- The name of the Share Class Allianz Europe Equity Growth AT (HUF) (ISIN LU0527936024) shall be

- The minimum subscription amount for the investment in Shares of the Share Class Allianz Europe Equity Growth P2 (EUR) (after deduction of any Sales Charge) shall be EUR 10 million. In certain cases the Management Company has discretion to permit lower minimum investments.
- The “Investment Objective” and the “Investment Principles” within the information sheet of the Subfund “Allianz Euro High Yield Bond” shall be amended as follows:

Investment Objective

The investment policy is geared towards generating capital growth in EUR terms over the long term. The Subfund will seek to achieve its investment objectives primarily through investment in high-yielding bonds denominated in EUR.

Investment Principles

- Subfund assets are invested in Interest-bearing Securities. Index certificates and other certificates whose risk profile typically correlates with Interest-bearing Securities or with the investment markets to which these assets can be allocated may also be acquired for the Subfund. Mortgage-backed securities (MBS) and asset-backed securities (ABS) may not be acquired. Equities and comparable rights may be acquired in the exercise of subscription, conversion and option rights on convertible bonds and bonds with warrants, but they must be sold within six months. The Subfund will primarily invest in high-yielding bonds denominated in EUR.
- Subject to the provisions of letter h) up to 15 % of the Subfund assets may be invested in Interest-bearing Securities of Emerging Markets.
- Subject in particular to the provisions of letter h), at least 75 % of the Subfund assets as defined in letter a) sentence 1 are invested in High-Yield investments that at the time of acquisition carry a rating between BB+ and B– (according to the BoA Merrill Lynch index methodology) or are not rated at all, but which, in the opinion of the Investment Manager, would carry a rating between BB+ and B– (according to the BoA Merrill Lynch index methodology) if they were to be rated.

- d) Up to 10 % of Subfund assets may be invested in UCITS or UCI that are money-market funds or bond funds that can be invested in either high-yielding or non-high-yielding bonds.
- e) In addition, deposits may be held and money-market instruments may be acquired; their value together with the value of the money-market funds held as defined in letter d), subject in particular to the provisions of letter h), may total a maximum of 25 % of Subfund assets. The purpose of deposits, money-market instruments and money-market funds is to ensure the necessary liquidity.
- f) The share of the assets and liabilities not denominated in EUR may only exceed 10 % of the value of the Subfund assets if the amount exceeding this limit is hedged into EUR. Assets and liabilities in the same currency will be netted for the purpose of the aforementioned limit. Investment instruments that are not denominated in a currency (i.e. no par shares) are considered to be denominated in the currency of the country in which the registered office of the issuer (for securities representing equities: the company) is located.
- g) The Duration of the Subfund assets should be between one and nine years.
- h) Within the remit of the Exposure Approach, it is permissible that the limits described in letters b) c) and e) above are not adhered to.
- i) The limits listed in letters b), c), e), f) and g) are not required to be adhered to in the first two months after launching the Subfund and in last two months before liquidation or merger of the Subfund.
- j) Due to the Subfund being marketed in Hong Kong, the Additional Investment Restrictions as described under No. 17) of the Introduction apply.

Limited Risk Diversification

With reference to Appendix 1 No. 3 f), in derogation of Appendix 1 No. 3 a) to d) and in accordance with the principle of risk diversification, up to 100 % of the Subfund's net assets may be invested in securities and money-market instruments of different issues being offered or guaranteed by the European Union, the European Central Bank, a member state of the EU or its local authorities, by a member state of the OECD, or by international organisations under public law to which one or more member states of the EU belong, provided that such securities and money-market instruments have been offered within the framework of at least six different issues, with the securities and money-market instruments of one and the same issue not to exceed 30 % of the Subfund's net assets. Up to 10 % of the Subfund assets may be invested in securities issued by or guaranteed by any single country with a credit rating below investment grade. For the avoidance of doubt, a "single country" shall include a country, its government, a public or local authority or nationalized industry of that country.

- The "Investment Objective" and the "Investment Principles" within the information sheet of the Subfund "Allianz Income and Growth" shall be amended as follows:

Investment Objective

(...) As a long-term objective, the Subfund's fund management seeks a risk profile of the net asset value per share of the Subfund that experience has shown should be comparable with the risk profile of a portfolio consisting of Equities, High Yields and Convertibles. (...)

Investment Principles

- b) Subject in particular to the provision of letter k), up to 70 % of Subfund assets may be invested in Equities. Included in this limit, warrants for Equities from companies and index certificates and Equity certificates whose risk profile correlates with the assets listed in sentence 1 or with the investment markets to which these assets can be allocated may also be acquired.
- c) Subject in particular to the provisions of letter k), up to 70 % of Subfund assets may be invested in convertible bonds, in bonds with warrants and in conversion- and option-rights on convertible bonds.
- d) Subject in particular to the provisions of letter k), up to 70 % of Subfund assets may be invested in high-yield bonds.
- e) Subject in particular to the provisions of letter k), at least 80 % of the Subfund assets as defined in letter a), b), c) and d) are invested in assets whose issuers are companies that have their registered office in the United States of America (U.S.A.) or in Canada or whose repayment is guaranteed by a company that has its registered office in the U.S.A. or in Canada.

- f) Subject in particular to the provisions of letter k) up to 20 % of Subfund assets may be invested in Equities, warrants, index certificates and Equity certificates other than those listed in e).
- h) Up to 10 % of the Subfund assets may be invested in securities issued by or guaranteed by any single country with a credit rating below investment grade. For the avoidance of doubt, a “single country” shall include a country, its government, a public or local authority or nationalized industry of that country.
- i) In addition, deposits may be held and money-market instruments may be acquired; their value together with the value of the money-market funds held as defined in letter g), subject in particular to the provisions of letter k), may total a maximum of 25 % of Subfund assets. The purpose of deposits, money-market instruments and money-market funds is to ensure the necessary liquidity.
- j) The share of the assets and liabilities not denominated in USD may only exceed 20 % of the value of the Subfund assets if the amount exceeding this limit is hedged. Assets and liabilities denominated in the same currency will be netted for the purpose of the aforementioned. Investment instruments that are not denominated in a currency (i.e. no par shares) are considered to be denominated in the currency of the country in which the registered office of the issuer (for securities representing equities: the company) is located.
- k) Within the remit of the Exposure Approach, it is permissible that the limits described in letters b), c), d), e), f) and i) above are not adhered to.
- l) The limits listed in letters b), c), d) e) and i) are not required to be adhered to in the first two months after launching the Subfund and in last two months before liquidation or merger of the Subfund.
- m) Due to the Subfund being marketed in Hong Kong, the Additional Investment Restrictions as described under No. 17) of the Introduction apply.

- The trading deadline for the Subfund “Allianz Income and Growth” shall be revised as follows:
11.00 a.m. CET or CEST on any Valuation Day.
Subscription and redemption applications received by 11.00 a.m. CET or CEST are settled at the Subscription or Redemption Price of such Valuation

Day. Subscription and redemption applications received after that time are settled at the Subscription or Redemption Price of the next Valuation Day.

- For share class I2 (H2-EUR) of Subfund “Allianz US High Yield” the Company shall targets to distribute an amount which will be determined each year individually. However, such amount will in no case exceed the amount distributable by applying the current general distribution policy for Distribution Shares as described in Appendix 3.
- With effect from 1 October 2012 RCM Japan Co., Ltd. has been renamed into Allianz Global Investors Japan Co., Ltd.

The Prospectus (dated December 2012) and the Key Investor Information Document (dated October 2012) for additional Information on the Fund are accessible or available free of Allianz Global Investors Fund charge for the Shareholders at the registered office of the Company, the Custodian and the Information Agents.

Allianz Asia Pacific Equity

(formerly: Allianz RCM Asia Pacific)

From 1 October 2011 to 30 September 2012, the MSCI AC Asia Pacific ex Japan gained 26.57 %, calculated in EUR total return. The index saw big swings in price performance and was largely driven by global news flow amid European sovereign debt crisis. The market dropped significantly in the second quarter of 2012, due to negative sentiment from a potential China hard landing and prolonged European debt crisis. However, the new round of easing policies from global central banks injected further liquidity into the market, while boosting market sentiment, especially towards the Asia Pacific markets.

The Subfund underperformed the index in EUR terms. Stock selection in Australia was the biggest detractor from relative performance; while stock selection in Singapore and India helped. On a sector level, we saw negative stock selection effects across sectors, especially in consumer sectors and IT. On the other hand, stock selection in Industrials and Utilities helped.

Despite the market rally after the new rounds of easing measures by global central banks in September, we believe improvement in economic fundamentals and corporate earnings should ultimately be the sustainable driver of the market performance. In the US, the “fiscal cliff” is likely to remain a major source of market uncertainty; while in Europe, the market seemed to be expecting positive reactions from the peripheral countries towards the new rescue mechanism. We believe that Asian markets will continue to see slower growth in the next six months, partly as a result of the deteriorating global environment affecting exports, and partly because of slower consumption growth. However, we do not see a risk of a hard landing on Asian economies, as we still believe the authorities in the region can deploy looser policies to restore growth. The once-in-a-decade leadership transition in China is expected to add further uncertainties to the market over the near term. Across Asia, corporate earnings have been deteriorating during the past months; therefore we will increasingly focus on companies’ cash flow and working capital condition when it comes to stock selection.

Allianz Asian Multi Income Plus

The Allianz Asian Multi Income Plus Subfund adopts the investment philosophy of seeking multiple sources of value add driven by fundamentals, valuation and technical to generate long-term outperformance. The Subfund uses an integrated approach that combines top-down macroeconomic analysis and bottom-up company research. The Subfunds' investment objective is to provide investors with long-term capital appreciation and income through investments in Asian currency denominated debt markets and Asian equity/business trust markets.

Policy actions by regulators have been the key catalysts for financial markets generally. Renewed concerns of a potential European financial meltdown as solvency worries shifted to the larger economies, coupled with subsequent disappointing Asian export data and purchasing manager surveys, especially from China, Korea and Taiwan, prompted actions by most central banks. Specifically, ECB's outright monetary transactions program, ratification of ESM by German constitutional courts, the Fed's QE3 infinity announcement and pre-emptive rate cuts by Asian policymakers have managed to restore stability and sparked the rally in Asian debts and equities as well as Asian REITs.

For the 12-month period ending 30 September 2012, the Allianz Asian Multi Income Plus Subfund returned 11.76 %, trailing behind its composite benchmark's return of 14.27 %. Allocation to (more) defensive stocks was the main detractor as high beta names rallied strongly amid the positive sentiments – though an overweight exposure to equities (versus bonds) has partially mitigated on the underperformance.

Looking ahead, our base-case scenario is that there will not be any material improvement in the macroeconomic environment within the next few months. The unclear political atmosphere in the United States, Europe and parts of Asia, in our opinion, will continue to hold back households and businesses from increasing spending and capital expenditure. This is despite financial market participants having so far reacted favourably to global central banks protecting downside economic risk through sustained aggressive monetary stimulus. From our viewpoint, the current environment still lends support to income-generating assets. And accordingly, there is no reason to alter our bias towards the Asian markets on the back of their resilience.

Allianz Best Styles Euroland Equity

(formerly: Allianz RCM Best Styles Euroland)

The Subfund focuses on the Eurozone equity market. Depending on the market situation, various investment styles or combinations thereof may be applied. Its investment objective is to generate capital growth over the long term.

In the year under review to the end of September 2012, equities were subject to high volatility in view of the government debt crisis in the Eurozone and gloomier prospects for the economy. On average, however, stock market prices rose noticeably. This reflected in particular the further easing of monetary policy by the leading central banks.

In line with its investment concept, the Subfund's investment policy in the period under review focused on the selection and combination of Eurozone blue chips presenting particular investment styles with historically favourable attributes. The weighting of each particular stock is based on a quantitative risk model supplemented by analyses of fundamental company quality. The resulting portfolio consisted essentially of financial stocks and equities from the energy, consumer goods and healthcare sectors. In terms of countries, investment focused on France and Germany.

With this investment policy the Subfund obtained a significantly positive result.

Please refer to the Prospectus as well as the Key Investor Information Document for additional information on the Subfund. Information on the performance of the individual share classes of the Subfund in the reporting period can be found in the table "Performance" on pages 14 to 27.

Allianz Best Styles US Equity

The Subfund concentrates on stocks of companies that are domiciled in the U.S.A. Depending on the market situation, fund management may use different investment styles when picking stocks, or combine them using broad diversification. Its investment objective is to generate capital growth over the long term.

In the short year under review, from the launch of the Subfund on 17 July 2012 to the end of September 2012, US equities were subject to high volatility in view of the government debt crisis in the Eurozone and mixed economic data. On average, however, stock market prices rose noticeably. This reflected in particular the further easing of monetary policy by the leading central banks.

In line with its investment concept, the Subfund's investment policy in the period under review focused on the selection and combination of US blue chips presenting particular investment styles with historically favourable attributes. The weighting of each particular stock is based on a quantitative risk model supplemented by analyses of fundamental company quality. On that basis, the investment focus was on stocks from the IT, healthcare and consumer goods sectors. Financial stocks in particular were given a low weighting relative to the broad US equity market.

