Fund manager's report

With the exception of the Chinese markets, with a +2.5% gain for the CSI 300 and +7.4% for the Hang Seng Index, most of the global stock market indices declined in April: S&P 500 -4.1%, SPI -2.4% and the Stoxx 600 -0.8%.

In line with its theme, the fund continued to rise over the month, driven mainly by its allocation in the consumer discretionary sector. However, the selection in the basic materials sector limited the rise.

The much awaited post-Covid recovery still faces many challenges, such as lacklustre domestic consumption and pressure on real estate companies. In an effort to overcome these issues and strengthen its support for the real economy, at the end of April the Chinese government suggested that it would consider easing interest rates and reserve requirements via its monetary policy.

The main contributors to the fund's performance in April were Yadea, COSCO Shipping Ports and Tencent. Conversely, Kerry Logistics Network, Xinyi Solar and Caterpillar were among the detractors this month.
