment community is not yet convinced of the potential behind 10X Genomics' GEM-X technology because its currently high cost is seen as an obstacle to broad market adoption. All performance data is in USD / B shares.

Positioning & outlook

From a fundamental point of view, digital health companies have reported stable above-average growth and that is expected to continue in 2024.

In their discussions with investors during February and March, the executives of many companies made positive remarks about business in the first quarter and for 2024 as a whole. The approval and subsequent launch of relevant new products will continue to bolster sales growth, too. Examples here are Inspire Medical's new Inspire 5 device for obstructive sleep apnea, Dexcom's Stelo and G7 blood glucose sensors, Intuitive Surgical's new da Vinci 5 surgical robot, and Insulet's Omnipod 5 patch pump.

As witnessed during the last two years, even outstanding sector-specific fundamentals can be overridden by macroeconomic developments and shifting investor preferences. In 2024, we expect our investment solution to benefit from several factors: Cuts in US interest rates (which usually benefits growth stocks the most), attractive valuation levels (price/sales multiples close to historical lows), an expected increase in M&A and IPO activity, a general repositioning as investors drop last year's outperforming stocks and buy high-quality stocks, and the underwhelming growth outlook for the world economy (which in the past has been a relatively good setting for non-cyclical subsectors such as the digital health) underpin our optimism and make a good case for investing in the Bellevue Digital Health (Lux) Fund.

Risk and return profile acc. to SRI

The Fund's investment objective is to generate attractive and competitive capital growth in the long term. It is therefore particularly suited to investors with an investment horizon of at least 5 years who want to selectively diversify their portfolio with investments in companies whose business activities have a strong focus on the digitalization of the healthcare sector and who are willing to accept the equity risk typical of this sector.

We have rated this product as risk class 6 on a scale of 1 to 7, with 6 being the second highest risk class. The risk of potential losses from future performance is considered high. In the event of very adverse market conditions, it is very likely that the ability to execute your redemption request will be impaired. The calculation of the risk and earnings profile is based on simulated/historical data, which cannot be used as a reliable indication of the future risk profile. The classification of the fund may change in future and does not constitute a guarantee. Even a fund classed in category 1 does not constitute a completely risk-free investment. There can be no guarantee that a return will be achieved or that a substantial loss of capital will not be incurred. The overall risk exposure may have a strong impact on any return achieved by the fund or subfund. For further information please refer to the fund prospectus or PRIIP-KID.

Liquidity risk

The fund may invest some of its assets in financial instruments that may in certain circumstances reach a relatively low level of liquidity, which can have an impact on the fund's liquidity.

Risk arising from the use of derivatives

The fund may conclude derivatives transactions. This increases opportunities, but also involves an increased risk of loss.

Currency risks

The fund may invest in assets denominated in a foreign currency. Changes in the rate of exchange may have an adverse effect on prices and incomes.

Operational risks and custody risks

The fund is subject to risks due to operational or human errors, which can arise at the investment company, the custodian bank, a custodian or other third parties.

Awards

Benefits

- Demographic changes and an aging general population demand greater efficiency and cost-effectiveness.
- New technologies conquer the healthcare sector.
- Portfolio consisting of high-quality growth stocks showing double-digit revenue growth.
- Regulation and stringent quality requirements limit the technological risk.
- Bellevue – Healthcare pioneer since 1993 and today one of the biggest independent investors in the sector in Europe.

Inherent risks

- The fund actively invests in equities. Equities are subject to price fluctuations and so are also exposed to the risk of price losses.
- The fund invests in foreign currencies, which means a corresponding degree of currency risk against the reference currency.
- The fund may invest a proportion of its assets in financial instruments that might under certain circumstances have a relatively low level of liquidity, which can in turn affect the fund's liquidity.
- Equities linked to technology and/or digitization can be subject to higher-than-average fluctuations in value.
- The fund may engage in derivatives transactions. The increased opportunities gained come with an increased risk of losses.

You can find a detailed presentation of the risks faced by this fund in the "Special Investment Risks" section of the sales prospectus.