With this investment policy the Subfund obtained a significantly positive result.

Allianz Brazil Equity

(formerly: Allianz RCM Brazil)

The Subfund concentrates on the equities of companies with their registered office in Brazil. It may also invest in particular in equities from other Latin American countries or companies from other countries, provided they generate a predominant portion of their earnings in Brazil. Its investment objective is to generate capital growth over the long term.

In the year under review to the end of September 2012, Brazilian equities were subject to high volatility. Initially high price gains were followed by a significant correction as the economic outlook became gloomier. Towards the end of the year under review, further easing of monetary policy by the internationally leading central banks then provided a new boost to the stock markets. Brazilian stocks also benefited significantly from this trend.

Equities from the financial sector were particularly well represented in the Subfund. It was also overweight particularly in stocks from the industrial and consumer classics sectors, relative to the market capitalisation for each of these sectors. Companies from the commodity and energy sectors were also heavily weighted in absolute terms. The utilities segment was not very dynamic and was largely avoided.

With its investment policy the Subfund obtained a significantly positive result.

Allianz BRIC Equity

(formerly: Allianz RCM BRIC Equity)

The Subfund's focus is on the equity markets of Brazil, Russia, India and China (BRIC countries). It may also invest up to one third of its assets in equities or comparable investments outside the BRIC countries. Its investment objective is to generate capital growth over the long term.

In the year under review to the end of September 2012, equities from the BRIC countries were subject to high volatility. Initially high price gains were followed by a significant correction as the economic outlook became gloomier. Towards the end of the year under review, further easing of monetary policy by the internationally leading central banks then provided a new boost to the stock markets.

Almost a quarter of the Subfund's assets were allocated to each of the equity markets in Brazil, Russia and India. Only the Chinese stock markets were represented to a lesser extent. Besides investing directly, exposure to China was also achieved by means of an equity fund focusing on this market. Companies from other countries that should benefit from the growth momentum of the BRIC countries were included to a minor extent in the mix. At sector level, financial and energy securities dominated, although they were underweight relative to their market capitalisation. The Subfund was overweight in companies from the IT and consumer classics sectors. The utilities segment was not very dynamic and was recently avoided entirely.

With its investment policy the Subfund obtained a significantly positive result.

Allianz China Equity

(formerly: Allianz RCM China)

China equities managed to rebound in the 4th quarter of 2011 on the back of easing concern over the European sovereign debt crisis after the announcement of bailout plan for Greece and the positive results from the EU Summit. In the first two months of 2012, the market continued to perform well on the back of macroeconomic data continued to show marked improvement, particularly those coming out of the U.S. Political concerns also heightened during the period with the dismissal of Bo Xilai as Chongqing's party chief. Selective stocks that are based in Chongqing were under selling pressure as a result. Given intensifying concerns over the euro debt crisis, economic slowdown in China and subdued earnings outlook, Hong Kong equities, especially H shares suffered a sharp sell-off across the board in May 2012. On monetary policy front, the People's Bank of China cut the Required Reserve Ratio three times by 50 basis points each, and two asymmetric interest rate cuts, in response to a moderate economic slowdown.

In 3rd quarter of 2012, the market re-focused on the worse than expected economic slowdown in China. Although most of the results were very weak and generally below market expectation; the disappointing earnings results had generally limited impact on share prices, which had discounted most of these poor earnings data. Hong Kong equity market rose to its four-month high with improved risk appetite, after US announced another round of quantitative easing in mid-September.

Recent economic indicators suggest that the deceleration of the China economy has shown signs of stabilization. Coupling this with quantitative easing by global central banks and relatively low market valuations, we believe that Hong Kong equity market should rebound in the short term.

Allianz Convertible Bond

The Subfund primarily invests in convertible bonds with a focus on paper traded in Europe. Up to 20 % of Subfund assets may be invested in convertible bonds from emerging markets. Equities may be acquired through exercising conversion or option rights. Its investment objective is to attain above-average capital growth over the long term.

In the short year under review, from launch of the Subfund on 31 January 2012 to the end of September 2012, investor appetite for risk initially rose as a result of positive data on the economy. Besides equities, convertible bonds also benefited from this trend. The upward trend lost momentum later on, as scepticism returned about the outlook for the global economy.

In this environment, the Subfund's assets were invested as much as possible in convertible bonds issued by European companies. Industrials dominated at sector level. Selected issues from overseas and emerging markets were added to the portfolio. Besides the focus on bonds denominated in European currencies, the Subfund also invested in US securities.

In terms of maturities, holdings were concentrated on short-term paper. The duration (average maturity) of the Subfund most recently stood at a good two years<sup>1)</sup>. With regard to the credit ratings of the debtors, promising-looking investments were also made in securities without an investment-grade rating. The bonds in the Subfund had an average rating of BBB+.

With this investment policy the Subfund obtained a significantly positive result.

Please refer to the Prospectus as well as the Key Investor Information Document for additional information on the Subfund. Information on the performance of the individual share classes of the Subfund in the reporting period can be found in the table "Performance" on pages 14 to 27.

Allianz Demographic Trends

(formerly: Allianz RCM Demographic Trends)

The Subfund focuses on companies on the global equity markets that in the opinion of fund management should profit in some respect from the rising life expectancy in aging societies or the effects of social changes in emerging societies. Its investment objective is to generate capital growth over the long term.

In the year under review to the end of September 2012, equities were subject to high volatility in view of the government debt crisis in the Eurozone and gloomier prospects for the economy. On average, however, stock market prices rose noticeably. This reflected in particular the further easing of monetary policy by the leading central banks. Equities issued by companies focusing on demographic change also benefited noticeably from this trend.

In this environment healthcare stocks, on the one hand, were heavily represented in the Subfund as one of the main beneficiaries of the changing age structure in mature economies. On the other, we focused on selected stocks from the industrial and consumer goods segments as, in the opinion of fund management, they should benefit from the growth in population and prosperity in emerging markets. In developed countries, stock-picking produced a concentration on US equities and companies from Germany. We also included stocks from Brazil and the Chinese region in particular.

With this investment policy the Subfund obtained a significantly positive result.

Please refer to the Prospectus as well as the Key Investor Information Document for additional information on the Subfund. Information on the performance of the individual share classes of the Subfund in the reporting period can be found in the table "Performance" on pages 14 to 27.

Allianz Discovery Europe Strategy

(formerly: Allianz RCM Discovery Europe Strategy)

The Subfund's objective is to benefit from price movements of individual stocks, irrespective of the direction of movement. As part of a derivative-based (swap) strategy, it invests, on the one hand, in selected European equities (long positions). On the other, it sells, within the strategy, equities that it does not actually own and which fund management expects to fall in price (short positions). By concurrently investing in long and short positions, management aims to reduce market risks. Long and short positions are not always held to an equal extent, so there may be divergences from the market neutrality that management is basically aiming at.

In the year under review to the end of September 2012, European equities were subject to high volatility in view of the government debt crisis in the Eurozone and gloomier prospects for the economy. On average, however, stock market prices rose noticeably. This reflected in particular the further easing of monetary policy by the leading central banks.

In this fluctuating environment, the long and short positions were kept roughly in balance overall, in line with the strategy of the Subfund. In particularly dynamic sectors such as IT, the long positions were significantly overweight, while in industries with typically weak earnings, such as utilities in particular, mainly short positions were held. From a regional point of view, the strategy concentrated on the German, French and UK stock exchanges. The Subfund's liquidity that was uncommitted within the scope of the swap construction was invested in high quality Euro money-market instruments. Short-term bank bonds were included in addition to first-class public-sector paper. The average credit rating of the money-market investments was recently AA+.

With this investment policy the Subfund obtained a significantly positive result, outperforming the EONIA benchmark.

Please refer to the Prospectus as well as the Key Investor Information Document for additional information on the Subfund. Information on the performance of the individual share classes of the Subfund in the reporting period can be found in the table "Performance" on pages 14 to 27.

Allianz Discovery Germany Strategy

(formerly: Allianz RCM Discovery Germany Strategy)

The Subfund pursues a strategy that is basically market-neutral on the German stock market and aims to achieve superior risk-adjusted returns. To this end, as part of a derivative-based (swap) strategy, it invests, on the one hand, in selected primarily German equities (long positions). On the other, it sells, within the strategy, equities that it does not actually own and which fund management expects to fall in price (short positions). By concurrently investing in long and short positions, management aims to reduce market risks. Long and short positions are not always held to an equal extent, so there may be divergences from the market neutrality that management is basically aiming at.

In the short half-year under review, from the launch of the Subfund on 11 October 2011 to the end of September 2012, German equities were subject to high volatility in view of the government debt crisis in the Eurozone and gloomier economic data. On average, however, stock market prices rose noticeably. This reflected in particular the further easing of monetary policy by the leading central banks.

In this fluctuating environment, the long and short positions were kept roughly in balance overall, in line with the strategy of the Subfund. In certain sectors such as financials, long positions were significantly overweight, while mostly short positions were held in industrial stocks in particular. In addition to the investment focus in Germany, there was selective exposure to stock markets in other Eurozone countries, especially the Netherlands. The Subfund's liquidity that was uncommitted within the scope of the swap construction was invested in high-quality Euro money-market instruments. Short-term bank bonds were included in addition to first-class public-sector paper. The average credit rating of the money-market investments was recently AAA.

With this investment policy the Subfund obtained a solid positive result, outperforming the EONIA benchmark.

Allianz Dynamic Commodities

(formerly: Allianz RCM Commodities)

The Subfund aims to participate to a large extent in the performance of international commodity and commodity futures markets. To this end, it may use derivatives with reference to the Allianz Active Commodity Index, which tracks the price performance of commodities from the energy sources, industrial metals, precious metals and agricultural commodities sectors. The weighting of the four commodities segments in the Allianz Active Commodities Index is established on the basis of a model with both quantitative and qualitative aspects. Participation of the Subfund in the performance of the Allianz Active Commodity Index is kept in a bandwidth between 50 and 150 % of the Subfund's assets as part of the risk management procedure. Liquidity that is not needed for participation in the Allianz Active Commodity Index is invested in a money market-oriented portfolio.

In the year under review to the end of September, the outlook for the economy became bleaker worldwide. Even in the leading emerging markets, which are distinguished by their structurally high demand for commodities, growth momentum slowed. In this environment prices fell on balance, especially for commodities with industrial usage.

The Subfund was invested, in line with its investment concept, in a derivative construction (swap) that enables participation in the performance of the Allianz Active Commodity Index. In this respect a portfolio of high quality short-term paper and a market-neutral structure consisting of equity options was used to generate a near money-market return. This was swapped for the performance of the Allianz Active Commodity Index under the terms of the swap agreement.

With its investment policy the Subfund obtained a negative result, given the unfavourable environment.

Allianz Dynamic Emerging Multi Asset

(formerly: Allianz RCM Dynamic Emerging Multi Asset)

The Subfund may invest in a wide range of asset classes, particularly on the global markets for equities and bonds from emerging markets and the commodity markets. Under the terms of a systematic management approach, it may also invest in low-risk investments such as bank deposits and money-market instruments in order to reduce potential losses in certain market situations. Its investment objective is to generate capital growth over the long term.

In the year under review to the end of September 2012, the sovereign debt crisis in the Eurozone and the slowdown in the global economy had an adverse impact on investor sentiment at times. Prices on international stock and commodity markets were repeatedly subject to high volatility. During these phases, investments in emerging countries tended to come under selling pressure. Later on, the situation eased and equities, as well as emerging market bonds, gained on balance.

Under our chiefly systematic approach, the Subfund was notably invested in equity indices in emerging markets in the Far East, Latin America and Eastern Europe through derivatives. We also held a position in an equity fund that invests in a number of emerging countries. At the same time, a flexible mechanism to limit risk was realised via an umbrella derivative construction. The remaining uncommitted liquidity was primarily invested in a portfolio comprising top-rated government bonds from Europe or the US. A fund specialising in international emerging market bonds was also included in the portfolio.

With its investment policy the Subfund obtained a slightly positive result.

Allianz Dynamic Multi Asset Plus

(formerly: Allianz RCM Dynamic Multi Asset Plus)

The Subfund invests in a wide range of global asset classes, including equities, bonds, money-market instruments, commodities, hedge funds and property market-related positions. The investments in each of the asset classes may be implemented both through direct investment and through index-related derivatives and target funds. The weightings of the asset classes are based on a systematic approach. Its investment objective is to generate capital growth over the long term.

In the year under review to the end of September 2012, the sovereign debt crisis in the Eurozone and the slowdown in the economy of the industrialised countries had an adverse impact on investor sentiment at times. Prices on international stock and commodity markets were repeatedly subject to high volatility. Later on, the situation eased, with mainly stocks and non-government paper making the most notable gains. Commodity prices on the other hand fell for the most part on balance.

In this environment just under half of the Subfund was invested in the bond market. On the one hand, we held positions in government bonds from developed countries, including those from the Eurozone periphery. On the other, the Subfund held positions in target funds that focus on specific market segments, in particular corporate and emerging-market bonds, as well as inflation-linked securities. The Subfund invested in equities through funds specialising in international blue chips and emerging market stocks. Funds investing in public limited real property companies were included, as well as alternative products aiming for returns that are as independent as possible from individual asset classes. We refrained from investing in commodities. The Subfund employed derivatives on the relevant market indices to manage the effective equity/bond ratio.

