

SUMMARY RISK INDICATOR

The risk indicator assumes you keep the product for 3 years in accordance with the recommended holding period.

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

Tikehau 2029 is a "buy and hold" dated credit fund, with 100% of its net assets invested in Investment Grade issuers. It may invest up to 25% of its net assets in high-yield debt securities with speculative characteristics, and up to 30% of its net assets in subordinated financial bonds. At 12/31/2029, its end-of-life date, the bonds will have a residual maturity of no more than 6 months (final maturity of the product or early redemption options at the Fund's discretion). * Strategy mainly based on the holding of bonds, although the manager may carry out arbitrage.  In the event of a downgrading of certain issuers already in the portfolio, the Fund may be exposed to non-investment-grade issuers up to a maximum of 20% of its net assets.

NEWSLETTER FEBRUARY 2024

TIKEHAU 2029 – R-DIS-EUR

MARKET OUTLOOK

Macroeconomics/ Central banks. The US economy continues to prove resilient, as illustrated by the upward revision of Q4 growth figures (growth of 3.3%), the resilience of the labour market with the unemployment rate at a record low, and leading indicators showing no significant slowdown in activity. This resilience in macroeconomic indicators, combined with inflation still above target levels (though not accelerating upwards either), has led the markets to revise their rate cut expectations downwards for 2024 from initial hopes of 150bps to the now expected 85bps in cumulative rate cuts. In Europe, although still contracting, leading indicators surprised slightly on the upside, while the employment market also proved resilient. Despite a more pronounced trend towards disinflation, investors are once again lowering their rate cut expectations (from 160bps to 90bps for 2024). Central bankers remain cautious in their communication, reiterating the need for more evidence that inflation is returning to target before any rate cut.

Market performance. Buoyed by the strength of the economy, but also by Nvidia's strong results and the hype surrounding artificial intelligence, equity markets are rising and reaching new highs. The S&P 500 broke through the 5,000-point barrier for the first time (up 5.3% in February), the Stoxx 600 in Europe was up 2.0%, and the Nikkei also reached its all-time high (up 8.0% in February), 34 years after the previous one. On the other hand, the bond market is adapting to new monetary policy expectations, with the US 10-year reaching 4.25% (up 34bps in February), and the 10-year Bund closing at 2.41%, up 24bps over the month. Finally, credit markets remained stable overall, with the IG ER00 index down 0.58% due to its sensitivity to interest rates, the HY HECO index up 0.27%, the CoCo index up 0.24% and finally the Tier 2 EBSL index down 0.25%, also impacted by its longer duration.

Positioning. Tikehau 2029 posted a net negative performance over the month, outperforming the European Investment Grade ER00 (down 0.89%) (used for information purposes only).

As was the case last month, the main driver of the fund's performance was its exposure to the banking sector, in particular to subordinated bank securities. This allocation cushioned the fall in Investment Grade bonds in the wake of rising interest rates throughout the month.

Over the period, we put the cash raised to work, seeking to keep the fund's structure as constant as possible in order to comply with its carry strategy.

To date, the fund has a gross yield of 4.7% for a rate duration of 4.7 years.
