Sustainalytics provides company-level analysis used in the calculation of Morningstar's Sustainability Score.

(1) The summary risk indicator (SRI) is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the market or because we are not able to pay you. It ranges from 1 (low risk) to 7 (high risk). This indicator is not constant and will change according to the fund's risk profile. The lowest category does not mean risk-free. Historical data, such as that used to calculate the SRI, may not be a reliable indication of the fund's future risk profile. There is no guarantee that the investment objectives in terms of risk will be achieved.

SUSTAINABLE REPORT – METHODOLOGY

ODDO BHF AM considers that measuring the environmental, social and governance impact of an investment is an essential step in disseminating good practices in ESG integration. To do this, it is imperative to have reliable, simple quantitative criteria (no reprocessing) and to allow comparison between portfolios regardless of their composition (large vs midcaps, geographical and sectoral diversity). The choice of indicators is therefore crucial for the relevance of impact measurement.

We systematically indicate the availability of the data at the level of the portfolio and its benchmark.

Carbon metrics methodology: We updated our methodology of carbon intensity calculation.

Starting January 31st, 2023, when reported carbon values are unavailable or inconsistent, estimated carbon values are used.

The estimations are based on average carbon value (scope 1+2 emissions) of sectoral peers as a function of revenues

MONTHLY MANAGEMENT COMMENT

The unexpectedly resistant inflation trend in the USA has led to increased doubts about the Fed's first interest rate cuts in the third quarter. Together with the war between Iran and Israel, this weighed on the markets in April and led to a significant increase in volatility at times. The decline on the European markets was somewhat more moderate than in the USA.

In this rather weak market environment, which was also characterized by profit-taking, banks and energy stocks outperformed the market as a whole, while the automotive sector, retail and financial services stocks underperformed. At country level, Portugal, Austria and Finland were the winners, while the Netherlands, Germany and Switzerland were the losers. From a factor perspective, value stocks outperformed the market, while growth and quality were less in demand.

The ODDO BHF Sustainable Leaders Fund underperformed its benchmark in April. Sector allocation effects and stock selection effects were both negative, while style attribution contributed positively. While the exposure to momentum stocks contributed positively, the underweight of the food sector did not pay out. On the stock level the overweight in BBVA and the underweight in Shell were most negative.

In April, the fund increased exposure in Sweden and the UK, while exposure in Switzerland and Spain was reduced. At sector level, the fund's holdings in Banks and Real Estate were increased and exposure to Consumer Products and Technology was reduced.

RISKS:

The fund is exposed to the following risks : market risk, risks associated with the use of derivative instruments, custody risk, Sustainability risk

SFDR CLASSIFICATION²

Article 9: The management team follows a strict sustainable investment objective that significantly contributes to the challenges of the ecological transition, and addresses Sustainability Risks through ratings provided by the Management Company's external ESG data provider.