With its investment policy the Subfund obtained a solid positive result.

Allianz Emerging Asia Equity

(formerly: Allianz RCM Emerging Asia)

From 1 October 2011 to 30 September 2012, the MSCI EFM Asia index gained 18.20 %, calculated in terms of USD total return. After the sharp recovery in the first quarter of 2012, market concerns over the European sovereign debt crisis and increasing chance of a global recession prompted severe risk aversion, which weighed negatively on the Asian emerging frontier markets. However, global easing in the third quarter of 2012 boosted the emerging markets overall. Thailand and Philippines were the outperformers among the region; while frontier markets lagged behind due to concerns on economic fundamentals.

Stock selection in Korea was the major detractor from relative performance; while stock selection in India and Philippines helped. By sector, stock selection in Industrials, Energy and Financials contributed significantly; while stock selection in consumer space hurt relative performance.

We believe that Asian markets will continue to see slower growth in the next six months, partly as a result of the deteriorating global environment affecting exports, and partly because of slower consumption growth. However, we do not see a risk of a hard landing on Asian economies, as we still believe the authorities in the region can deploy looser policies to restore growth. In terms of portfolio strategy, we will continue to stay overweight in China/HK market, but may narrow our overweight given the upcoming opportunities in non-China/HK space. We are positive on the structural growth story in Asia, particularly some South Asia countries, and will continue to seek quality names in South Asia with secular growth potential and reasonable valuation.

Allianz Enhanced Fixed Income Euro

The Subfund primarily invests in interest-bearing securities with the objective of generating above-average long-term income in comparison with the government bond market in the Eurozone. Up to 20 % of fund assets may be invested in high-yield securities. Bonds from emerging markets may also be acquired. The proportion of asset/mortgage-backed securities (ABS/MBS) is limited to no more than 20 %. Foreign currency positions exceeding 20 % of Subfund assets must be hedged against the Euro.

In the short year under review, from the launch of the Subfund on 6 March 2012 to the end of September 2012, yields on top-rated government bonds moved close to record lows. Significantly higher levels of interest were paid on public-sector securities from the Euro peripheral countries, which had lower credit ratings. Corporate and emerging-market bonds also offered attractive interest rate spreads.

In this environment the Subfund focused on government bonds from the Eurozone, with emphasis on Spanish and Italian securities in addition to bonds from the core countries of Europe. We included bonds from Eastern European countries. Further potential returns were derived from positions in corporate bonds and mortgage bonds or bonds with the appropriate structure from international issuers. The average credit rating in the portfolio was AA– at the end of September. In terms of maturities, a focus was on the five-to seven-year segment. The duration (average maturity) of the Subfund, including derivative financial instruments, was most recently 4.5 years<sup>1)</sup>. No investment was made in foreign currencies.

With this investment policy the Subfund obtained a solid positive result.

Allianz Enhanced Short Term Euro

(formerly: Allianz RCM Enhanced Short Term Euro)

The Subfund aims to generate an above-average return oriented towards the Euro money market. With the aim of generating additional returns, it may enter into separate commitments in relation to bonds and foreign currencies or their corresponding derivatives, even if it does not itself hold any assets in the respective currencies. High-yield securities and asset/mortgage-backed securities (ABS/MBS) may not be acquired.

In the year under review to the end of September 2012, the European Central Bank dropped its key interest rate to 0.75 % in view of low inflation and recessionary tendencies in parts of the Eurozone. Potential returns were correspondingly low in the very short-term segment of the Euro bond market.

In this low-yield environment the Subfund benefited from its special investment process. Its investments included a EUR money-market portfolio focusing on international bank bonds and public-sector bonds – mainly from Spain. The Subfund also obtained additional returns in other investment segments by using derivatives, in particular on interest-rate and bond markets, as well as on the foreign exchange market. The average credit rating of the bonds in the money-market portfolio was A+ and the duration (average maturity) most recently stood at about four months<sup>1)</sup>.

With this investment policy the Subfund obtained a positive result above the level of the Euro money market rate.

Allianz Euro Bond Strategy

The last semester, as the previous one, was very volatile. After the improvement in the Eurozone crisis experienced in the first quarter 2012, markets started again to pressure the peripheral bond market, with Italy and especially Spain almost close to being shut out of the market. The ECB decisive intervention with the launch of the Outright Monetary Transactions programme (OMT) has been key to cause a sharp improvement in funding conditions for the peripheral countries. Portfolio investment strategy was cautious on the most volatile government bonds in second quarter 2012, with clear preference for “core” government issues. During the summer, a higher exposure to peripherals and credit asset was accumulated, still focussing on the more fundamentally solid issuers.

The outlook on the Euro Area bond market has materially improved because the ECB has addressed the risk of a liquidity crisis for any troubled Eurozone countries. A strong safety net is now in place, which should convince investors to come back to the peripherals market, as the risk of a Eurozone breakup has been cancelled by the ECB strong action. However, a few risks remain: global growth strength and sustainability are still uncertain and any weakening path may complicate governments efforts towards fiscal consolidation. On the political side, the current agreement between Eurozone political leaders risks to be put to test going forward. The investment policy will monitor closely both the political and economic developments and react accordingly.

Allianz Euro High Yield Bond

The European sovereign crisis and concerns about global growth continued to weigh on the markets during the last quarter of 2011. The ECB launched its first three years Long-Term Refinancing Operation in December in order to provide sufficient liquidity to banks and to reduce the systemic risk. This massive liquidity injection supported the markets during the first quarter, also helped by better than expected macroeconomic data. Volatility reappeared in March because of concerns about Greece and the European sovereign debt crisis. Investors' concerns were steered up by weaker than expected global macroeconomic data and growing concerns about Spain and its banking system during the second quarter. In order to soothe the markets, the ECB underpinned its commitment to the Eurozone in July and announced the Outright Monetary Transaction in September. High Yield funds received massive inflows during the year, providing strong technical support to the market. However, given the frailty of the macroeconomic environment and the resulting deterioration of the corporate results, the fund invested mainly in fundamentally robust issuers and was selective on the primary market.

Going forward, the global macroeconomic trends will be key. US elections and the fiscal cliff will be watched closely. We expect more dispersion on the credit market.

Allianz Euro Investment Grade Bond Strategy

The Subfund invests primarily in bonds with a good credit rating (investment grade rating) from the Eurozone. Up to 5 % of the Subfund's assets may be invested in bonds with a rating between BBB– and BB–. The proportion of asset/mortgage-backed securities (ABS/MBS) is limited to no more than 20 %. The upper limit for emerging markets bonds is 10 %. Foreign currency positions exceeding 10 % of Subfund assets are largely hedged against the Euro.

In the short year under review, from the launch of the Subfund on 20 March 2012 to the end of September 2012, yields on top-rated government bonds moved close to record lows. Corporate bonds, on the other hand, still offered attractive interest rate spreads and the prospect of price gains as yields continued to fall.

In this environment the Subfund was invested almost completely in Euro corporate bonds with a good credit rating. The focus was on bank bonds, including those from institutions in the US and the UK. A broadly diversified portfolio of industrial bonds was also held, chiefly from issuers in the leading economies of the Eurozone: Germany, France and the Netherlands. There was only selective exposure to the countries in the Eurozone periphery. A small holding of securities from public-sector companies was included. Derivatives on German government bonds were used to control duration efficiently.

The average credit rating in the portfolio was A– at the end of September. In terms of maturities, a focus was on the three-to seven-year segment. The duration (average maturity) of the Subfund, including derivative financial instruments, was most recently 3.8 years<sup>1)</sup>. No investment was made in foreign currencies.

With this investment policy the Subfund obtained a significantly positive result.

Allianz Euroland Equity Growth

(formerly: Allianz RCM Euroland Equity Growth)

The Subfund primarily invests in Eurozone equity markets. Subfund management focuses on securities it considers to have growth potential that is not fully taken into consideration in the price of the security (growth approach). Its investment objective is to generate capital growth over the long term.

In the year under review to the end of September 2012, equities were subject to high volatility in view of the government debt crisis in the Eurozone and gloomier prospects for the economy. On average, however, stock market prices rose noticeably. This reflected in particular the further easing of monetary policy by the leading central banks. Equities in high-growth companies made price gains that were far above average in this environment.

Fund management invested in companies offering long-term potential for structural growth, largely independent of economic cycles. Stock-picking led to a relatively high weighting of equities from the industrial, consumer goods and

IT sectors, relative to the market capitalisation for each of these sectors. Financial and healthcare stocks in particular were only selectively represented. Equities in telecommunication and utility companies were avoided altogether, since they offered insufficient scope for growth in the opinion of fund management. In terms of countries, investment focused on the stock markets in France, Germany and the Netherlands. On the other hand, equities from Spain and Italy were less strongly represented than their market capitalisation would suggest.

With this investment policy the Subfund obtained a significantly positive result.

Allianz Euroland Equity SRI

The Subfund primarily invests in equities of companies headquartered in the Eurozone which, in the opinion of fund management, meet the conditions of Sustainable and Responsible Investment (SRI). An analysis of individual stocks indicates the extent to which companies take the following sustainability aspects into account in their business operations: social principles, observance of human rights, principles of good company management (Corporate Governance), environmental protection and ethical considerations. Its investment objective is to generate capital growth over the long term.

In the year under review to the end of September 2012, equities were subject to high volatility in view of the government debt crisis in the Eurozone and gloomier prospects for the economy. On average, however, stock market prices rose noticeably. This reflected in particular the further easing of monetary policy by the leading central banks. The stock market prices of companies operating sustainably also benefitted significantly from this trend.

The portfolio held the equities of companies which, in the opinion of Subfund management, were particularly impressive not only from a fundamental viewpoint, but also with regard to social, ethical and ecological criteria when compared with their competitors. Stock-picking produced a concentration on companies engaged in industry, commodities, energy and healthcare. Financial stocks were strongly represented in absolute terms, although the sector was underweight relative to its market capitalisation. The Subfund only had selective exposure to consumer cyclicals, utilities and telecommunications. In terms of countries, investment focused on companies in France and Germany. Stocks from the Eurozone periphery were largely avoided, since economic output was contracting in that region.

With this investment policy the Subfund obtained a significantly positive result.

In the year under review to the end of September 2012, equities were subject to high volatility in view of the government debt crisis in the Eurozone and gloomier prospects for the economy. On average, however, stock market prices rose noticeably. This reflected in particular the further easing of monetary policy by the leading central banks. Equities in high-growth companies made price gains that were far above average in this environment.

Subfund management invested in European companies offering long-term potential for structural growth, largely independent of economic cycles. Stock-picking led to a relatively high weighting of equities from the industrial, IT and consumer cyclical sectors, relative to the market capitalisation for each of these sectors. Healthcare stocks were only selectively represented due to lack of earnings momentum. Energy and commodity stocks were also underrepresented as their price potential appeared limited due to the slump in the global economy. Equities in telecommunication and utility companies were avoided altogether, since they offered insufficient scope for growth in the opinion of fund management. In terms of countries, investment focused on the stock markets in France, Germany, Sweden and Denmark. The markets in the UK and Switzerland, which are respectively very much dominated by commodity and pharmaceutical stocks, were weighted much lower than their market capitalisation would suggest.

With this investment policy, the Fund obtained a positive result, outperforming the general market for growth stocks in Europe.

Allianz Europe Small Cap Equity

(formerly: Allianz RCM Europe Small Cap Equity)

The Subfund focuses on equities of companies with low capitalisation (small caps) headquartered in Europe (excluding Turkey and Russia). Its investment objective is to generate capital growth over the long term.

In the year under review to the end of September 2012, equities were subject to high volatility in view of the government debt crisis in the Eurozone and gloomier prospects for the economy. On average, however, stock market prices rose noticeably. This reflected in particular the further easing of monetary policy by the leading central banks. Although low-cap equities likewise made high price gains given the highly volatile environment, they remained somewhat behind blue chips.

The focus of investment in the Subfund was on cyclical companies, mainly from the industrial, cyclical consumer goods, energy and IT sectors. Financial stocks were only selectively represented in view of the strained earnings situation of many institutions. The less dynamic telecommunications and utilities sectors were avoided completely. In terms of countries, stock-picking produced a concentration on Germany, Sweden and Switzerland. Although the UK market was also well represented in absolute terms, it was nevertheless noticeably underweighted in terms of its total capitalisation. This reflected the Subfund's low exposure to the financial sector in particular.

With this investment policy the Subfund obtained a significantly positive result.

Please refer to the Prospectus as well as the Key Investor Information Document for additional information on the Subfund. Information on the performance of the individual share classes of the Subfund in the reporting period can be found in the table "Performance" on pages 14 to 27.

Allianz European Equity

(formerly: Allianz RCM European Equity)

The Subfund primarily invests in equities of companies headquartered in Europe (including Turkey and Russia). Its investment objective is to generate capital growth over the long term.

In the year under review to the end of September 2012, equities were subject to high volatility in view of the government debt crisis in the Eurozone and gloomier prospects for the economy. On average, however, stock market prices of European blue chips rose noticeably. This reflected in particular the further easing of monetary policy by the leading central banks.

