FUND COMMENTARY

The MSCI Emerging Markets ex China index rose 1.4% in USD this month, compared to a decline of 0.8% for your portfolio.

Years of poor politics and corruption are making a material difference to the growth outlook of South Africa. The increasingly severe power shortages have caused GDP growth estimates to be cut, effectively to zero, while currency weakness and elevated inflation led the country's central bank to raise interest rates aggressively. Although not directly affected by the country's power shortages, the overall economic malaise and poor investor sentiment hampered the performance of portfolio names Discovery, Sanlam and MTN.

Brazil was driven by positive macro news. A new fiscal framework bill was approved by the Lower House and is now being discussed by the Senate. Brazilian inflation continues to decline faster than expected, bringing forward the timeline for potential interest rate cuts. This is boosting GDP estimates for Q1'23 and full-year 2023 and 2024. Our Brazilian portfolio companies Localiza, B3 and Raia Drogasil each performed strongly this month.

Mexico underperformed the reference index as equities suffered from an unexpected expropriation by the government of a private railway asset. We added to Walmart de Mexico into stock weakness. The company has 58% market share of the formal food retailing in Mexico and produces consistent 10-13% EPS growth with a 3% dividend yield.

NVIDIA's positive announcement on demand for its AI-centric GPUs prompted a strong movement in the company's share price and similar movements across Korean and Taiwanese players, benefitting Samsung Electronics and TSMC which were the top contributors to portfolio performance during the period.
