SUBFUNDS RISK PROFILE

To gain the best possible understanding of the fund's risk profile, the investor is asked to take into account not only the risk category but also the risks inherent in the management strategy as described in the prospectus. The investor's attention is drawn to the fact that the liquidation value of the fund may fall, among other things owing to its exposure to the following risks:

- Stock market risk (the risk of stock prices being impacted by stock market fluctuations).
- Exchange risk (the variation in exchange rates between the various investment currencies and the currency in which the fund is valued).
- Derivatives risk and their associated risks (sophistication, greater volatility, etc.).
- Rates risk (fluctuating interest rates).
- Credit risk (default or a deterioration in the credit quality of an issuer or a counterpart of the fund).

Depending on the market circumstances and the way these are expected to evolve, exposure to at-risk assets could be temporarily reduced. As a result, the investor may not benefit from a recovery on the markets.

- Investors may not receive back the full amount invested.