In this environment, companies in the consumer goods, commodity, IT and healthcare sectors were a focus of investment in the Subfund. In terms of their market capitalisation, financials were significantly underweight due to the tense earnings situation of many institutions. Stocks from the less dynamic sectors telecommunications and utilities were only held selectively. In terms of countries, stock-picking produced a concentration on Germany and Switzerland. In absolute terms, UK and French stocks were also heavily represented, but were underweight when compared to their share of the European market as a whole.

With this investment policy the Subfund obtained a significantly positive result.

Allianz European Equity Dividend

(formerly: Allianz RCM European Equity Dividend)

The Subfund focuses on equity investments in European companies from which reasonable dividend income is expected. Its investment objective is to generate capital growth over the long term.

In the year under review to the end of September 2012, equities were subject to high volatility in view of the government debt crisis in the Eurozone and gloomier prospects for the economy. On average, however, stock market prices rose noticeably. This reflected in particular the further easing of monetary policy by the leading central banks. Equities from high-dividend companies also benefited from this trend.

In this environment, the Subfund focused on dividend stocks from the sectors that as a rule have relatively high earnings, utilities and telecommunications, and from selected industrial companies. These stocks are considered particularly attractive, both from a fundamental aspect, and in consideration of their dividend stability. We invested more cautiously in the financial and energy segments, which fund management considered to have a less favourable earnings situation. The consumer goods sector was avoided for the most part, since only a few suppliers there obtain high profit margins over the long term. The Subfund's holdings also included a participation certificate from the pharmaceutical sector. In terms of countries, stock-picking produced a concentration on the UK, Germany and France.

With this investment policy the Subfund obtained a significantly positive result.

Allianz Flexi Asia Bond

Asian fixed income performed well during the third quarter of 2012, with the HSBC Asian Local Bond Index (ALBI) returned 4.06 % in USD. Both local currency bonds and USD-denominated fixed income assets have benefited from continued global monetary easing in an environment of slowing growth, which has helped bring new inflows in search of yield pick-up. Particularly in September, the stimulus measures announced by the US Federal Reserve and the Bank of Japan helped to counterbalance concerns over increasingly disappointing Asian export data. This was evidenced by the strong appetite for Asian bonds matched by a surge of primary issuance from the high grade space. We saw the CDS spreads tightening across Asian countries over the quarter, as well as a mixed picture in terms of credit actions by rating agencies, with upgrades in Philippines and South Korea and downgrades for Vietnam and Pakistan.

In Asia, we expect the China market to remain volatile amid concerns over policy uncertainties through the National Congress of the Communist Party of China meeting slated for 8 November. Given the external weakness due to anemic economic growth in Europe and the United States, we would maintain exposures to Asian markets with primarily domestic consumption catalysts such as the Philippines and Indonesia. In many areas, valuation has become less compelling given the strong performance so far. We believe capital and profit preservation may play a more dominant role in investment decisions into year end. The US dollar weakness at the end of the third quarter is likely to be short-lived and the USD could benefit in the near term as no further Fed action is likely until the end of the year when Operation Twist ends. Notably, other major central banks are also easing monetary policy and the debt crisis in Europe will not have a quick fix. In fact, recent data releases indicated that the US economy is still performing better than the Eurozone, UK and Japan. Asian currency strength might be contained as a result.

Allianz Flexible Bond Strategy

The Subfund pursues an absolute return approach and seeks to achieve an above-average risk-adjusted return in comparison with European bond markets. To this end it invests primarily in bonds of public-sector issuers and of companies headquartered in Europe (excluding Russia and Turkey). Up to 30 % of the Fund's assets may be invested in securities issued outside Europe. Positions in mortgage/asset-backed securities (MBS/ABS) are limited to 20 %. Foreign-exchange exposure exceeding 30 % of the Fund's assets must be hedged against the Euro. The duration (average maturity) of the portfolio may be adjusted within a bandwidth of minus four and plus eight years.

In the year under review to the end of September 2012, yields on top-rated government bonds moved close to record lows. Significantly higher levels of interest were paid on public-sector securities from the Euro peripheral countries, which had lower credit ratings. Corporate bonds also offered attractive interest rate spreads.

In this environment the investment focus for the Subfund was on EUR government bonds. In addition to top-rated public-sector debt securities from Germany and France, government bonds with significant spreads from Spain and Italy in particular were represented. On the other hand, government securities from the smaller Eurozone peripheral countries were avoided entirely. The extent of the government bond exposure was controlled through derivatives on the relevant market indices. The Subfund's holdings also included a holding of industrial bonds and bank bonds, almost all of which had investment-grade ratings. Positions were also taken in covered bonds from European issuers. In terms of maturities, one focus of investment was on the short- to medium-term segment, which exhibits relatively low volatility. The overall duration (average maturity) of the Subfund, including derivative financial instruments, was most recently 2.6 years<sup>1)</sup>.

With this investment policy the Subfund obtained a solid positive result.

Allianz Global Agricultural Trends

(formerly: Allianz RCM Global Agricultural Trends)

The Subfund concentrates in the global equity market on companies that profit directly or indirectly from developments in the following areas in particular: provision of agricultural production resources such as land and water; production, storage and transport of agricultural commodities; processing, transport and sale of foodstuffs and beverages as well as of non-food products (incl. wood and paper products).

The Allianz Global Agricultural Trends significantly outperformed both the broader market and the custom benchmark over the twelve months ending September 30. Agricultural commodity and equity markets were volatile over the year, and were driven higher by significant production shortfalls in South America, North America, and former Soviet Union countries. Excess returns were driven by overweighting the upstream segment, particularly fertilizer producers. Conversely, returns were hurt by our exposure to protein companies and farm machinery producers.

Though the recent strength in agricultural commodity prices was driven by weather-related events, we believe they reflect the longer-term supply/demand imbalance. Further, we feel agricultural commodity market fundamentals support a positive view toward production-oriented agricultural equities who can help farmers achieve the higher yields necessary to balance supply with demand.

Allianz Global EcoTrends

(formerly: Allianz RCM Global EcoTrends)

The investment strategy of the Subfund is to generate positive performance by constructing a concentrated portfolio based on fundamental stock selection with the clean technology sector. The period was dominated by concerns about global growth prospects and the euro debt crisis. Central banks attempted to mitigate the risks of recession and deflation by providing massive monetary stimulus which supported risk assets, however austerity concerns weighed heavily on subsidised sections of the clean technology sector.

For the period the Subfund gained 11.25 %. The Subfund benefited from its underweight to Solar and overweight to Pollution Control. Stock selection contributed to performance in Water Treatment. Andritz was the top contributor to performance as the hydro power company impressed with good results and announced its intention to use its excess cash for a large acquisition. Polypore was the leading detractor to performance as the market underestimated the potential for Lithium ion batteries.

Globally, economic growth remains scarce and policy makers are in uncharted territory, implying continuing low visibility for companies and investors. In this environment, our strategy of focusing on high quality, reasonably valued companies that are profitably accessing structural growth opportunities should continue to generate positive returns for our clients.

The investment strategy of the Subfund is to generate positive performance by constructing a concentrated portfolio based on fundamental stock selection. Most of the period was dominated by concerns about global growth prospects and the euro debt crisis. Central banks attempted to mitigate the risks of recession and deflation by providing massive monetary stimulus which supported risk assets, including global equities.

For the period the Subfund gained 27.54 % on a total return, gross of fees basis. Stock selection was positive in Information Technology, Financials and Consumer Staples but detracted in Health Care. Flowserve was the top contributor to performance. The company is benefitting from strong order growth, operating margin expansion and higher returns on invested capital. The largest detractor was Canon. While Canon's core printer, copier and camera businesses face long term secular challenges, near term the shares look oversold and should be supported by the 4.7 % dividend yield.

Globally, economic growth remains scarce and policy makers are in uncharted territory, implying continuing low visibility for companies and investors. # Allianz Global Hi-Tech Growth

(formerly: Allianz RCM Global Hi-Tech Growth)

The Subfund concentrates on the stocks of Technology companies worldwide. Its investment objective is to attain capital growth over the long-term.

In the last year, we saw a strong rally as the market stopped worrying about sovereign debt issues and recessionary risk. While high-yielding stocks were among the strongest we also saw good performance from many growth stocks, as investors looked for riskier assets.

The Subfund outperformed benchmark during this period, with all of this outperformance from stock selection decisions. In fact, we believe our outperformance would have been much better, but there were regulatory limits as to how much Apple we could own and we had a very large structural underweight in this stock, which rose 76 %. Our underweight caused Apple to be a top detractor for the Subfund. There was not a specific theme that was more important than another, and the outperformance was mainly due to owning the right companies that showed very good fundamental performance in this period, overall.

Now we look into the future and expect that stock-picking will continue to be more important than it was last year when macro issues dominated the market. Despite all the fiscal stimuli, which were necessary just to stabilize the system, growth may still be subpar and thus the most innovative companies are likely to stand out from the rest. In other words, it is not quite an “all boats rising with the tide” situation as in the boom years like 2006, but an environment where many companies will continue to struggle with growth. The scarcity value of the companies that do well going forward should earn good relative returns for the types of stock that we favor.

Allianz Global Metals and Mining

(formerly: Allianz RCM Global Metals and Mining)

The Subfund invests in global equity markets, primarily in the natural resources sector. Its investment objective is to generate capital growth over the long term.

In the year under review to the end of September, the outlook for the economy became bleaker worldwide. Even in the major emerging markets such as China, which are distinguished by their structurally high demand for commodities, growth momentum slowed. In this environment prices fell, especially for commodities with industrial usage. In addition, the sovereign debt crisis in the Eurozone had a highly adverse effect on investor sentiment at times. Against this background, share prices in the metals and mining segment only rose moderately on balance.

The Subfund remained invested chiefly in mining companies that count as leading producers in the areas of copper, coal and iron ore, which are in demand due to structural scarcity of supply. These include Chinese companies, which are oriented towards China's high demand for coal. In contrast, the positions in US coal producers were reduced since the US coal market suffered from overcapacity and the resulting pressure on earnings. Additions to the portfolio primarily included shares in gold and platinum miners. In terms of countries, investment focused on the UK, Canada, Australia and the US.

In this environment, the Subfund obtained a slightly positive result with its investment policy.

For the period the Subfund gained 28.83 %. Stock selection was positive in Financials, Consumer Services and Basic Materials but detracted in Oil & Gas. Skandinaviska Enskilda Banken was the top contributor to performance. The company benefited from the Baltic economies rebounding to deliver growth much stronger than seen in other parts of Europe. One of the largest detractors was Canon. While Canon's core businesses face long term secular challenges, near term the shares look oversold and should be supported by the dividend yield.

Allianz Greater China Dynamic

(formerly: Allianz RCM Greater China Dynamic)

China and Hong Kong equity market managed to rebound in the 4th quarter 2011 on the back of easing concerns over the European sovereign debt crisis after the announcement of a bailout plan for Greece and the positive results from the EU Summit.

In the 1st quarter of 2012, Greater China equity markets recovered strongly driven by improved investors' confidence over the global macroeconomic outlook. In Taiwan, the main focus was the Presidential election where the incumbent President Ma from the Kuomintang (KMT), who is seen as a pro-cross strait relationship leader, won the election vote by a larger-than-expected margin. Given the intensifying concerns over the euro debt crisis, economic slowdown in China and subdued earnings outlook, Greater China equities, especially for the H-shares, suffered a sharp sell-off across the board in May 2012. Investors are skeptical about the China economy with renewed concerns over a "hard" landing scenario as the reduction in the RRR had so far failed to revive real economic activity. For technology sector in Taiwan, it was seen a weakening bargaining power of Taiwan component suppliers in view of the emergence of two very strong customers, Samsung and Apple.

In third quarter of 2012, the market re-focused on the worse than expected economic slowdown in China. Although most of the results were very weak and generally below market expectation, the share prices had discounted most of these poor earnings data. Hong Kong and Taiwan equity markets rose to its four-month high with improved risk appetite by the end of third quarter.

Recent economic indicators suggest that the deceleration of the China economy has shown signs of stabilization. Coupling this with quantitative easing by global central banks and relatively low market valuations, we believe that China equities should rebound in the short term. Taiwan tech sector may see some near term support due to the positive sentiment from recent smartphone launches. Over the long term, we remain cautious on the competitiveness of Taiwan hardware equipment manufacturers amid strong global downstream players.

Allianz Growing Markets Protect

(formerly: Allianz RCM Growing Markets Protect)

The investment objective is to enable investors to participate in the performance of an approximately evenly balanced fund basket comprising Allianz RCM BRIC Stars, Allianz Eastern Europe Equity, Allianz Energy, Allianz Rohstoffonds and Allianz PIMCO Emerging Markets Bond Fund over the medium to long term. At the end of each one-year period, a minimum redemption price of 90 % of the original value is guaranteed. Interim gains of at least 5 % over the original value form the basis for a new guarantee of 90 % of the increased value. A derivative structure is intended to safeguard participation in the performance of the Subfund basket and the guarantee.

