Management Company: Amundi Luxembourg S.A.

Objective and Investment Policy

- The investment objective of the Portfolio is to track the Goldman Sachs Modified Strategy D197XLA on the Bloomberg Commodity ex-Agriculture and Livestock Capped Index Total Return (the "Strategy"). The Strategy seeks to outperform the Bloomberg Commodity ex-Agriculture and Livestock Capped Index Total Return (the "Benchmark Index") by varying the rules in relation to, and the timing for, the rolling of commodity futures contracts included in the Benchmark Index as further described below. These variations are intended to enhance the performance of the Strategy over that of the Benchmark Index, but there can be no assurance that these variations will have the desired effect and it is possible that they could actually result in the Strategy underperforming the Benchmark Index.
- If the value of the Strategy rises, the value of your investment should also rise. If the value of the Strategy falls, the value of your investment should also fall.
- The Benchmark Index is a version of the Bloomberg Commodity Index (the "BCOM") and calculated in the same manner as the BCOM save that the Benchmark Index:
 - excludes the commodities that make up the Bloomberg Commodity Agriculture and Livestock Index Total Return;
 - aims to cap the weight of the larger components included in the Benchmark Index on a monthly basis, the aim of which is to ensure that the weight of the largest component included in the Benchmark Index is capped at 30% and the weight of each remaining component is capped at 20%.
- Like the Benchmark Index, the Strategy is made up of commodity futures. A commodity future is an agreement for the purchase and sale of a particular commodity at a fixed price on a future delivery date. As a commodity future in the Strategy nears its delivery date, the Strategy will replace that commodity future with a new one with a later delivery date. This is called "rolling". The Strategy will also "roll" commodity futures for reasons other than imminent expiration and in some cases roll into nearer-dated contracts to capture prevailing market conditions (in the case of the "dynamic" roll applied to crude oil contracts) and/or seasonal supply and demand for, or trading patterns of, the underlying commodities, as described in more detail below.

- A general rise in commodity futures prices should lead to an increase in the Strategy value. Conversely, a general fall in commodity futures prices should lead to a decrease in the Strategy value.
- Importantly, however, the return on an index style investment made up of commodity futures (like the Benchmark Index and the Strategy) will be similar to, but different than, the return on buying and holding the actual commodity itself. In particular, the effect of the "rolling" the underlying commodity futures may, in certain circumstances, result in the Strategy performing worse (or better) than a direct physical investment.
- The Portfolio will not invest directly in the futures that make up the Strategy. Instead, the Portfolio will gain exposure to the Strategy under financial contracts entered into with counterparties (which may include Goldman Sachs International ("GSI")).
- Liquidity: You may redeem your shares on a daily basis.
- No Income: The Portfolio does not pay dividends.

Risk and Reward Profile

This indicator measures the risk of price fluctuation based on simulated historical data. Historical data, such as is used in calculating the synthetic indicator, may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the Portfolio. The risk and reward category of the Portfolio is not guaranteed to remain unchanged and may shift over time. The lowest category does not mean risk free.

The Portfolio is in category 5 as it mostly invests in global commodities markets which typically experience higher levels of price fluctuations than markets dealing in other types of assets.

Other risks materially relevant to the Portfolio are not captured by the above indicator. These include:

- Counterparty Risk: The Portfolio's agreements with counterparties (including GSI) expose it to the risk that such counterparties will fail to meet their obligations. This risk is reduced, but not necessarily removed, by the counterparty providing cash and securities to the Portfolio from time to time to support its obligations.

- Not Guaranteed: The Portfolio is not guaranteed and your investment is at risk. The value of your investment may go down as well as up and past performance is not a reliable indication of future performance.
- Conflicts of Interest: GSI and its related companies may act in several roles in relation to the Portfolio such as platform arranger, distributor, and counterparty which may involve conflicts of interest. Such entities may also act in several roles in relation to the Strategy and the investments referenced directly or indirectly by the Strategy. This may also involve conflicts of interest.
- Investment Techniques: The Portfolio will use traditional and non-traditional investment techniques, including entering into financial derivative instruments and other similar contracts, for risk management, hedging or investment purposes, which may also create leverage. The market value of such instruments and, therefore the net asset value of the Portfolio may fluctuate regularly and such fluctuations may be large.
- No assurance: There is no assurance that the Strategy will achieve its intended result. If it does not, the returns achieved by the Strategy could be negative and this will adversely affect the value of your investment.
