Investment objective

The investment objective of the Fund is to seek to generate total returns through income and capital appreciation, while limiting volatility and potential capital losses. The Fund has an unconstrained, long-bias and seeks to achieve its objective by investing across the spectrum of the emerging market debt universe including bonds, interest rates, currencies and credit default swaps. The Fund aims to deliver a flexible "all weather" strategy designed to deliver an optimal yield—liquidity—volatility profile throughout the market cycle.

- Current Yield is the annual interest earned on the underlying bonds divided by the market price of the underlying portfolio of bonds. The figure is not the dividend yield received by the investors and is subject to change depending on the underlying portfolio of bonds.
- Yield to Worst is the lowest potential yield that can be received on a bond without the issuer actually defaulting. The yield to worst is calculated by making the worst-case scenario assumptions on the issue.
- Yield to Maturity is a concept used to determine the rate of return an investor will receive if a long-term, interest-bearing investment, such as a bond, is held to its maturity date. Please note that this is not the return or dividend to be received by investors in the fund.

Fund management commentary

Market Review

The rally that characterised global risk assets was extreme and a strong indication that overall investors remain underweight risk. The first driver, the U.S. presidential election outcome, was remarkable in that not only does it appear that we ended up with the result that many analysts feared, a policy-challenging Biden White House and split Congress, but Trump insists that he has not lost. The second driver, the positive vaccine news was widely expected but not yet fully priced. Equity markets roared higher and credit spreads continued to tighten. Emerging markets fared well with the MSCI EM +9.3% and EM FX +4%.

Fund Review

Returns came from across the portfolio with strength in some of the higher yielding credit positions, local market bonds, and Indian IG credit. Oil credits contributed. Ghana was single biggest P&L generator. Ukrainian assets also performed supported by the beta moves, a turn in the news flow regarding the IMF program, and presumably some level of positivity regarding American relations under a new administration. Mid-duration Indian IG had an exceptional month. Local positions performed strongly with meaningful gains from Asia (China and Indonesia), CEEMA (South Africa and Russia), and Latam (Mexico and Peru) offset by modest losses in Brazil and in Malaysian duration.

Market Outlook

It is almost a mathematical certainty that this year's global contraction will reverse next year. Credit spreads in EM have recovered from lows but remain substantially wider than last year and above historical norms. Local rates in EM are at all-time lows in nominal terms but there are signs of nascent inflationary pressures and a supportive macro backdrop. There are reasons that 2021 will see more dollar weakness than strength. We expect good performance from EMD in 2021.

We dialed up risk largely by increasing exposure to momentum local currency assets. We favour Asia in the local space with meaningful positions in China (unhedged bonds), India (INR), and Indonesia (unhedged bonds). We increased risk exposure in Russian local and reduced FX hedges in Mexico, South Africa, and Peru. In credit, we added to our existing Romania position and added risk in Angola.

Risk warnings

- The market value of debt securities is affected by changes in prevailing interest rates and the Fund may be exposed to credit risk by investing in debt securities.
- There are specific risks associated with the use of derivative instruments, including counterparty, position, liquidity, settlement, correlation and legal risk.
- Default risk and liquidity risk associated with investment in below investment grade securities.
- There are specific additional risks associated with investments in emerging markets, including legal, political, fiscal instability, settlement, liquidity, currency, accounting standards and custodial risk.
- There may be corporate governance and investor protection issues associated with Russian investments.
- Contingent Convertible Securities risk is due by the substantially greater risk that these instruments may have compared to other forms of securities in times of credit stress and may result in a material loss to the Fund.
- The value of an investment may fluctuate due to changes in exchange rates between currencies or the possible imposition of exchange control regulations.
- Currency hedging may reduce but will not remove risk. Hedging will incur more transaction costs and fees, which will affect overall return.

Performance note

*Index disclosure: The Fund is actively managed and aims to provide an absolute return. The portfolio manager maintains full discretion to select investments for the Fund in line with the above investment policy.

The Manager may, from time to time, determine to include information in its marketing materials relative to the Index; however, the Index composition is not factored into the investment management process.

This document presents the performance of this particular unit class of the Fund from the date of inception of the unit class in its unit class currency, as specified on the front page. Performance since inception date of the Fund, which precedes the inception date of the unit class, is available upon request. Prior to December 2018, the performance data shown is not based upon the Fund's official Net Asset Value ("NAV") prices. The performance calculations reflect the month-end market close prices of the Fund's assets, whereas the actual performance investors receive reflects the official NAVs at which they trade the Fund which are calculated at the Fund's Valuation Point. As a result, it is possible that the stated performance and the actual investment returns received differed. The performance data shown is net of fees and other charges but excludes any potential entry/exit charges – as such the returns an investor receives may be lower.