In the year under review to the end of September 2012, the sovereign debt crisis in the Eurozone and the slowdown in the economy of the industrialised countries had an adverse impact on investor sentiment at times. Prices on international stock and commodity markets were repeatedly subject to high volatility. Later on, the situation eased and equities in particular gained noticeably. Commodity prices on the other hand fell for the most part on balance. High-quality emerging-market bonds were almost constantly in demand due to their attractive yields.

In this environment the Subfund was invested, via a swap construction, in the fund basket as described above. In addition to participation in the performance of the fund basket, fulfilment of the guarantee applicable at the time was assured within the scope of the swap construction.

With its investment policy the Subfund initially obtained a slightly positive result up to its last guarantee reference date, 31 January 2012. But, by the end of the period under review, it fell slightly in view of the decline in equity market performance, which was at times substantial.

Allianz HKD Income

In September 2012, the European Central Bank (ECB) announced the OMT program which made ECB the lender of last resort to European countries, largely removed the tail-risk in the Euroland. We also saw a tightening credit spread as a result of strong rally in the credit market. Back to Hong Kong, the local interest rate market followed the US interest rate market with significant yield declined under the current minimal interest rate environment. In September, the additional round of quantitative easing from the US, together with the Fed's extended forward guidance of the ultra-low interest rate policy from late-2014 to mid-2015, is expected to keep US interest rate at a very low level. Due to the HKD-USD peg, the prolonged low interest rate environment in the US will keep HK interest market at an extremely low level and decouples from its local economic condition.

In light of the extremely low interest rate environment in the HK together with the tight credit spread, we hold a cautious stance in HKD bond investment. We favor a barbell portfolio strategy by holding a defensive stance with a relatively short duration in the HKD portion. We plan to actively identify yield enhancement strategy, especially in the Asia US dollar bonds market with the expectation that strong demand in high grade quality Asia bonds will persist as investors continue to look for yield enhancement strategy. The Subfund has an absolute return focus with the aim to deliver positive return with minimal risk. Capital preservation is extremely important under the current ultra-low interest rate environment and will remain as one of the key objective as we adopt the yield enhancement strategy for the Subfund.

Allianz Hong Kong Equity

(formerly: Allianz RCM Hong Kong)

Hong Kong stock market managed to rebound in the 4th quarter of 2011 on the back of easing concern over the European sovereign debt crisis after the announcement of bailout plan for Greece and the positive results from the EU Summit. In the first two months of 2012, the market continued to perform well on the back of macroeconomic data continued to show marked improvement, particularly those coming out of the U.S. Negative news flow relating to the investigation by Independent Commission Against Corruption involving Sun Hung Kai's majority shareholding family members and the previous Chief Secretary of Hong Kong further depressed investors' sentiment on the Hong Kong equity market in March.

Given intensifying concerns over the euro debt crisis, economic slowdown in China and subdued earnings outlook, Hong Kong equities suffered a sharp sell-off across the board in May 2012. On monetary policy front, the People's Bank of China cut the Required Reserve Ratio three times by 50 basis points each, and two asymmetric interest rate cuts, in response to a moderate economic slowdown. In 3rd quarter of 2012, the market re-focused on the worse than expected economic slowdown in China. Although most of the results were very weak and generally below market expectation; the disappointing earnings results had generally limited impact on share prices, which had discounted most of these poor earnings data. Hong Kong equity market rose to its four-month high with improved risk appetite, after US announced another round of quantitative easing in mid-September.

Allianz Income and Growth

The Subfund invests primarily in a combination of equity instruments, bonds and convertible bonds from issuers in the US or Canada. The weighting of the asset classes may vary to a considerable extent, depending on the assessment of economic and market-specific factors. Its investment objective is to attain capital growth and regular income over the long-term.

In the year under review to the end of September 2012, the sovereign debt crisis in the Eurozone and the slump in the global economy had an adverse impact on investor sentiment at times. Prices on US stock markets were accordingly highly volatile at first. During this phase, US Treasuries were mainly in demand. Later on, the situation eased, with mainly stocks and non-government interest-bearing paper making the most notable gains.

In this environment the Subfund's pure equity investments comprised almost one third of its assets. Leading US companies from the IT, consumer cyclicals, industrial and energy sectors were at the forefront. In some equity positions, call options were additionally used to control the overall exposure. The bond element consisted, in particular, of convertible bonds, chiefly from the industrial segment. The duration (average maturity) of the portfolio stood at just under three years<sup>1)</sup>. The average rating of the paper held was in the upper non-investment-grade segment at BB at the end of the period under review.

With this investment policy the Subfund obtained a significantly positive result.

Allianz India Equity

(formerly: Allianz RCM India)

From 1 October 2011 to 30 September 2012, MSCI India gained 7.51 % in USD terms. The Indian market was also a beneficiary of the global beta rally which happened twice in 2012, once in January and then at the end of the third quarter in September. Indian rupee depreciated due to increasing fiscal and current account deficit. Inflation continued to be sticky as wholesale price index averaged 7.88 % during this period, although it came down from an average of 9.45 % during last year (October 2010 – September 2011). This easing of inflation led to change in the direction of monetary policy wherein the central bank cut the benchmark rates by 50 bps in March. The benchmark rates have been left unchanged since then at 7 %.

The Subfund outperformed the index during the period. Stock selection in industrial and financials helped relative outperformance. Our overweight in financials and healthcare sector helped us outperform while overweight in materials hurt the performance.

Foreign inflows were strong in India. Over last year foreign institutions poured $15.45 billion in the Indian equity markets. A strong domestic economy with relatively higher return on equity helps India maintain foreign inflows. Although twin deficit and sticky inflation are causes of concern for the economy, we expect foreign inflows to remain strong unless government fails to maintain its fiscal discipline target. Global factors might determine the commodities price movement but domestic economy should continue to do well. Asset quality concerns for the banking sector and slowing consumer discretionary spend provide some downside risk. However monetary easing coupled with fiscal action should arrest any major change in sentiments. Over long term we continue to remain positive on the Indian equity markets.

Allianz Indonesia Equity

(formerly: Allianz RCM Indonesia)

From 1 October 2011 to 30 September 2012, the Indonesian JSX Composite gained 20.1 % in rupiah terms. The Indonesian market was one of the best performing markets due to tremendous economic growth. A stable political environment and consistent economic growth has lured foreign money into the Indonesia stock market over the period.

The Subfund outperformed the JSX Composite index slightly in USD term. Stock selection in the industrial sector was the main contributor, followed by energy and materials. Allocation in consumer staples, consumer discretionary hurt relative performance.

We remain positive on the outlook for the Indonesian economy although in recent months, the country's current account has seen deterioration. We believe the reason behind such weak current account was due to the domestic investment surge. We are, therefore, confident that the deficit would be temporary. Going into 2013, political noise would begin to surface as different parties jostle for position in preparation for the upcoming election in 2014. We remain overweight in industrial sector which should see increasing order from public infrastructure projects.

The Japanese equity market rallied in the first quarter of 2012 on the back of monetary easing by Bank of Japan which announced an inflation “goal” of 1 %. Reflecting this action, the Japanese yen broke 83 against US$ in March. However, global economy had slowed down from spring as situation in debt crisis in Europe worsened and affected negatively to the real economy. In addition, demands in emerging countries weakened due to the tight monetary policy. In this environment, corporate earnings were under pressure which resulted in downward revision of its forecasts in H2 2012. As a result, equity market declined after strong period in the first quarter of 2012.

The market could remain sensitive to the situation in European debt crisis and economic condition in China. Earnings forecasts of Japanese corporations had been revised down but they are expected to be bottomed out towards the end of the year as US and China economy recovers. As for the valuation, price to book ratio is 0.9x which is the historical low. Regarding the politics, general election in lower house is expected till next summer at latest. LDP is likely to gain its power and pressure to Bank of Japan for aggressive easing is likely to intensify which could result depreciation of JPY and will give positive impact to exporters. Despite short term uncertainty, we expect Japanese equity market to show solid performance

Allianz Korea Equity

From 1 October 2011 to 30 September 2012, the Korean KOSPI index rose 12.8 % in KRW terms and rallied 19.7 % in USD terms and up 25 % in EUR terms. While stock market performance was rather patchy due to ups and downs relating to the still-lingering Eurozone risk, currency gain was much stronger as quantitative easing in developed markets kept the EUR and USD at lower levels. In 2012 Korea's sovereign rating was upgraded by all 3 rating agencies, Moody's, S&P and Fitch, helping KRW's strength.

The Subfund underperformed the index during the period. Our stock picks in the materials sector helped the Subfund's performance yet our stock picks in the consumer discretionary sector worked against the Subfund's performance.

We expect the market and macro economy to remain challenging for the near term while the government continues to provide support for recovery. At the moment, the Korean market is trading near the historical average multiple which does not provide particularly attractive buying opportunities. Nonetheless, we believe investment opportunities will appear for companies with strong earnings growth potential capturing market shares while developed market competitors are suffering. Also, policy is likely to be targeted to help middle-class households and small-size business. We may also find opportunities in these targeted areas.

Allianz Little Dragons

(formerly: Allianz RCM Little Dragons)

From 1 October 2011 to 30 September 2012, the MSCI AC Asia ex JP Mid Cap Index returned 18.63 %, calculated by USD total return. Comparing to the Asia ex Japan large cap space, the mid cap index underperformed on one year basis ending in the third quarter of 2012. However, the mid cap index outperformed slightly during the third quarter of 2012, indicating that the mid cap companies benefited slightly more amid US quantitative easing policies and lowered concerns on European debt crisis after Outright Monetary Transactions Program (OMT).

The Subfund underperformed the index slightly during this period (in terms of USD). On a sector level, stock selection in Consumer Discretionary and our overweight in Financials hurt relative performance; while stock selection in Industrials and Information Technology helped. By country, stock selection in South Korea detracted significantly from relative performance, while stock selection in China and Indonesia helped.

We stay cautious on the near term outlook on Asian markets due to the deteriorating global environment and the slower consumption growth in some Asia countries. However, we do not see a risk of a hard landing on Asian economies, as we still believe the authorities in the region can deploy looser policies to restore growth. We expect China's economic growth to trough over the next two quarters; however the pace of recovery over the next six months is expected to be slow. New measures and directives implemented by the new government (transition expected to be completed in November) will be closely monitored. In terms of portfolio strategy, we will continue to stay overweight in China/HK, while stay underweight in South Korea and Taiwan. We keep looking for South Asian companies with reasonable valuation and secular growth potential. In terms of sectors, we are positive in Indonesian Industrial estate companies, and remain cautious on the gaming sector due to weak consumption trend amid global financial crisis.

Allianz Oriental Income

(formerly: Allianz RCM Oriental Income)

Equity markets recovered during the 12-month period after going through the crash scenario in third quarter of 2011. A more benign inflation outlook gave central banks space to implement monetary easing to stimulate the economy. In China, authorities responded to weaker macro numbers by cutting RRR, as well as key interest rates for the first time since December 2008. In Japan, the yen weakened substantially in the first quarter as the Bank of Japan increased its quantitative easing program to support the nation's export sector. However, the yen rebounded sharply in the second quarter as investors sought safe haven assets.

The Subfund returned to the positive territory. Thailand, Singapore, and Pakistan were the top performing countries, while Taiwan detracted. By sector, healthcare and energy performed strongly, while materials and consumer discretionary underperformed.

We expect the global economy to remain in a “muddle through” scenario going forward. In Europe, we maintain our base case view of no Eurozone breakup. In China, we maintain our view of no “hard-landing”; Growth is slowing, but at a decelerating pace. While this may disappoint in the near term, we believe it is positive in the longer term for the Chinese economy. On the portfolio level, we maintain our strategy to seek companies with sustainable cash flow and dividend.

Allianz PIMCO Euro Bond

The Subfund invests primarily in bonds with a good credit rating (investment grade rating). Corporate or emerging-market high-yield bonds may also be included. Foreign currency positions are largely hedged against the fund currency. The investment objective is an above-average return in the long term.

In the year under review to the end of September 2012, yields on top-rated government bonds moved in the vicinity of record lows. Significantly higher levels of interest were paid on public-sector securities from the Euro peripheral countries, which had lower credit ratings. Corporate and emerging-market bonds also offered attractive interest rate spreads.

A focus of the Subfund in this environment was on Eurozone government bonds. In addition to public-sector bonds from the core countries of Europe (Germany, France and the Netherlands), this included Spanish and Italian securities with significant spreads. International bank bonds, asset-backed securities and emerging-market bonds were also included. The Subfund also invested to a limited extent in emerging-market currencies with the potential to appreciate.

In all other respects the Subfund was invested almost fully in Euros or hedged against the common currency. The average credit rating in the portfolio was A+ at the end of September. In terms of maturities, a focus was on the seven to ten-year segment. By contrast, the very long-term segment was only selectively represented. The duration (average maturity) of the Subfund, including derivative financial instruments, was below the average level of the broad Euro bond market at the most recent figure of 5.1 years<sup>1)</sup>.

With this investment policy the Subfund obtained a significantly positive result.

Allianz PIMCO Treasury Euro Bond Plus 2013

The Subfund is part of the Treasury Funds family, which is intended for the liquidity and asset management of institutional investors. It invests primarily in interest-bearing securities with a good credit rating, while largely avoiding any foreign exchange risk. In addition, up to 10 % of the Subfund's assets may be invested in high-yield bond securities. The investment strategy is supported through the use of derivatives. The duration is based on the final maturity of the Subfund. The investment objective is to obtain an above-average return in comparison with direct investment in bonds, with volatility on a par with the benchmark.

