Fund Manager's Comments

Market review

July saw a more upbeat period for global equity markets which moved higher as pockets of economic data continued to improve. US Consumer Price Inflation (CPI), a measure of how much goods and service costs change, came in better than expected, as did GDP growth and the level of unemployment.

With inflation appearing to come down the odds of an economic soft landing are increasing, meaning that the chance of significant recession is diminishing. Consequently, healthcare stocks underperformed the broader market as investors rotated into cyclical which tend to perform better at this stage of the cycle.

Within healthcare, small and mid-cap outperformed mega/large-cap names and at a subsector level life sciences tools and services, biotechnology, managed care and healthcare services were the standout areas, contrasting with healthcare facilities, healthcare distributors and healthcare equipment which underperformed. The Fund lagged its benchmark in July which delivered both a relative and absolute positive return in July.

So far, quarterly results have not thrown up any major surprises. Life sciences tools and services have been weak, with the majority of companies providing negative revisions to guidance as a result of a weak biotech funding environment, slightly more cautious approach to clinical development programme timings and some destocking. In contrast, healthcare facilities, drug and device manufacturers and suppliers have delivered good results as utilisation rates remained high, and a reversal of the major pricing pressures in generics. M&A activity remained buoyant helping to underpin valuations, especially in small and mid-caps.

Fund performance and activity

Positive stocks included Legend Biotech and MoonLake Immunotherapeutics. Legend Biotech, which has a co-commercialisation deal with Johnson & Johnson for a highly effective blood cancer therapy, posted very strong Q2 sales - well ahead of expectations. With anticipation growing of a broader regulatory approval that will include patients at earlier stages of disease progression, the stock performed well. MoonLake Immunotherapeutics, which develops therapies for inflammatory conditions, posted strong late-stage clinical trial data demonstrating "best in class" potential late last month. The stock has continued to rally as the data is further digested and its potential as an acquisition target recognised.

Negative stocks included Avadel Pharmaceuticals and Inspire Medical Systems. Avadel Pharmaceuticals, which has recently launched a drug called Lumryz to combat a severe sleeping disorder, saw profit taking after a very strong run. Inspire Medical Systems, which has products for sleep apnoea, saw a sell off as investors contemplated the long-term impact of the new diabetes drug class, GLP-1. These drugs have been shown to be very effective in driving weight loss, which could lead to a reduction in the incidence of sleep apnoea. We remain constructive on both names.

Turning to trading activities, we reopened a position in AstraZeneca after the stock pulled back too far on what was deemed to be underwhelming clinical trial results for a lung cancer candidate. We added to Disc Medicine and took some profit from Max Healthcare Institute which has had a strong run.

Outlook

As we have progressed through 2023 economic data has improved and expectations relating to inflation are moderating. Healthcare company fundamentals remain very strong, balance sheets are healthy which is fuelling M&A, and utilisation rates are much improved. Clinical data and new drug approvals are also trending in the right direction. As a result, we remain highly constructive on the sector.

Morningstar Medalist Rating The Morningstar Medalist Rating™ is the summary expression of Morningstar's forward-looking analysis of investment strategies as offered via specific vehicles using a rating scale of Gold, Silver, Bronze, Neutral, and Negative. The Medalist Ratings indicate which investments Morningstar believes are likely to outperform a relevant index or peer group average on a risk-adjusted basis over time. Investment products are evaluated on three key pillars (People, Parent, and Process) which, when coupled with a fee assessment, forms the basis for Morningstar's conviction in those products' investment merits and determines the Medalist Rating they're assigned. Pillar ratings take the form of Low, Below Average, Average, Above Average, and High. Pillars may be evaluated via an analyst's qualitative assessment (either directly to a vehicle the analyst covers or indirectly when the pillar ratings of a covered vehicle are mapped to a related uncovered vehicle) or using algorithmic techniques. Vehicles are sorted by their expected performance into rating groups defined by their Morningstar Category and their active or passive status. When analysts directly cover a vehicle, they assign the three pillar ratings based on their qualitative assessment, subject to the oversight of the Analyst Rating Committee, and monitor and reevaluate them at least every 14 months. When the vehicles are covered either indirectly by analysts or by algorithm, the ratings are assigned monthly. For more detailed information about these ratings, including their methodology, please go to global.morningstar.com/managerdisclosures/.

The Morningstar Medalist Ratings are not statements of fact, nor are they credit or risk ratings. The Morningstar Medalist Rating (i) should not be used as the sole basis in evaluating an investment product, (ii) involves unknown risks and uncertainties which may cause expectations not to occur or to differ significantly from what was expected, (iii) are not guaranteed to be based on complete or accurate assumptions or models when determined algorithmically, (iv) involve the risk that the return target will not be met due to such things as unforeseen changes in management, technology, economic development, interest rate development, operating and/or material costs, competitive pressure, supervisory law, exchange rate, tax rates, exchange rate changes, and/or changes in political and social conditions, and (v) should not be considered an offer or solicitation to buy or sell the investment product. A change in the fundamental factors underlying the Morningstar Medalist Rating can mean that the rating is subsequently no longer accurate.