In the year under review to the end of September 2012, yields on top-rated government bonds in the short-dated segment were just above the zero mark as a result of the low interest rate policies pursued by the central banks. High-quality non-government issues on the other hand still offered interest rate spreads.

Asset-backed securities with the highest credit ratings dominated in the portfolio, chiefly mortgage bonds or similar bonds from European issuers (covered bonds). Top-rated public-sector securities were the main additions to the portfolio. Corporate and emerging market bonds were only represented on a selective basis, while no investment at all was made in high-yield securities. The average credit rating in the portfolio was AA at the end of September. In view of the Subfund's approaching final maturity date, its duration (average maturity), including derivative instruments, was shortened to a good two months<sup>1)</sup>. Foreign currency positions were largely hedged against the Euro.

With this investment policy the Subfund obtained a solid positive result.

Allianz PIMCO Treasury Short Term Plus Euro

The Subfund invests primarily in interest-bearing securities with a good credit rating, while largely avoiding any foreign exchange risk. In addition, up to 10 % of the Subfund's assets may be invested in high-yield bond securities. The investment strategy is supported through the use of derivatives. A short-term duration is aimed at. The investment objective is to obtain an above-average return, with volatility on a par with the benchmark.

In the year under review to the end of September 2012, the European Central Bank dropped its key interest rate to 0.75 % in view of low inflation and recessionary tendencies in parts of the Eurozone. Potential returns were correspondingly low in the very short-term segment of the Euro bond market.

The focus of the portfolio was on public-sector securities from Eurozone countries and mortgage bonds or comparable European instruments (covered bonds). Short-term corporate bonds, including high-yield paper, were the main additions to the portfolio. There were also holdings in asset-backed securities (ABS/MBS). The portfolio included a small amount of selected emerging market bonds with a good credit rating. The duration (average maturity) of the Subfund, including derivative financial instruments, was most recently a good 8 months<sup>1)</sup>. Foreign currency positions were almost completely hedged against the Euro.

With this investment policy the Subfund obtained a positive result.

Rebound of real estate securities has been linked to renewed confidence on Economic environment and sovereign debt crisis. Property companies are benefitting from long leases with rents indexed to inflation, solid financial profiles, and medium term projects.

Regarding financial structures, property companies has taken advantage of debt market situation to raise debt at cheap cost.

On the direct real estate markets, we expect that prime assets will outperform secondary ones. Property companies should be able to create and protect value on the medium term, offering a sustainable dividend.

Allianz Renminbi Currency

(formerly: Allianz RCM Renminbi Currency)

From 1 October 2011 to 30 September 2012, market concerns over a potential hard-landing scenario in China weighed negatively on both onshore and offshore RMB currency during the first half of 2012. Over the one year period, we have observed a tighter spread between CNH and CNY spot rates, reflecting maturing flows and improving efficiency in arbitrage between onshore and offshore markets. Both the RMB remittance for cross-border trade settlement and RMB interbank clearing transactions in HK increased significantly, reflecting the increasing importance of RMB as a trade currency. The CNH deposit base dipped YoY during the period, partly due to the capital flow back to onshore market and the increasing traction of the offshore CNH bond and certificate of deposit offering. The tight offshore liquidity situation has urged HK Banks to offer higher deposit rates. We continue to see a convergence in onshore and offshore RMB yield across all tenors. At the short end, the 3 month CNH deposit yield reached an historical high above 3 % in August 2012, surpassed CNY yield for the first time. The issuance of CNH CDs remained strong in 2012, with the outstanding amount at RMB 98 bn as at end of August 2012.

We expect the RMB to largely remain in a relatively tight trading range in the near-term. The RMB internationalisation process is expected to continue, with policies in place to boost the development of the offshore Renminbi market (CNH), whilst promoting cross border flows between the onshore (CNY) and the CNH market, encouraging use of the RMB as a trade settlement currency. With the increasing accessibility to the CNH market, the CNH non-deliverable forward (NDF) contracts, which used to be regarded as the proxy for RMB movement expectations, should at least still better reflect the interest rate differentials between the Chinese and US markets going forward.

Allianz Renminbi Fixed Income

(formerly: Allianz RCM Renminbi Fixed Income)

From 1 October 2011 to 30 September 2012, market concerns intensified over a potential hard-landing scenario in China; therefore bringing volatilities into both the onshore (CNY) and the offshore (CNH) RMB market, with both currencies depreciating throughout the first half of 2012, before some strengthening in the third quarter of 2012. We have observed a tighter spread between CNH and CNY spot rates, reflecting maturing flows and improving efficiency in arbitrage between onshore and offshore markets. The CNH deposits dipped YoY during the period, partly due to the capital flow back to onshore market and the increasing traction of the offshore CNH bond and certificate of deposit offering. The tight offshore liquidity situation has urged HK Banks to offer higher deposit rates. We continue to see a convergence in onshore and offshore RMB yields across all tenors, with yield spread over 5 year government bonds tightened to around 30 bps as at Sep 2012, compared to over 150 bps a year ago. In the CNH fixed income space, the issuance remained strong in 2012, mainly driven by CDs. This market continued to attract interest from multinational issuers, leading to a more diversified issuer profile.

We believe that a soft landing scenario is likely in China, with the government adopting a stable currency policy rather than allowing the RMB to depreciate, as suggested in recent news flow. The RMB internationalization process is expected to continue, with policies in place to boost the development of the offshore Renminbi market (CNH), whilst promoting cross border flows between the onshore (CNY) and the CNH market, encouraging use of the RMB as a trade settlement currency. We believe the depreciation expectation on RMB is due to cyclical factors and that the yield component should be the main driver of performance of the CNH market going forward, especially given the attractive yields offered by offshore China government bonds compared to most developed markets.

Allianz Structured Alpha Strategy

The Subfund pursues a model-based absolute return approach that utilizes a broad range of call and put options on the US equity market. The Subfund's cash is invested in a Euro-denominated money market and bond portfolio. The Subfund's investment objective is to generate a superior risk-adjusted return over the course of a full economic cycle.

During the period beginning October 1, 2011 and ending September 30, 2012 the US equity market increased significantly (calculated in US Dollars). The upward movement was driven by continued central bank efforts to stem the European sovereign debt crisis. Despite the strong year, the intra-period volatility was significant. The market had two periods where the broad indices declined almost 10 % and then subsequently rallied meaningfully – from late October to late November and from early May to the first week of June. At the same time, levels of market volatility (as measured by the VIX ®) spiked almost 50 and 70 % respectively, but over the course of the year have declined meaningfully.

In this environment the Subfund applied a broadly diversified options strategy consisting of call and put positions on the US equity market index options. The Subfund was able to construct wide profit zones that led to increased payoffs, particularly in the first half of the year. These profits were subsequently re-invested in a portfolio comprising German and French government bonds with the highest credit ratings. The Subfund significantly outperformed its benchmark index for the period.

Allianz Target Return Bond

The Subfund is designed as a rolling maturities fund: from launch it is invested in a bond portfolio, whose duration (average maturity) is oriented towards the Subfund's first target date (28 April 2017). After this date the Subfund is invested in money-market instruments for four months, before its assets are reallocated to a portfolio with fixed maturities. The characteristics of this portfolio correspond to those at the time of launch. This process is repeated over an extended period of time. Within the scope of the bond portfolio, up to 45 % of the Subfund's assets may be invested in securities which, on acquisition, are high-yield bonds. Asset/mortgage-backed securities (ABS/MBS) may not be acquired. Up to 30 % may be invested in bonds from emerging markets. Foreign currency positions comprising more than 10 % of the Subfund's assets must be hedged against the EUR. The investment objective is to obtain a return at the level of the global bond markets or a near money-market return, while maintaining the characteristics as a maturities or money-market fund.

In the short year under review, from the launch of the Subfund on 02/05/12 to the end of September 2012, yields on top-rated government bonds moved close to record lows. Corporate bonds on the other hand still offered attractive interest rate spreads and the prospect of price gains as yields continued to fall.

In this environment the Subfund was invested almost completely in Euro corporate bonds. The focus was on industrial bonds, chiefly from issuers in the core countries of the Eurozone. A portfolio of bank bonds was also held, including some from the US and the UK. There was only selective exposure to the smaller countries in the Eurozone periphery. The average credit rating in the portfolio was BBB at the end of September. The duration (average maturity) of the Subfund, including derivative financial instruments, was most recently 3.3 years<sup>1)</sup>. No investment was made in foreign currencies.

With this investment policy the Subfund obtained a significantly positive result.

Allianz Thailand Equity

(formerly: Allianz RCM Thailand)

From 1 October 2011 to 30 September 2012, the Thailand SET index gained 41.76 % in Baht term. Despite the central part of the country was inundated in the last quarter of 2011, the market remained resilient and foreign inflows was strong.

The Subfund strongly outperformed SET in USD terms. The outperformance came mainly from industrial names while health care sector hurt the relative performance.

While the mid to long term outlook for the country remains robust, underpinned by the consumption expansion of the rural areas, we believe the market would see volatility shorter term especially after such a strong performance last year. The health of Thailand's current account would be dependent on the recovery of Europe and US. Having stated that, however, trades within the South Asia region are accelerating, especially with Vietnam, Cambodia and Myanmar and it could provide a buffer from any severe current account deterioration. Longer term, Thailand would be the main beneficiary from the growing region given its close ties and proximity with these countries. We remain constructive on consumer names that will benefit from the growing consumption base in the rural areas. Additionally, we are overweight in construction names as we believe infrastructure activities would remain robust going forward.

Allianz Tiger

(formerly: Allianz RCM Tiger)

From 1 October 2011 to 30 September 2012, the MSCI AC Far East ex Japan Index gained 21.5 % in USD terms. The market saw big swings in terms of index performance amid global market uncertainty due to European debt crisis, worsening economic fundamentals in Europe and US, as well as concerns on China hard-landing. Towards the end of the one year period, the global market was boosted by positive sentiment coming after the stimulus policies from global central banks (EU, US and Japan). Asia markets reacted particularly well compared to the world markets.

The Subfund during the period performed largely in line with the benchmark. On a country level, we saw major detraction from stock selection in South Korea; while stock selection in China and Singapore helped. Comparatively speaking, country allocation effects were muted. By sector, stock selection in Consumer Discretionary and Telecom Services hurt; while stock selection in Financials and IT helped.

We believe that the external and internal weakness will continue to weigh negatively on Asian markets in the next six months. However, we do not see a risk of a hard landing on Asian economies, as we still believe the authorities in the region can deploy looser policies to restore growth. We expect China's economic growth to trough over the next two quarters; however the pace of recovery over the next six months is expected to be slow. Going forward, we will continue to maintain our cyclical tilt in North Asia, while selecting quality yield names in South Asia to better position during the current economic uncertainties. Overall we stay positive on regional chemical names and companies that can benefit from industrial automation trend in Emerging Asia countries. At the same time, we remain cautious on Taiwan technology sector due to the unattractive positioning along the value chain.

Allianz Total Return Asian Equity

(formerly: Allianz RCM Total Return Asian Equity)

From 1 October 2011 to 30 September 2012, the MSCI AC Far East ex Japan Index gained 17.2 % in GBP terms. The market saw big swings in terms of index performance amid global market uncertainty due to European debt crisis, worsening economic fundamentals in Europe and US, as well as concerns on China hard-landing. Towards the end of the one year period, the global market was boosted by positive sentiment coming after the stimulus policies from global central banks (EU, US and Japan). Asia markets reacted particularly well compared to the world markets.

The Subfund has during the one year period ending in the third quarter of 2012, marginally underperformed the benchmark, MSCI AC Far East Ex Japan. During the period, stock selection in Consumer Discretionary and Telecom Services hurt the performance; while stock selection in Materials, Consumer Staples and Energy helped. On a country level, stock selection in China helped the performance significantly; while stock selection in South Korea was the major detractor.

We believe that Asian markets will continue to see slower growth in the next six months, partly as a result of the deteriorating global environment affecting exports, and partly because of slower consumption growth. However, we do not see a risk of a hard landing on Asian economies, as we still believe the authorities in the region can deploy looser policies to restore growth. We expect China's economic growth to trough over the next two quarters, with a slow pace of recovery. New measures and directives implemented by the new government (transition expected to be completed in November) will be closely monitored. On portfolio level, we will stay generally overweight in the China/Hong Kong market. In the near term, we will maintain our cyclical tilt in North Asia and look into names that can benefit from the new round of easing policies. We will continue to select quality yield names in South Asia to better position during the current economic uncertainties.

Allianz US Equity Dividend

(formerly: Allianz US Large Cap Value)

The Allianz US Equity Dividend searches for dividend paying stocks with low valuation multiples from among the top 1,000 U.S. market cap universe. The Subfund normally holds 40–60 stocks and typically remains fully invested. Factors such as price-to-earnings, price-to-book, dividend yield and price momentum, among others, determine weightings, which are either 2 % or 4 % at time of investment.

Equity markets continue to be driven by macro-economic factors including the U.S. fiscal cliff, U.S. regulatory and tax policy, the U.S. Presidential election, the Eurozone crisis, extended monetary stimulus, and slowing growth worldwide. Uncertainty has paralyzed normal corporate activity, as management puts hiring, borrowing and capital investing decisions on hold. Capital markets seem reliant on liquidity injections to support asset prices. In the U.S., quantitative easing has expanded the Federal Reserve's balance sheet by nearly $1.5 trillion. In addition, the Fed's commitment to exceptionally low rates through mid-2015 continues to weigh on income-generating investments and savings. Investors have plunged into dividend-paying securities to replace traditional sources of income causing valuations to rise among higher-yielding and more defensive equities, such as Telecommunications Services, Utilities and REITs.

Allianz US Equity Fund

(formerly: Allianz RCM US Equity Fund)

The Subfund concentrates on stocks of companies that are domiciled in the U.S.A. Its primary investment objective is capital appreciation with income as a secondary objective. The fund's goal is to outperform the S&P 500 Index.

As many of the world's major economies continued to struggle, global central banks initiated new stimulus measures to revive economic growth worldwide which helped U.S. equity indices end the period near all-time highs. In light of the tepid economic recovery in the U.S., most notably in the labor market, the Federal Reserve announced a third round of bond purchases at the end of the third quarter of 2012 and indicated they would likely keep the benchmark federal funds rate near zero until at least mid-2015. In the euro zone, investors applauded the European Central Bank's plans to purchase short-maturity debt of fiscally stressed countries like Spain and Italy.

The Subfund appreciated in absolute terms but underperformed the benchmark over the reporting period. While both stock selection and sector allocation were negative, the bulk of the underperformance was driven by stock selection. Stock selection among consumer discretionary and materials stocks hurt active performance while stock picking among energy and financial stocks helped.

Looking forward, we remain cautiously optimistic on U.S. equities over the next 12 months. Economic reports in the U.S. have been improving recently, including a recent uptick in employment and housing data. However, investors are facing uncertainty as we head into the Presidential election in November and approach the looming year-end spending cuts and tax increases.

In the coming months, we will continue to adhere to our investment process and remain focused on identifying undervalued companies undergoing positive change.

Allianz US High Yield

From October 1, 2011 through September 30, 2012, Allianz US High Yield returned 17.39 %, while its benchmark, the BofA Merrill Lynch US High Yield Master II Index, returned 18.94 % during the reporting period.

Performance over the twelve-month period can be segmented into three distinct time frames.

In the first half of the reporting period, the markets reflected, without any real hesitation, that the risks to the U.S. economy had diminished. The most obvious factor driving the rally was the decoupling of U.S. and European financial risk. As the economic statistics, corporate earnings and specifically, the housing market showed improvement, the odds of a double-dip recession fell off the table. Corporate bond spreads tightened as prices rose. Bond prices rose to more accurately reflect the lack of balance sheet risk for the average issuer in the market.

Investor sentiment over the next two months was in stark contrast to the sentiment shift seen in prior months when investors felt the risks to the U.S. economy had diminished. By early April, fear and macro concerns returned. Despite some softening in the broad economic statistics in the U.S., the real focus was on the day-to-day reports regarding the developments throughout Europe. With little direction and no discernible timetable toward resolution for all of the financial woes across several countries, investors sold risk assets.

Over the remaining four months of the reporting period, macro factors led investor demand higher and increased returns. The balance-sheet strength seen throughout 2012 remains the driving force behind widespread confidence in high-yield issuers. However, corporate profits reported in the second quarter were good but not stellar, and the economic statistics in the US and abroad were mixed. In spite of these variables, the actions and language of global monetary policy leadership, specifically in the US and Europe, were decidedly accommodative. For the better part of the last two years, investors have been presented with strengthening corporate profits against a backdrop of macro volatility. This quarter the macro factors reversed, and the markets responded with enthusiasm. Due to the scale of the commitments by the European Central Bank and the Federal Reserve, market observers consistently used terminology such as “game changing”, “eliminating tail risk” and “establishing downside protection” to describe the Fed’s actions. Whether monetary policy actually creates these results or not is another matter. Demand for high-yield bonds was significant in the period, which both boosted prices and led bankers to rush deals to the new-issue market.

The attribution for the reporting period’s performance came from a wide number of contributors.

One area of relative weakness in the fund resulted from the spike in prices of the lowest quality issuers. The CCC performance was the highest of the rating categories. The aforementioned macro monetary policy action caused a new burst of risk appetite that drove investors to stretch for yield. In many cases, weaker second-quarter earnings and/or downward guidance were ignored, and prices of these issuers rose in the period. This type of environment has been seen before, and ultimately the fundamentals drive the return of the bonds.

Issue selection contributed positively to relative performance. In particular, holdings in the Energy, Homebuilders/Real Estate and Transportation Ex Air/Rail industries benefited results. Homebuilders continue to exceed expectations in order demand, in earnings and in balance-sheet improvement. In Energy, the relative performance was due to positive issuer-specific positioning. The group has performed well in aggregate for the last several quarters, but now there are areas of weakness, and the fund is positioned well for that shift.

Industry allocations that hurt relative performance in the period included Technology, Metals/Mining and Banking. Generally, materials-related issuers lagged in the period. Prices softened due to less certainty about the global economy, and the perception of demand for materials shifted. The Subfund had a minimal weight in Banking, and the more than 27 % rally in the group was impactful. The portfolio continues to be underweight Banking, as the issuers are primarily either foreign or the securities themselves are the lowest/weakest priority in the capital structure. Lastly, an underweight of specific large-benchmark issuers in Telecom hurt during the period.

The outlook for the high-yield asset class is constructive. Credit statistics unanimously support investment in the asset class. Leverage ratios and interest coverage ratios are near, or better than, levels seen in the past 20 years. Cash levels of investment-grade issuers remain high, and acquisition activity is ongoing.

Economic statistics have eroded in some cases, but not to a degree that would change the outlook. Significant refinancing activity for the past three years has essentially eliminated near-term amortization risk. The Fed has been joined by global monetary leaders in an accommodative stance. Policy leaders have acted through asset purchases, guarantees and continuing quantitative easing. All of these factors combine to create an environment where defaults are low, and should stay low, for an extended period.

Spreads ended the month at approximately 575 basis points over comparable Treasuries. Spreads narrowed in the quarter, but not materially. This stage of the market cycle from a statistical perspective is best compared to the mid 1990s and mid 2000s – market environments that exhibited economic stability, low defaults and ample liquidity. The high-yield market has priced in a default-rate forecast that is higher than the current rate. The spread also provides ample protection should interest rates move higher in the future. The yield generated by high-yield issues relative to the risk associated with the asset class is clearly attractive. Both revenue and earnings have been consistently better in the last several quarters. However, revenue growth became more difficult to achieve in the second quarter. As the third quarter numbers are released, investors will need to be more nimble and thorough in their analysis as the winners and losers will become more apparent.

The Fed reiterated a long-term commitment to keep short rates low. However, if a rising-rate forecast is included in an asset allocation strategy decision, an allocation to high yield is an obvious choice. Among fixed-income alternatives, high-yield bonds can be a contributor from both a diversification and relative-performance perspective.

Nearly all strategists agree that the outlook for credit is constructive, with minimal defaults projected for both 2012 and 2013. The combination of healthy balance sheets, low defaults, accommodative monetary policy and the pure lack of other yield options for investors has driven the market higher. On a year-to-date basis, high-yield bonds' low-double-digit return has met many strategists' full-year return targets. If rates and the environment remain in their current condition, coupon-like return should be anticipated over the next twelve months.

We continue to build your portfolio one company at a time by identifying companies that are opportunistically capitalizing on change. At Allianz Global Investors Capital, we recognize that the long-term driver of total return in a high-yield portfolio is company fundamentals. Because fundamentals can only be discovered and monitored through rigorous credit analysis, which is the cornerstone of our approach, we will continue to apply our successful philosophy and process to managing change and information.

Protect Global Winner 2014

The Subfund seeks, by means of financial derivatives, a 115 % participation in the average performance of eight equity baskets with a total of 24 international stocks up until 25 April 2014. The performance of the best equity basket since launch is locked in on certain key dates. This equity basket is then ignored. At the same time, a minimum redemption price of EUR 100 is guaranteed as at 25 April 2014. From 26 April 2014 the Subfund's assets are placed in a money market-oriented investment for not more than 40 banking days. Then a new equity basket structure is built up with the aim of 100 % participation.

In the year under review to the end of September 2012, the sovereign debt crisis in the Eurozone and the slowdown in the economy of the industrialised countries had an adverse impact on investor sentiment at times. Prices on international stock and commodity markets were repeatedly subject to high volatility. Later on, the situation eased and equities gained noticeably on balance.

The Subfund remained oriented towards participation in the performance of the equity baskets through a swap agreement. In this respect the Subfund was invested in participation certificates on equity indices. Their performance was swapped with the swap counterparty for participation in the performance of the equity baskets. The Subfund also aimed at capital preservation in relation to the net asset value of the Subfund on launch, within the scope of the swap construction at final maturity.

With this investment policy the Subfund obtained an almost balanced result in an environment of high volatility for equity prices.

Please refer to the Prospectus as well as the Key Investor Information Document for additional information on the Subfund. Information on the performance of the individual share classes of the Subfund in the reporting period can be found in the table "Performance" on pages 14 to 27.

Allianz Currencies Strategy

(formerly: Allianz RCM Currencies Strategy)

The Subfund sought to obtain returns through strategies aimed at taking advantage of inefficiencies and opportunities on global currency markets. It used derivative financial instruments such as forward currency transactions, futures, options and swaps. It also had a portfolio with a money-market-related risk/return profile. The overall objective was to obtain capital growth over the long term.

In the short year under review, which ended with liquidation of the Fund on 11 June 2012, global currency markets were dominated by strong exchange rate movements on a sustained basis. These movements partly reflected continued concerns about the stability of the Eurozone and partly the economic situation in some emerging markets. As a result the Euro was under considerable selling pressure at times. In Latin America the Brazilian Real in particular depreciated on balance, in view of the slowdown in growth. Although the Chinese Renminbi gained slightly against the Dollar overall, it tended to move sideways recently, with volatility.

In this environment, the Subfund used derivatives to pursue a variety of strategies on the global currency markets. On the one hand, positions were taken in the key currencies US Dollar, Euro and Yen. On the other, the Subfund also held positions in emerging-market currencies that were likely to appreciate or depreciate from emerging markets and commodity-rich industrialised countries. The Subfund's liquidity was also invested in the Euro money market, chiefly in public-sector securities with very high ratings.

With its investment policy, the Subfund obtained a slightly negative result overall.

Please refer to the Prospectus as well as the Key Investor Information Document for additional information on the Subfund. Information on the performance of the individual share classes of the Subfund in the reporting period can be found in the table "Performance" on pages 14 to 27.

Allianz RCM Global Unconstrained

The Subfund invested in the global equity and money markets within a flexible asset structure but, depending on the opinion of fund management, it could also fully invest in cash and cash equivalents. Its investment objective was to generate capital growth over the long term.

In the short year under review, until the merger of the Subfund into Allianz Global Equity on 24 July 2012, equities were subject to high volatility in view of the debt crisis in the Eurozone and gloomier economic data. On average, however, stock market prices rose strongly, especially in North America.

In this environment, equities from the US, Australia and Canada dominated in the Subfund. Only selective investments were made in the stock markets of Europe and Japan on the other hand. We included in particular equities of Chinese companies that are traded in Hong Kong. At sector level the emphasis was on energy and commodity stocks and on pharmaceuticals. There were only a few positions held in the financial sector, which suffered widely from weak earnings. The Subfund's liquidity was raised considerably at times in view of the high fluctuation in prices.

Please refer to the Prospectus as well as the Key Investor Information Document for additional information on the Subfund. Information on the performance of the individual share classes of the Subfund in the reporting period can be found in the table "Performance" on pages 14 to 27.

Allianz RCM USD Liquidity

After a tumultuous third quarter as global markets went through a mini crash scenario over the European sovereign debt crisis, market conditions recovered during the 12-month period ending September. Central banks around the world engaged in expansionary policies to stimulate growth. The Federal Reserve provided additional monetary easing, at the end of the third quarter of 2012, in the form of an open-ended mortgage-backed securities purchase program at a pace of $40 billion per month until a significant improvement in the economy and labor market. In addition to the newly announced at the end of the third quarter of 2012, the Fed extended its 0–0.25 % interest rate guidance from late-2014 to mid-2015.

The Subfund underperformed the benchmark during the reporting period.

The latest round of QE is different from the previous Fed purchase programs by not specifying a time horizon which these purchases would be conducted and may last till the Fed sees signs of improvement in the economy. This shows that the Fed has entered into a new era of QE with the aim to improve the labor market condition and boost economic recovery as opposed to the target of mitigating distress in financial markets in previous QE. These moves also indicates the Fed's strong commitment in providing accommodative measures to ensure economic recovery can be continued.

Allianz Tech Alpha Plus Strategy

(formerly: Allianz RCM Tech Alpha Plus Strategy)

The Subfund sought to participate in the performance of a long/short equity strategy focusing on the technology, telecommunications and media sectors (Tech Alpha Plus Strategy). The strategy aimed to reduce the net equity risk but could not neutralise it completely. The Subfund participated in the strategy through a derivative structure. This allowed the Subfund to invest in a portfolio that mainly comprised securities related to the US money market (excluding high-yield securities). Its investment objective was to achieve above-average risk-adjusted returns over the course of a complete market cycle.

In the short year under review, from the launch of the Subfund on 11 October 2011 to liquidation on 29 May 2012, the sovereign debt crisis in the Eurozone and the slowdown in the economy of a number of industrialised countries had an adverse impact on investor sentiment at times. Prices on international stock markets were repeatedly subject to high volatility. On balance, however, US stocks in particular gained in value.

In line with its investment concept, the Subfund used a swap to pursue a long/short strategy oriented towards US technology, telecommunications and media stocks. The Subfund's liquidity was invested in high-quality US money-market instruments, dominated by first-class public-sector paper from European issuers.

With this investment policy the Subfund obtained a negative result and so underperformed its benchmark.

Please refer to the Prospectus as well as the Key Investor Information Document for additional information on the Subfund. Information on the performance of the individual share classes of the Subfund in the reporting period can be found in the table "Performance" on pages 14 to 27.

Valuation of Assets

The value of the assets held by the Subfunds is determined as follows:

- Cash, term deposits and similar assets are valued at their face value plus interest. If there are significant changes in market conditions, the valuation may be made at the realisation price if the Company can cancel the investment, the cash or similar assets at any time; the realisation price in this sense corresponds to the sales price or the value that must be paid upon cancellation to the Company.

- Investments that are listed or traded on an exchange are valued based on the latest available trade price on the stock exchange which constitutes in principle the principal market for this investment.

- c) Investments traded on another regulated market are valued at the latest available trade price.
- d) Securities and money-market instruments whose latest available trade prices do not correspond to appropriate market prices, as well as securities and money-market instruments not officially listed or traded on an exchange or on another regulated market, and all other assets, are valued on the basis of their probable sales price, determined prudently and in good faith.
- e) Claims for reimbursement from securities lending are valued at the respective market value of the securities and money-market instruments lent.
- f) The liquidation proceeds of futures, forward or options contracts not traded on exchanges or on other regulated markets means their net liquidating value determined, pursuant to the policies established by the Board of Directors, on the basis of calculations consistently applied for all types of contracts. The liquidation proceeds of futures, forward or options contracts, which are traded on exchanges or on other regulated markets, are determined based upon the latest available trade price of these contracts on exchanges and regulated markets on which the particular futures, forward or options contracts are traded by the Company. If futures, forward or options contracts cannot be liquidated on the day with respect to which net assets are being determined, the basis for determining the liquidating value of such contracts is such a value as the Board of Directors deems fair and reasonable.
- g) Interest-rate swaps are valued at their market value by reference to the applicable interest rate curve.
- h) Index and financial instruments-related swaps are valued at their market value established by reference to the applicable index or financial instrument. The valuation of the index or financial instrument-related swap agreement is based upon the market value of such a swap transaction established in good faith pursuant to procedures established by the Board of Directors.
- i) Target fund units in undertakings for collective investment in transferable securities ("UCITS") or undertakings for collective investment ("UCI") are valued at the latest redemption price determined and obtainable.

Transaction costs

Transaction costs take into consideration all the costs that were reported or charged separately for the accounts of the Subfunds in the period from 1 October 2011 to 30 September 2012, and which are directly related to the buying or selling of particular assets. Not all transaction costs are separately identifiable. For fixed income investments, forward currency contracts and other derivative contracts, transaction costs will be included in the purchase and sales price of the investment. Whilst not separately identifiable these transaction costs will be captured within the performance of each Fund.

Certain custodian fees are transaction related and they are included in the caption “administration fee” in the statement of operations. These transaction costs are not included in the above mentioned amounts.

Administration Fee

In return for the payment of the administration fee the Management Company releases the Company from the following, conclusive enumerated commissions and expenditures:

- the administration and custody fee of the Custodian;
- the fee of the Registrar and Transfer Agent;
- costs of the preparation (including translation) and dissemination of the Prospectus, Key Investor Information, Articles of Incorporation as well as annual, semi-annual and, if any, interim reports and other reports and notifications to Shareholders;
- costs of publishing the Prospectus, Key Investor Information, Articles of Incorporation, annual, semi-annual and, if any, interim reports, other reports and notifications to Shareholders, tax information, as well as Subscription and Redemption Prices, and official announcements made to the Shareholders;
- costs of auditing the Company and its Subfunds by the auditor;
- costs of registering the Shares for public distribution and/or the maintenance of such registration;
- costs of preparing share certificates and, if any, coupons and coupon renewals;
- paying agent and information agent fees;
- costs of assessing the Subfunds by nationally and internationally recognised rating agencies;
- expenses in connection with the establishment of a Subfund;
- costs related to the use of index names, in particular licence fees;
- costs and fees incurred by the Company and by third parties authorised by the Company relating to the acquisition, use and maintenance of in-house or thirdparty computer systems used by Investment Managers and Investment Advisors;
- costs related to obtaining and maintaining a status authorising the direct investment in assets in a country or to act directly as a contracting partner in markets in a country;
- costs and expenses by the Company, the Custodian and third parties authorised by the Company or the Custodian in connection with monitoring of investment limits and restrictions;
- costs for calculating the risk and performance figures and the calculation of performance-related fees for the Management Company by third parties appointed to do so;
- costs related to obtaining information about general Shareholders' meetings of companies or about other meetings of the owners of assets as well as costs related to direct participation or participation through authorised third parties in such meetings;
- postage, telephone, fax and telex fees.

Merger of Subfunds

For Subfunds concerned by mergers that happened during the period (absorbing Subfunds), shareholders, while recomputing the average price of subscriptions/redemptions, might not obtain a figure that fit with the highest issue price and lowest redemption price disclosed in the notes to the financial statements. This is due to the specific tax neutral treatment of the assets transferred to the absorbing Subfund.

Retrocession of Management Fees

The investment management fees of certain underlying funds, in which some Subfunds invest, are partially or totally rebated by the investment managers of such underlying funds which have entered into agreements with Allianz Global Investors Luxembourg S.A. Those amounts have been classified under caption other Income.

Taxation

The Company is not liable to any Luxembourg tax on profits or income, nor is any income earned by any Subfund of the Company liable to any Luxembourg withholding tax.

The Company is, however, liable in Luxembourg to a tax of 0.05 % p.a. of its net asset value on equity, balanced and bond funds and of 0.01 % p.a. on money-market funds and their institutional share classes and the institutional share classes of equity, balanced and bond funds. This tax is payable quarterly based on the net asset value of the Subfunds at the end of the relevant quarter.

Korean withholding tax

In 2011, the Korean Tax Authorities have issued retroactively for the period from 2006 to 2011 a tax claim in relation to dividends paid by Korean companies over this period. The corresponding due amounts have been accrued together with the current taxes due. The total amount for the Fund amounts to EUR 1,751,118.10, including in particular USD 710,340.59 for Allianz Little Dragons, USD 451,591.55 for Allianz Korea Equity and USD 566,311.29 for Allianz Total Return Asian Equity. The amount is classified under the caption “other expenses” for the Subfunds investing in Korean equities.

Securities Prices

In accordance with the Prospectus the net asset values have been calculated by reference to the valuation day.

The financial statements presented in this report have been prepared on the basis of the latest calculated and published net asset values in the period.

Fair Value Pricing

A fair value pricing model is used for several Subfunds. A fair value pricing model means that the value of certain assets will be adjusted to more accurately reflect their fair value based upon certain criteria. Such adjustments may occur during monitoring periods as defined by the Board of Directors from time to time, if a single country equity risk exposure (excluding equity exposure held via target funds) of a Subfund reaches or exceeds a certain trigger level, as defined by the Board of Directors from time to time, on the first Valuation Day of the respective monitoring period and, at the respective Subfund's deadline for receipt of applications, the main stock exchange of the respective country is already closed during normal course of business. If the aforementioned conditions are fulfilled the value of Subfund's assets which form part of the respective single country equity risk exposure based on the closing prices of the relevant country's main stock exchange is compared to their estimated value at the moment when the Subfund's Net Asset Value is calculated; the estimation is based on the movement of index orientated instruments since the close of business of the respective country's main stock exchange. If such comparison leads to a deviation in Subfunds estimated Net Asset Value by, at least, a certain trigger level, as defined by the Board of Directors from time to time, the Subfund's Net Asset Value will be adjusted accordingly to the extent that the unadjusted value would not represent their actual value.

Soft Commission Agreements/Commission Sharing Arrangements

“Soft Commission Agreements/Commission Sharing Arrangements have been undertaken in respect of the Company.

The Company may pay, or be responsible for payment of, soft commissions only insofar as:

- a) the Management Company and/or the Investment Managers, as the case may be, act at all times in the best interest of the Company and the shareholders when entering into soft commission arrangements;
- b) the goods and/or services provided by the broker-dealers relate directly to the activities of the Management Company and/or the Investment Managers, as the case may be, and such activities are of demonstrable benefits to the Shareholders; and
- c) any such soft commission is paid by the Management Company and/or the Investment Managers, as the case may be, to broker-dealers which are corporate entities and not individuals.

During the Fund's fiscal year, services which are paid for through or by soft commissions were in majority limited to research, market analysis as well as data and quotation services.”

Transactions with Connected Parties

The Company has entered into agreements with the Management Company Allianz Global Investors Luxembourg S.A. under which management and performance fees are payable. The annual management and performance related fees are disclosed in the combined Statement of Operations on page 100.

Information on the management fee rates charged to the funds is shown in the table on pages 616–631. Further details on fees payable by the Company can be found in the current prospectus.

As at 30 September 2012, the Company held investments into other funds that were managed by the Management Company or other companies belonging to the same group as the Management Company. There were no transactions with connected brokers during the fiscal year.

Collateral Management

For some Subfunds, the Management Company has implemented collateral management processes to mitigate counterparty risks with OTC-counterparties. OTC-transactions are effected on the basis of standardised contracts that also provide for respective requirements in relation to accepted type of eligible collateral and discounts for collateral valuation (“haircuts”). The collateral management is performed by collateral managers, normally the respective investment manager of the Subfund.

Ongoing Charges

The Ongoing Charges are costs incurred by the Subfunds (or the respective Share Classes) during the preceding financial year (excluding transaction costs) and are expressed as a ratio of the average volume of the Subfunds (or of the average volume of the respective Share Classes) ("Ongoing Charges"). In addition to the management and central administration fee and administration fee, as well as the Taxe d'Abonnement, all other costs are considered except for the incurred transaction costs and any performance-related fees. Costs incurred will not be subject to cost compensation.

If a Subfund invests more than 20 % of its assets in other UCITS or UCI that publish Ongoing Charges, the Ongoing Charges of these other UCITS or UCI are taken into consideration when calculating Ongoing Charges for the Subfund (synthetic); however, if these UCITS or UCI do not publish their own Ongoing Charges, then it is not possible to take the Ongoing Charges of the other UCITS or UCI into consideration when calculating Ongoing Charges. If a Subfund does not invest more than 20 % of its assets in other UCITS or UCI, any costs that may be incurred at the level of these UCITS or UCI are not taken into consideration.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the judgment of the "Réviseur d'entreprises agréé", including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the "Réviseur d'entreprises agréé" considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by the Board of Directors of the SICAV, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Opinion

In our opinion, the financial statements give a true and fair view of the financial position of Allianz Global Investors Fund and of each of its Subfunds as of 30 September 2012, and of the results of their operations and changes in their net assets for the year then ended in accordance with Luxembourg legal and regulatory requirements relating to the preparation of the financial statements.

Other matters

Supplementary information included in the annual report has been reviewed in the context of our mandate but has not been subject to specific audit procedures carried out in accordance with the standards described above. Consequently, we express no opinion on such information. However, we have no observation to make concerning such information in the context of the financial statements taken as a whole.

Determining the market risk and leverage effect

As part of the risk-management procedure the market risk of the Subfund is measured and limited either using the commitment or Value-at-Risk (VaR) approach (relative or absolute VaR) in accordance with Circular 11/512 issued by the Luxembourg Supervisory Authority. When determining the market risk of the Fund, the commitment approach takes into account the additional risk that is generated through the use of derivative financial instruments. The VaR approach represents a statistical method for calculating the potential loss arising from value changes in the whole Subfund. The VaR calculation is generally based on the “Delta Normal” method (confidence level of 99 %, an assumed holding period of 10 days, data history of 260 days), otherwise the alternative calculation method is shown in the following table.

As at the end of the financial year, the following approach applied to the Subfunds for calculating the market risk:

The minimum, maximum and average risk budget utilisation (RBU) of the Subfunds in the period under review can be seen in the following table. For Subfunds using the relative value-at-risk (VaR) approach, the utilisation is reported in relation to the limit stipulated by the regulatory authorities (i.e. 2 times the VaR of the defined benchmark). For Subfunds using the absolute

VaR approach, it is reported in relation to the absolute VaR limit indicated in the table above. The table also shows the average leverage effect of the Subfunds in the period under review. The average leverage effect is calculated as the average total of the nominal values of the derivatives, while taking into account basic netting effects.
